Commissioners and Prosecutor At Impasse Over Grant Funds

COMMISSIONERS HAVE REFUSED PROSECUTOR CULWELL'S REQUEST FOR RAISE FOR LEGAL ADMINISTRATOR

By Michele Smith | THE TIMES

DAYTON - At the close of their Sept. 7 meeting, Columbia County Commissioners and Columbia County Prosecutor Rea Culwell discussed the idea of seeking mediation to help overcome an impasse regarding how to utilize excess funds from a federally funded crime victim advocacy grant. The disagreement now threatens business as usual in Columbia County and Dayton.

Last year the U.S. Department of Commerce tripled funding for crime-victim advocacy. In Washington, every county prosecutor's office received additional money from the grant for improved recruitment and retention of personnel, through higher compensation.

Culwell's office was awarded approximately $68,500 for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 2016. The previous year, her office received a victim advocacy grant of just over $37,000.

Last month, Culwell approached the commissioners about using some of the additional grant money for salary increases in her department.

An e-mail received by Culwell from the commissioners' office, dated Aug. 18, states that the commissioners proposed the following partial use of the additional grant funds: increasing the deputy prosecuting attorney's weekly hours by five, with a corresponding salary increase, hiring a new full time employee to replace the legal assistant, who was to retire at the end of 2016, and utilizing five percent of the grant for administrative costs and audit expenses, to be deducted from the grant.

However, Culwell's request for a $3,568 annual salary increase for Michelle McCleary, who is the legal administrator in the prosecutors' office, was denied by the commissioners. The email, which is signed by Commissioner Dwight Robanske, stated that all salary increases for county employees will be reviewed during the 2017 budgeting process.

When asked why the discrepancy in willingness to use some of the grant money for Culwell's request, but not for McCleary's salary, Commissioner Robanske said the commissioners' decision was based on an increase in hours for the deputy prosecutor, and that

Pioneer Fall Festival is Sept. 18

Waitsburg's traditional celebration honors local history

By Dena Wood | THE TIMES

WAITSBURG - Waitsburg welcomes each fall with its traditional one-of-a-kind Pioneer Fall Festival. The festival, a celebration of local history, takes place the third Sunday of each September on the Bruce House Museum lawn.

The festival will open with an outdoor nondenominational church service on the Bruce Museum lawn at 11 a.m. Pioneers of the Year, siblings Velma Sickles and Delbert Mock will be recognized following the service.

After the ceremony, guests will travel back in time as they tour the museum campus where they can watch artisans demonstrate bygone skills such as blacksmithing, lace making, spinning, sack sewing, butter churning, wood carving, candle making, and more. Car enthusiasts will want to be sure and take in the vintage automobiles lining the street outside the museum.

FIVE APPLICANTS VIE FOR EMPTY COUNCIL SEAT

Waitsburg city council will hold interviews at Sept. 15 special meeting

By Dena Wood
THE TIMES

WAITSBURG - The Waitsburg City Council will choose from five applicants when they vote to fill a vacant city council seat during a special council meeting at 6 p.m. on Thurs. Sept. 15. Applicants include Karen Greggitt, Jeanie Miller, Lisa Morrow, Jim Davison, and Debra Callahan.

The open council position became available when former Waitsburg Mayor Walt Gobel resigned last month. At their August council meeting, council members voted to have Mayor pro tem Marty Dunn fulfill Gobel's term. This left an empty seat which the council opted to fill through an application and interview process.

Had the council chosen to offer the seat to the next-highest vote-getter from the April election, the seat would have gone to Greggitt. She received 193 votes in the election, just eight votes behind Karl Newell, who took the fifth place seat with 201 votes.

Greggitt has made her home in Waitsburg since 2005 and has said she is eager to contribute her professional expertise and fresh ideas to promote and enhance Waitsburg. Her career experience includes 30 years as managing partner at Kaye-Smith Productions in Seattle, producing and directing commercials. She serves as chairperson of the city planning commission, and represented Waitsburg at regional shoreline management review meetings.

Callahan was elected to city council in 2013 when she unseated Scott Nettles by two votes to claim the fifth council seat. Callahan gave up that seat this year when she made an unsuccessful bid for mayor. She is a longtime community member and has said she hopes to have the opportunity to take Waitsburg's great resources and make them even better.

Davison is no stranger to local politics. He previously served on City Council and, when Mayor Tom Baker resigned in

PIONEER PORTRAITS

Ten Years Ago

September 21, 2006

Finding answers to important questions and making resulting decisions are in the Waitsburg City Council's future in the aftermath of the portion of the Columbia Complex Fire that swept through the City watershed in the North Coppei Creek canyon in August. Questions revolve around water quality, reforestation and potential for flooding, according to Dan Katsel, Public Works Director for the City.

The only cloud that cast a shadow on the Pioneer Fall Festival last Sunday was that its 2006 Pioneer of the year, the late Roberta Stonecipher Broom Adams, couldn't be there to receive the community's thanks and appreciation. Her son Jeff Broom graciously accepted honors in her stead and her husband, Carroll Adams, also spoke a few words about Roberta's remarkable life.

Twenty-Five Years Ago

September 19, 1991

Wow! What a party. The party got off to a thundering start, what with 933 "out-of-towners" popping in for the best salmon bake around at the community building. Ivan Keve and the Commercial Clubbers – with an able assist from the Waitsburg Lions – served up a night to remember of great food and friendship. No wonder one out-of-towner told our reporter he starts thinking about next year's salmon feed the first morning after the last one.

The number of high school students attending Wait-Hi is expected to rise 15 percent in four years, according to figures released by school officials. "I am not comfortable that this building is going to hold 170 or 175 students," school superintendent Ed Larsen said, after seeing the projections. Currently, there are 156 students in all grades at the high school. By 1993, the number is projected to increase to 176; by 1995 to 180.

Fifty Years Ago

September 15, 1966

We were pleased to see that Jeannie Pearson, 13-year-old daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A.S. Pearson of Waitsburg was the top judge in 4-h Horse judging t the Columbia County Fair last weekend. We know that Jeannie put a lot of miles on her horse, "Smokey o," an Arab gelding during the past two weeks. "Smokey" wouldn't climb aboard a trailer for the trip into Walla Walla for the Fair there on September 1, 2, 3 and 4, so Jeannie rode him into town from Waitsburg. The trip took from 7:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. Jeannie was accompanied by Michelle Saranovich, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mickey Saranovich, also of Waitsburg. Both girls also rode their horses back to Waitsburg when the events were over.

The Buttons and Bobbins 4-H Sewing Club exhibited at the S. E. Washington Fair with ribbons being won by Jill Zuger, Ann Hubbard, Debbie Smith, Sandy Kenney, Karen Webber, Jenny McKinney, Linda McKinney, Helen Marie Long, Susan Maib, Barbie Gagnon and Janet Roberts.

Seventy-Five Years Ago

September 18, 1941

Roy Allen and John Clodius came home Tuesday night from a couple of days fishing for Chinook salmon at Celilo Falls, on the Columbia River.

The Preston-Shaffer Milling Co. flour mill in this city is entirely shut down and has been for the past ten days. Lack of boat space on the Western seaboard at the present time is given as the cause.

The lineup for Friday's game with Lind as announced by Coach George Blume will be Donnie Wills, Andrew Weir, Richard Roberts, Gordon Arthurs, Earl Arthurs, Captain Jack Blize, Raymond Jeremiah, Dorne Hall, Richard Wolfe, Earl Cusick, and Glen Hofer.

Mrs. George Bateman this week sold her one-story brick building adjoining Hamilton's Electric Store, to W.T. Hamilton. Mr. and Mrs. Chas. E. Shaffer have just purchased the residence property at the corner of Orchard and West Sixth Streets, which belonged to the late Mrs. Ella Steele.

One Hundred Years Ago

September 22, 1916

Additional operations have started in the gas fields northeast of Kennewick. The Walla Walla Gas and Pipe Co. has started drilling with a standard drill. Seven automobiles carrying gas and oil enthusiasts from Walla Walla, Dayton and Waitsburg visited the region Sunday and Monday.

Emory and Malcolm McCown arrived home Friday from several days spent at Wallowa Lake and vicinity, where they spent ten days fishing.

N.B. Atkinson Friday stated his crop consisted of 9000bushesl of wheat and 2500 sacks of oats.

One Hundred Twenty-Five Years Ago

September 25, 1891

The Ladies Cornet Band of Dayton, furnished the music for Columbia County's fair. A good drawing card, that.

The finest grapes we have seen this season were left at this office last Saturday with the compliments of Garl Taylor.

We hear it rumored that the roads in this district are to be strawed. We hope the rumor is well founded.

The train on the Main Line and the grain on the Dayton branch of the U. P. road ran into each other at Bolles Junction on Tuesday night. No one was hurt, and but little damage was done to either train.

Gary Johnson's Worst Week in Washington

By Chris Cillizza, The Washington Post

Everything seemed to be coming up Gary Johnson when the week started. No one liked the two major party candidates. (OK, maybe not no one but lots and lots of people.) The first presidential debate was still almost three weeks off. It looked like there might be a real chance for Johnson to make the debate stage alongside Hillary Clinton and Donald Trump!

Then Johnson went on MSNBC's "Morning Joe." And it all came tumbling down. Here's the exchange between Johnson and Mike Barnicle:

BARNICLE: "What would you do, if you were elected, about Aleppo?"

JOHNSON: "About?"

BARNICLE: "Aleppo."

JOHNSON: "And what is Aleppo?"

And, scene.

Aleppo, as you almost certainly know, is a city in Syria that has been at the heart of that country's ongoing civil war. It has been the epicenter of the refugee crisis. It is also the oldest continuously inhabited city in the world.

Given all of that, not knowing what it is comes very, very close to disqualifying yourself when running for the highest office in the country. Which is very unfortunate if you are Gary Johnson, desperate for even the slightest crack in the electoral door to push your way through.

Johnson quickly and self-deprecatingly apologized for his mental slip and insisted it was a misunderstanding that led to him his slow-motion car wreck of an answer.

Here's the thing: If you are a third party candidate, you might get one or, at most, two moments in the course of a campaign in which you move from the fringes of the coverage to the center of it. You must capitalize on those opportunities. It's your only chance to make the debates. (A candidate needs to average 15 percent in a selected group of national polls to qualify.) And if you can't make the debates, you don't have a chance.

Johnson got that moment in the sun this past week. But it was for all the wrong reasons. His support won't disappear entirely because, well, Trump and Clinton are still the alternatives. But any possibility of a Johnson surge just disappeared.

Gary Johnson, for swinging, missing and then injuring yourself while falling over at the one pitch you might get to hit all election, you had the Worst Week in Washington. Congrats, or something.

Chris Cillizza writes "The Fix," a politics blog for the Washington Post. He also covers the White House.

Trump and Clinton Are At That Age When Things Start Happening

By David L. Scheine, Special to The Washington Post

Eight years ago, I wrote a medical report on the health of then-presidential candidate Barack Obama, whose personal physician I had been for 22 years. That report was 276 words and described Obama's health as excellent. I was derided for issuing such a brief report, but there was nothing of significance in the medical history of this healthy, 47-year-old male. Meanwhile, Republican John McCain - a 71-year-old with a history of skin cancer - made nearly 1,200 pages of records available for a group of reporters to review.

Today, the two major candidates for president are each almost as old as McCain was in 2008. Having been in practice for 50 years serving a predominantly geriatric patient population, and now a septuagenarian myself, I can attest that the American people need much more medical information from these candidates. If elected, 70-year-old Donald Trump would be the oldest person ever to enter the Oval Office, while Hillary Clinton, 68, would be a close second, behind Ronald Reagan. At these ages, stuff begins to happen.

What do we know about Clinton? Importantly, she deserves credit for issuing a useful two-page letter from her doctor in July 2015, but unfortunately that document raised as many questions as it answered.

We were told that Clinton has an underactive thyroid that is being treated with a replacement hormone and that she has a history of suffering thrombophlebitis (venous blood clots) in her legs. This leads me to wonder if these clots were provoked by trauma or some other cause, since unprovoked clots have a more worrisome prognosis. Around the time of her 2012 fall and concussion, Clinton suffered a venous thrombosis in her brain, and she is now on a blood thinner called Coumadin. This is a difficult drug to control, and close monitoring of prothrombin times - a measure of how long it takes a person's blood to clot - is necessary. We physicians should see a record of her prothrombin times to assess adequacy of control. Being on Coumadin, she would have to avoid certain foods, such as green leafy vegetables, and avoid medications with problematic interactions. There are new anticoagulant medications that don't require such monitoring or diet and drug restrictions. Why isn't she on this more efficacious medication?

It took Clinton up to six months to make a full recovery, and for two months, she had double vision. This was not a simple concussion. In 2013, her doctor's letter reported, her neurologic exam was normal. But that was three years ago. Concussions can cause cognitive decline. Would a current neuro-psychologic exam show any change?

This is all somewhat unfair to Clinton, however, who ends up being placed under greater scrutiny as a consequence of acting more responsibly than her opponent. We can ask specific questions about her health because she has been willing to share some important information, even if it is inadequate. In contrast, we know nothing about Trump's health.

A one-page letter from his doctor - a gastroenterologist, not the type of physician who usually provides primary care - reported that Trump's "strength and stamina" were "extraordinary." We were told "unequivocally" that he would be "the healthiest individual ever elected to the presidency." This stunningly unprofessional, hastily written letter contained only minimal medical information.

We essentially have no medical information on Trump. It's impossible to know what questions to ask. We're told he has had "no significant medical problems." We are told that Trump plays golf regularly. We are told that his "cardiovascular status is excellent." I would very much like to see documentation of all this. In particular, in view of his somewhat erratic behavior during the campaign, I believe Trump also should undergo a neuro-psychologic evaluation; if normal, this would at least put an end to speculation that he has a personality disorder. He is a septuagenarian asking voters to place him in one of the most demanding jobs on earth. We need to see his medical records.

Throughout this country's history, from Woodrow Wilson's stroke to Franklin D. Roosevelt's polio to John F. Kennedy's Addison's disease, Americans have repeatedly not been given important medical information about their leaders. It's no wonder they are asking so many questions this year, but speculation and unanswered questions don't serve anyone very well - not the voters, not the candidates. McCain set the standard. The medical reports from Clinton's and Trump's personal physicians do not suffice.

Donald Trump's 'Outreach' Isn't Working

By James Downie, The Washington Post

Last month, as Donald Trump showed his campaign manager the door (again) amid stalling poll numbers, the GOP nominee started trying to make amends for all the alienating things he had said about minorities and women. He apologized for causing "personal pain" with some of his remarks. He started courting black voters. He tried to "soften" his language on immigration. Finally, it seemed that Trump realized that he could not win in November with just the voters that had won him the primary.

But Sunday's new Washington Post-ABC poll shows that with only two months to go, this outreach has not worked. Overall, Hillary Clinton leads Trump by five percentage points with likely voters -- a small drop from her eight-point lead just after the Democratic convention, but a formidable gap nonetheless given that the convention bounces have now faded. When asked if they think "is or is not biased against women and minorities," 60 percent of Americans say he is -- the same number as in the August Post-ABC poll and up four percent from the July poll.

The demographic breakdown on that question looks even worse from Trump. Sixty-six percent of women think he is biased. So do 75 percent of Hispanics and 77 percent of African-Americans; 59 percent of independents answer in the affirmative, including 69 percent of female independents. Even 37 percent of self-described conservatives see him as biased -- a strikingly high number in such a polarized electorate.

In some ways, it shouldn't be surprising that minorities in particular have continued to dislike Trump, since the talk of "outreach" has been just that -- talk, and when he's not scripted, Trump has trouble avoiding saying offensive things. But as Jamelle Bouie has pointed out in Slate, the goal of Trump's minority outreach wasn't really to win over minorities themselves; it was "to salvage Trump's standing with college-educated whites, who have turned decisively against the alleged billionaire for his outright bigotry and general buffoonery."

And in the Post-ABC poll, college-educated whites are not buying what Trump is selling. Fifty-seven percent of college-educated whites say the GOP nominee is prejudiced, including 61 percent of college-educated white women. At this point, the only group of voters that doesn't think Trump is biased is white men without a college degree (and even 38 percent of them say he is). As faulty a candidate as Clinton is, there is no way a candidate wins with numbers like that.

There are other pieces of good news for Clinton in the poll. Despite her poor "honest and trustworthy" numbers, Clinton wins 46 percent to 41 percent on who "is more honest and trustworthy" and has bigger leads on who has the better "temperament," who "better understands the problems of people like you" and who "is closer to you on the issues." President Barack Obama's approval rating is now at 58 percent, his highest number since the early months of his presidency -- which can only help Democrats. The window for a Trump recovery is closing fast.

TOWN HALL NEEDS HELP

Dear Editor,

The upper windows on the front of Waitsburg Town Hall need be replaced to prevent weather damage to the structure as well as improve efficiency. The Board would also like to replace the street-level windows in the North and South Fire-side rooms to improve efficiency.

Town Hall is a non-profit trying to take in enough from rentals to cover operating and repair expenses—the same as all homeowners. Even though it has been a reasonably good year financially for Town Hall there are only enough funds to replace the upper windows at this time. The Board decided to have a fund raiser spaghetti feed on Halloween next month to raise additional money in the hope of funding the entire project. It is hoped doing so will also help families trying to get the kids out to trick-or-treat by saving parents from having to prepare dinner that evening. Additional details will be available next month.

Anyone wishing to donate to help replace the windows at Town Hall may do so by sending a check to Waitsburg Town Hall, PO Box 122, Waitsburg, WA 99361. Any board member would gladly see that your donation makes it to our treasurer, as well. All help to complete this needed project is greatly appreciated. Town Hall's board members are: Ron Standing- President, Jim Romine-Vice President, Jim Davison-Secretary, Larry Johnson-Treasurer, Ron Griffen, Karl Newell, and Jim Walsh.

Throughout the day, visitors can enjoy tours of the Victorian Bruce Museum which was taken over by the Waitsburg Historical Society in 1971 and restored by volunteers. The museum features historically accurate rooms filled with original furniture and décor and period antiques, many donated by local families. Musicians will perform in the museum parlor throughout the day.

The Wilson-Phillips House, located just behind the Bruce Museum will also be open for tours. The home currently features a Waitsburg Musical History Exhibit showcasing antique instruments, old sheet music, historic photos, and vintage WHS band and majorette uniforms.

Upstairs, the museum features several themed rooms, including a military room, a hat and dress room, and a sewing room.

Outside the Wilson-Phillips House, guests will want to take a look at the detailed replica of Wait's Mill, built by Kevin Blair and Paul Baumgart. The replica represents the mill that gave the city its name, as it would have looked shortly after it was built in 1865. The Wilson-Phillips garage also contains mill artifacts and memorabilia.

When it comes to entertainment, there will be plenty. Grandma & The Boys, Switchgrass, The Turners, and other local musical groups will perform throughout the afternoon on the main stage. For those who would rather play than listen, a bluegrass jam is open to all in front of the Wilson-Phillips House.

Visitors can enjoy horse drawn wagon rides, old-fashioned children's games and arts and crafts demonstrations. The Second Annual Pie-oneer Pie Baking Contest begins at 12:30 and the popular vintage fashion show will take place at 2:30 p.m. on the Bruce House lawn.

There will be plenty of food available as well, including The Q Barbeque specialties, gumbo from the Whoop 'Em Up Café, L&B Kitchen's wheatberry chili, and ice cream, coffee, and pastries offered by local groups.

The Pioneer Fall Festival is hosted by the Waitsburg Historical Society as a service to the community.

1986, pro tem Davison finished out Baker's term. He ran the following year and was elected for the 1986-87 term.

"Due to recent circumstances, including the resignation of Mayor Walt Gobel, it seemed having someone with previous experience in Waitsburg's city government was preferable to attempting to introduce someone lacking that experience at this time. By applying for the vacant position the remaining council members are given that option to consider when making their choice," Davison said.

Miller is another longtime resident, but is new to the political arena. "If I can help in any way I'll be happy to do so. One of my best suits is that I'm a listener. I like to know all aspects of a situation before making a decision," she said.

Morrow grew up in Dayton and Walla Walla and has lived in Waitsburg for the last 13 years. She is a 4-H leader and serves as treasurer of the Home and School Association. Morrow said she was requested to apply for the position.

"I thought it would be a good opportunity. I love our little town," she said.

The applicants will be interviewed before the council at the special Sept. 15 meeting at 6 p.m. at the Lions Club Building at the Waitsburg Fairgrounds. The council is expected to make a selection at that meeting and the chosen candidate will serve until next spring's elections.

The next regular council meeting will be held Tues., Sept. 20, at 7 p.m.

CITY FILES INJUNCTION AGAINST COLUMBIA CO. PROSECUTING ATTORNEY

DAYTON—According to Mayor Craig George, the City of Dayton has filed an injunction, in Columbia County Superior Court, against the Columbia County Prosecuting Attorney Rea Culwell, for breach of contract. The reason is because the PA has not given the required one year notice of intention to discontinue services to the city, Mayor George said.

The injunction was filed Tuesday, and a hearing was expected to be held in Columbia County Superior Court on Wednesday.

New Health Care Services In CCHS's Future

Addition of psychiatry, hyperbaric wound care, assisted living options, palliative care planned

By Michele Smith | THE TIMES

DAYTON—In his report to the Hospital Board of Commissioners on Sept. 8, Columbia County Health System CEO Shane McGuire said active marketing by his marketing team is paying off in getting patients to utilize Dayton General Hospital for their health care needs.

Marketing has been accomplished at Kadlec Medical Center, St. Mary's Providence Hospital in Walla Walla, and elsewhere, since McGuire has instituted an active marketing plan, he said.

McGuire attributed active marketing to a strong inpatient volume in July, which exceeded the revenue budget by $138,000, and the highest volumes the Emergency Room has seen in four years.

"We're thankful they are coming here," McGuire said.

McGuire said his team would be meeting with the discharge planner at St. Mary's Hospital this month to make sure they continue to be happy with their referral outcomes, and that their needs are being met.

"We have a fantastic team. The recipe is working," said McGuire.

New services that patients can expect in the CCHS network in the near future include hyperbaric wound care, enhanced mental health care services, assisted living options, and palliative care.

McGuire said the process to participate in a three-year behavioral health and primary care integration project with the University of Washington has begun, and psychiatrist Dr. Daniel Varnell will begin offering integrative mental and physical health services at CCHS beginning Oct. 1.

"If we get selected, we will be pioneers very early on," said McGuire about the project.

Work continues on bringing hyperbaric wound care to CCHS, McGuire said. McGuire said Dr. Frauenpreis has fulfilled his most recent wound care training for wound care certification, and that some nurses have also received wound care certification, one of which is in diabetic care.

The services are already offered, but would be greatly enhanced with a hyperbaric component, he said.

McGuire said a critical aspect would be whether funds are available from the hospital renovation project, in order to make some minor facility modifications, to support the hyperbaric chambers.

CCHS Board President Bob Hutchens said that the board members see assisted living as an essential component of their strategic plan for the community.

McGuire said that research is continuing into whether some Booker Rest Home beds can be turned into assisted living apartments, and that a square-foot study on some of the rooms has been done.

Research is also being done into regulation and certification for establishing a group home as an interim option, said McGuire.

"We could buy a house in Dayton with a CNA on site for 4-6 people," McGuire said to the commissioners.

Also, Director of Nursing Stephanie Carpenter will be training and pursuing certification in palliative care, with the intention of offering a palliative care program at CCHS, McGuire said.

In his financial statement McGuire told the commissioners he would be talking to HomeStreet Bank in the near term about loans to help with cash flow. The number of days cash on hand were 18.9 in July.

Chairman Hutchens reminded the commissioners that the auditor said the average is 128 days, but Hutchens thought a realistic number for CCHS would be between sixty and ninety days.

Auditor Tom Meyers said that accounts receivable continues to rise, as work continues on outstanding billing issues with external billing partners.

Meyers said that gross patient revenue for July was $54,000 higher than it was in June, with inpatient acute and swing bed revenue very high.

Also at the meeting, the commissioners approved the purchase of a General Electric digital portable x-ray machine, to replace an aging x-ray machine which "breaks down more frequently, now," according to McGuire.

hiring a new person to replace the legal assistant was already in the budget.

Of concern to Commissioner Robanske is the fact that the initial request from Culwell asked for a raise of 17% for McCleary for 40 hours of work, and a second request asked for roughly 3½ hours of overtime on top of the regular 40 hours to do the same job, he said.

Culwell said McCleary has not had a pay raise in six years, and that McCleary's workload is increasing, to include new grant requirements, such as learning a state database for recordkeeping. Culwell has since reduced her request for McCleary's salary increase by $3,568, which represents about a 7.5% increase.

Culwell also said that the commissioners' refusal to compensate McCleary for the additional work requirements of the new grant that she performs has resulted in the inability of her office to fulfill the requirements of the grant. She says that, as a result, she will have no choice but to turn down the entire $68,000 grant, including the $37,000 continuation from the previous year that she had originally budgeted.

To meet the resulting budget reduction, Culwell has laid off her legal assistant, Ann Passmore, who had planned to retire Dec. 31; cut court facilitator services; cut superior court financial obligations and enforcement, which will be turned over to the superior court clerk's office to handle; and eliminated prosecution of non-domestic violence and non-DUI/Physical Control cases originating in the City of Dayton.

According to Superior Court Clerk Sue Marinella, the earliest her office will be able to process legal financial obligations will be in December or January.

At the commissioners' meeting on Sept. 7, Culwell told City of Dayton Administrator Trina Cole and Dayton Mayor Craig George, who were also present, that due to the overwhelming work load in her office, they should not expect her to prosecute cases such as trespass, theft, and driving without a license.

"I have a statutory obligation to provide crime victim advocacy to the community ... I don't have a statutory obligation to provide city services," said Culwell.

Mayor George said it was a matter of principle that the county honor the contract with the City of Dayton for prosecution services. "You have to provide services for the contract. The RCW says we have to prosecute people," said George.

"The RCW doesn't say I have to," Culwell replied.

"The city will get an injunction for you to provide services for the contract," George told Culwell.

City Administrator Trina Cole agreed, saying, "Our obligation is to the community ... We have to come up with a way to prosecute. You have to give a one-year notice of dissolution of the contract," she continued. "We want to see the contract honored. The last thing we want is to get an injunction."

Culwell responded, "I need budget support from the commission."

On Tuesday, an injunction filed by the city was received at the County Clerk's office. A hearing on the matter was scheduled for Wednesday.

At the end of last week's meeting, The three commissioners sat down with Culwell, to try and reach an agreement on how to resolve the impasse.

"We called an attorney from the risk pool to negotiate our way through this" Commissioner Robanske said to Culwell. "We don't want this to become so adversarial it spins out of control. We will fulfill that contract (with the city). We'll get somebody to do that. We need to find common ground we can work through," he added.

Culwell's advice to the commissioners was to give the grant documents, and any documents and communications between her and them, to their attorney for review.

Culwell has stated that she "would be more than happy to continue serving the community and restore all volunteer services, if the commissioners authorize the grant plan approved by the state OCVA grant administrator."

In separate phone interviews Commission Chairman Merle Jackson, Commissioner Mike Talbott, and County Auditor Sharon Richter spoke to the issue.

Richter said that McCleary was initially hired as a legal secretary, and she received a step raise in that capacity, after her probationary period ended. When McCleary's job title changed, she received the commensurate boost to her salary, Richter said.

Commissioner Talbott said, "There's nothing personal here. We all like Michelle."

According to Talbott, county employees have received 2%, 5%, and 2% annual cost of living raises in 2014, 2015 and 2016, respectively. And he said that the goal is to treat everyone fairly.

Chairman Jackson said, "We will look at all 2017 salaries for county employees in a few weeks. We would like to look at her (McCleary's) salary, taken as a whole."

Commissioner Robanske also said that it is fair to look at all the salaries at the same time. If there is money in the budget, it is possible that salary increases might go to employees who have been with the county for a longer period of time than McCleary has, he said.

Culwell said she hopes the commissioners will decide to approve the requested raise of $3,568 a year for McCleary.

Commission Chairman Jackson said he is hoping for a satisfactory resolution to the impasse through mediation, which could come through the risk pool, or through an independent mediator, he said.

Culwell told The Times on Monday that her office is required to submit an invoice by Oct. 1 for the first quarter of the fiscal year that began July 1. She said that if the commissioners do not agree to the requested raise for McCleary by the end of this month, her office will be unable to fulfill the grant requirements, and the grant funds will be lost.

DAYTON SCHOOL BOARD SUMMARY

By Michele Smith
THE TIMES

DAYTON—The Dayton School Board heard about enrollment numbers from Superintendent Doug Johnson at their regular meeting on Sept. 7.

Johnson said that school enrollment on the first count day was right at four hundred, higher than it was in September, 2015 and he said it is only the second time in the past nine years the count has been higher than the end of the prior year enrollment.

"This is a very good sign for us," Johnson said.

Johnson said he is concentrating on the goal of making Dayton the school of choice, and that some students have come back to Dayton schools from other districts. "We're happy if they come back. We'll be happy to work with them, and meet their needs," he said.

Johnson said the district will make an effort to survey students about their reason for choice of school, in or out of the district, in order to help the district identify and make changes where necessary.

Johnson said the district is considering potential dates for two community meetings to solicit public input on what the district should look like ten years from now.

He also updated the directors about which projects to expect to happen first from capital levy dollars.

The district will continue efforts to upgrade the outdated phone and communication system,

Johnson said. Some cable has already been pulled throughout the building using M&O dollars, he said.

Johnson said that the big question is whether to go with voice over internet protocol or analog. "It's too early to tell," he said. Johnson said he has contacted seven vendors and spoke with one of them this week. He speculated that some of the work could be performed over the 2017 spring vacation.

The asphalt project is on track for bids beginning in January or February, for a summer of 2017 project start, Johnson said.

Athletics

Johnson said that the Dayton-Waitsburg combine for sports is going well. "Things are going well. The coaches are working well together.

We're excited to give community members and parents the opportunity to get to know each other," Johnson said.

Elementary School

Elementary School Principal Pam Lindsey reported that current enrollment in the elementary school is higher than it was at the end of last year, and that class sizes are meeting state requirements with optimal teacher to student ratio. "We've had a busy start. I'm excited," she told the directors.

Lindsey also reported on a new art curriculum being offered through the Office of the Superintendent of Public Education, and supported by Title I funds, that will focus on basic art elements, including principles, techniques and skills. The Crockett accounted for 245 yards combined passing and rushing, and scored four touchdowns during the game. Running back Cal Martin pushed the ball over the goal line for a score, while linemen Trystan Willis (65) and Drake Lamere (74) provided blocking. Receiver Nick Kitselman dove for a catch but missed.

CROCKETT SCORES FOUR TDS;
LATE DEFENSIVE STAND PRESERVES
FIRST WIN FOR DAYTON-WAITSBURG
FOOTBALL COMBINE

By Ken Graham | THE TIMES

DAYTON – The defense allowed a touchdown on each of its opponent's first three drives. The defense also gave up a total of 489 yards in the game. And the defense allowed its opponent to score 41 points in just over the first three-quarters of the game.

But in the end, it was their defense that won the game for the Dayton-Waitsburg football team here Friday night against Columbia-Burbank, in a non-league matchup against a larger 1A division school.

Clutching a slim 45-41 lead over the final ten minutes of the game, the DW defense stopped two consecutive Burbank drives near midfield. And then, with 1:37 to go, the defense stuffed a potential game-winning drive on their own 15-yard line, as DW held on for the win.

"We made some changes at the half," said DW coach Troy Larsen. "We've been running a 3-4 defense (three down linemen and four linebackers), and it's a new system for a lot of the kids. They (Burbank) tore us up in the first half."

Larsen explained that in the second half the coaching staff switched to a "4-4 stack," adding another down lineman. "Burbank was running a read option, and it worked well for them in the first half. Our kids did a much better job sticking to their positions, especially in the fourth quarter."

DW's 45 points came during a fireworks-filled first three quarters, in which running back Travis Crockett scored four touchdowns and the DW offense repeatedly came up with big plays when it needed them. Crockett's return to the team, after missing DW's loss at Mac-Hi the previous week, gave DW's offense a huge spark.

"Having Travey back opens so many doors for us," Larsen said of Crockett. "With his speed, he can kill them if they single-team him. If they double-team him, that opens somebody else up."

Still, Burbank's offense outgained DW's, 489 to 406. But the stingy DW defense in the fourth quarter made the difference.

That final defensive stand came after a disastrous possession by DW that started on their own 49-yard line with 3:45 remaining in the game.

It was a chance to put the game away, but DW quarterback Jacob Dunn was sacked on first down for an 11-yard loss. On second down, running back Cal Martin attempted an end-around sweep, but was hauled down for an additional seven-yard loss. After an incomplete Dunn pass, the DW offense lined up for fourth and 28 on their own 31-yard line. Dunn's punt attempt was stuffed and recovered by Burbank on the DW 20 with just over two minutes to go. It was up to the defense to save the game.

A five-yard Burbank run after an incomplete pass made it third and 5 on the 15 with 1:42 left. The tight DW defensive backfield forced two more incomplete passes, and DW took over on downs.

Two long first-down runs – by Travis Crockett and Cal Martin – put DW on the Burbank 35-yard line with a minute to play and only one Coyote timeout remaining. Quarterback Dunn was able to run out the clock.

The game started out as an offensive show. Burbank took the opening kickoff and drove 70 yards down the field and scored, to take a quick 7-0 lead with less than four minutes gone in the first quarter.

After a squib kick by Burbank gave DW the ball on the Burbank 42-yard line, Dunn completed a long pass to running back Crockett, who crossed the goal line untouched. But the DW offense's first play of the game was called back because of a motion penalty. Undaunted, Crockett took a handoff on the next play and sprinted down the right sideline for a touchdown to even the score at seven.

Burbank again drove quickly down the field for another score. After a blocked extra-point kick, the Coyotes led 13-7 with 4:31 to go in the first quarter.

With Crockett and fellow speedster Tanner Bren back for the kickoff, Burbank again kicked the ball short and gave DW possession at midfield. But this time, Dunn threw a third-down interception. The Coyotes responded with their third first-quarter touchdown, and jumped out to a 20-7 lead.

DW scored three times in the second quarter. Running back Cal Martin lunged the ball over the goal line from the one a minute into the second quarter. After a flubbed punt attempt by Burbank, DW took over at midfield and drove to the Coyote 9-yard line. Jordan French caught a pass over the middle from Dunn for the score. Both extra-point kick attempts were blocked, and DW trailed 20-19.

The Coyotes scored again with 4:45 remaining in the third to push their lead to 27-19. But DW quickly drove down the field and scored on a Dunn 7-yard keeper. This time, DW went for two, and Martin rumbled over the right side to even the score at 27.

Burbank threatened to score again, but the DW defense gave a hint of its late-game heroics to come, stopping the Coyotes on a fourth-and-five with five seconds on the clock.

After DW took the second-half kickoff on their own 40, Dunn launched a bomb to Crockett on the first play for a 60-yard touchdown. After a failed kick, DW had a 33-27 lead.

Lady Cards Take Second in Home Tourney

WAITSBURG GIRLS FELL
TO RIVERSIDE IN 3 SETS
THURSDAY

THE TIMES

WAITSBURG – The WHS volleyball team hosted its annual Waitsburg Invitational tournament Saturday, and the Lady Cardinals had an outstanding day, placing second. They won their first four matches, before dropping the championship match to Irrigon.

In pool play, Waitsburg beat DeSales, 25-10, 25-17; Touchet, 25-23, 25-22; and Irrigon 14-25, 25-13, 15-7.

In the Championship bracket, the Lady Cardinals took on College Place in the semi-finals, beating them 25-23, 25-11. In the finals, a rematch with Irrigon, Waitsburg fell, 19-25, 18-25.

"The girls had an outstanding day finishing 4-1," said Waitsburg coach Angie Potts. "They were disappointed to lose the championship match after having already beat Irrigon earlier in pool play, but regardless, the second place finish is the best we've done in a long time."

"Their attitudes, teamwork, and work ethic were just amazing all day," Potts added. "We brought Kirsten Miller up from JV for the tournament because we were short-handed and she did a great job when asked to go in."

Tournament Stats: Kelsey Alleman 9 aces, 13 digs; Tayler Jones 8 aces, 9

A team of Dayton alumni took on the Dayton High soccer team on Saturday, and showed the youngsters a thing or two. The Alumni won, 10-3. ## WAITSBURG FALLS TO RIVERSIDE

WAITSBURG – Waitsburg hosted Riverside on Sept. 8, in their first match of the season. The Lady Cardinals fell in three sets, 25-20, 25-19, 25-23.

“For our first match, we played pretty well,” Coach Angie Potts said. “We had too many serving errors and that’s an easy fix. We still have some things to work on in order to get where we need to be by the end of the season but this was a good start against a comparable team.

Game Stats: Ariel Sandau 6 aces, 11 assists, 6 kills, 6 digs; Devon Harshman 2 aces, 8 kills; Jade Alleman 3 kills, 4 digs; Tayler Jones 3 kills, 4 digs.

FOOTBALL - FROM PAGE 7

Another Burbank touchdown – and failed kick – tied the game again, at 33. Crockett scored two more times in the third, on runs of 27 yards and four yards. Both extra point attempts failed, and DW took a not-very-comforting 45-33 lead into the fourth quarter.

Burbank scored quickly in the first two minutes of the final frame, and with a successful 2-point conversion, cut the DW lead to 45-41. It was then up to the defense, who shut down the Coyotes the rest of the way.

For the Game, Dunn completed eight of 15 passes for 173 yards and two TDs. He also threw two interceptions. Crockett rushed for 162 yards on 16 carries. He also caught three passes for 83 yards, giving him 245 total yards to go along with his four touchdowns.

Martin rushed eight times for 44 yards. Tanner Bren had three carries for 43 yards, and also caught one pass for 30 yards. French had three catches for 46 yards.

On defense, linebacker Martin had a huge game, racking up 27 tackles. Dunn, playing safety, and lineman Cade Branson, each had 11. Crockett also had an interception.

“The guys are starting to blend together and learning to trust each other,” Larsen said of his team members from the two schools, many of whom haven’t played together before.

DW plays their second home game Friday night, hosting DeSales in Waitsburg. The game will be broadcast live on K-Wheat radio, as ESPN’s local game of the week.

Mock, Sickles Are Pioneers of the Year

Siblings Delbert and Velma have spent most of their lives in Waitsburg

By Dena Wood | THE TIMES

WAITSBURG – Siblings Delbert Mock, 92, and Velma (Mock) Sickles, 89, have spent nearly their entire lives in Waitsburg, where their steady service has quietly touched the lives of many.

This year, the Waitsburg Historical Society will honor the duo with the title of Pioneers of the Year at the city's annual Pioneer Fall Festival.

Their father, Denzil C. Mock, was born in Grassy Creek, North Carolina, but the family eventually settled in the Huntsville area.

Denzil's father, Augustus F. Mock, was a carpenter and built caskets. He is credited with putting in the windows at the Waitsburg Christian Church and installing the elaborate wood floors in the stucco home across from the high school. He built one Waitsburg home on West 7th street and another along the Touchet River.

Velma and Delbert recall their father describing how it would take all day, traveling by horse and buggy, to go visit a friend in Eureka. "He would often spend the night under the trestle between the Eureka and Harshaw elevators," Delbert said.

As an adult, Denzil served in the United States Army as a Bugler during World War I. When he returned home from France following the war, he married Neoma Gluck in Walla Walla in 1920.

Denzil and Neoma's first child, Darrell, was born in Walla Walla in 1921. The family then purchased a farm in Benton County through the White Bluffs-Hanford Land Settlement Project, which helped veterans purchase farmland. Delbert was born there in 1924 and Velma joined the family in 1927.

In 1933 the family moved to the home that Denzil and Augustus had built along the Touchet River. Today, Roland Erikson lives in that home, located about 2.5 miles west of Waitsburg.

Delbert and Velma recall raising a big garden there and selling produce to the stores in Waitsburg.

"I especially remember the big watermelon patch and taking a large truckload of watermelon into Waitsburg to sell," Velma said. They remembered a time when Waitsburg's Main Street boasted four grocery stores.

In 1943, the family moved into the city limits, where they joined other Mocks, great aunts and uncles, already living in town. Denzil worked at the McCaw hospital in Walla Walla first as a fireman, then as an electrician. He also worked in Waitsburg at Maybac Electric, as would Delbert and Velma, in later years.

Delbert, Darrell, and Velma all graduated from Waitsburg High School and each went on to own a business on Main Street. Darrell operated a service station located at the current site of the Waitsburg Clinic, and Delbert opened Mock's Electric where he sold paint and appliances. Velma assisted her husband, Bob Sickles, with the bookkeeping at their business, Plaza Insurance.

Delbert Mock

Delbert was drafted into the army during World War II when he was still a junior in high school. He served three years, starting out as an 81 mm mortar gunner and ending as a platoon leader.

He was shipped overseas in August, 1943, and fought three campaigns in the Pacific before he contracted hepatitis and was evacuated to the East Indies, where he spent nearly two months in the hospital.

Delbert said he lay in bed across from Bob Buroker, of Dayton, for probably 30 days before someone came in and used Bob's name and they made the connection. It turns out the two are "shirt tail relatives." Delbert remembers that Charles Sutton, the Waitsburg school superintendent's son, flew in to visit him in the East Indies hospital.

Back home, Delbert had the necessary credits to graduate, but was short a World History class. Delbert said he told the superintendent, "Heck, I made World History! What the heck do I want to take it for?" He was given some books to study for a few days, took a test, and was handed a diploma, he said.

Delbert worked at Maybac's, where he did repair work and laid tile and linoleum. He drove truck for Dow Wright, then bought a trailer and moved to California where he worked for Birdseye for five years.

He returned to Waitsburg and opened Mock's Electric at 141 Main Street (where The Q is currently located) in 1957. There, he sold and repaired appliances until he closed the business in 1979. Delbert continued to make service calls to appreciative customers well after he closed the store.

Delbert married Berneice Cole in 1957 and helped raise two boys, Tom and Jerry Mock. The couple later divorced and he married Louise Lingle in 1981. Louise, who passed away in 2006, had four children: Jan, Jackie, Debbie, and Rod.

After closing Mock's Electric, Delbert worked at the VA hospital in Walla Walla as a refrigeration mechanic until he retired in 1986.

Over the years, Delbert coached Little League, served as Master of the Masonic Lodge, was a member of the Waitsburg Lions Club and the VFW, and was Commander of the American Legion.

Velma (Mock) Sickles

Velma has always been passionate about music, and spent her high school years actively involved in the band, orchestra, and chorus. After graduation, she studied music at the University of Washington.

She married Bob Sickles, a fellow music lover, in 1949, and the couple made their home in Waitsburg. Bob worked at Bendix Music in Walla Walla, and Velma gave piano lessons to many children in Waitsburg from 1949 to 1968. Velma remembers packing 17 students into their home for one piano recital.

Bob eventually opened Plaza Insurance in Waitsburg, where Velma kept the books for 40 years, until the shop closed in 2010. In 1968, Velma took a job as the Waitsburg Elementary School secretary, where she served for 20 years.

Bob and Velma raised four children: Ed Sickles (Seattle), Sherrie Morris (Waitsburg), Dawn Nichols (Waitsburg), and Steve Sickles (Walla Walla). Velma has 13 grandchildren, seven step-grandchildren, nine great-grandchildren, and two step-grandchildren. She and Bob enjoyed singing together in the Waitsburg Christian Church choir and sang at funerals and weddings until Bob's death in 2003.

Velma and Bob were both actively involved in the Christian Church throughout their adult lives. Velma served 40 years in the church as both organist and church treasurer. She is also a charter member of the Odako Club and remained an active member until the club disbanded two years ago.

Delbert and Velma say they were both happily surprised to be recognized as Pioneers of the Year.

"When I got the letter I called Velma and said, 'Well, what do you think of that?'" Delbert said.

"Well, I think it's quite an honor!" replied Velma.

Velma and Delbert will be officially recognized as Pioneers of the Year following the 11 a.m. church service on the Bruce House lawn on Sun., Sept. 18. With neither of them being one to seek the limelight, they were plotting to see which family member they could convince to give the acceptance speech as they wrapped up their interview with The Times last week. Thankfully, they've got plenty of family to pull from.

Friends of the Pool Host 2nd Annual Pie Baking Contest

REGISTRATION DEADLINE IS SEPT. 16

By Dena Wood | THE TIMES

WAITSBURG – On Sunday, the Laurette McCaw Pie-oneer Fall Festival Pie Baking Contest will make its second appearance, adding to the fun of the city's historic celebration while raising funds for a good cause.

Waitsburg Friends of the Pool organized in August of 2015 and quickly devised the highly successful bake-off, which brought in nearly $1,200 last year.

Friends of the Pool president Megan Brock said that last year the group purchased sun shades and seating to improve comfort at the pool. This year they hope to improve or replace the outdated storage cubbies and provide swim scholarships and lifeguard training scholarships. Friends of the Waits-burg Pool serves under the umbrella of the Rural Youth Enrichment Services 501c3.

Festival attendees check out the entries at last year's Pie-oneer Fall Festival Pie Baking Contest.

The contest is open to bakers of all ages, with prizes in three categories: under 12, ages 12-18, and 19 and above.

Contestants will bake two identical pies; one for judging and one for sale. Health department guidelines require that pies be fruit-only, and contain no dairy or eggs in the filling. Both the filling and the crust must be homemade.

Pies must be delivered to the judges table by 10:30 a.m. on Sunday.

Pies will be judged on appearance, taste, and creativity. Ribbons will be awarded in each category, and one pie will receive the coveted "Best of Pie" award, which was won by Debra Callahan last year.

"Waitsburg Pie Expert" Jack McCaw will return as judge, joined by Paul Gregutt, who is a contributing editor for Wine Enthusiast magazine. Trevor Johnson won last year's auction and claimed the third judging seat.

Fall festival attendees will be able to purchase bites or slices of pie and whole pies will be sold in a live auction at 1 p.m. Judging will be completed prior to the end of the auction and ribbons will be placed next to winning pies before the bidding is closed.

More bakers are needed to make this year's contest a successful event, and everyone is welcome. Registration forms and pie tins may be picked up at Waitsburg City Hall. The registration deadline is Fri., Sept. 16.

A written notice of default was transmitted by the beneficiary or Trustee to the Borrower and Grantor at the following address(es):

See 'Mailing List' attached hereto and incorporated herein by this reference.

by both first-class and certified mail on January 13, 2016, proof of which is in the possession of the Trustee; and the Borrower and Grantor were personally served on January 13, 2016, with said written notice of default or the written notice of default was posted in a conspicuous place on the real property described in paragraph I above, and the Trustee has possession of proof of such service or posting.

VII
The Trustee whose name and address are set forth will provide in writing to anyone requesting it, a statement of all costs and fees due at any time prior to the sale.

VIII
The effect of the sale will be to deprive the Grantor and all those who hold by, through or under the Grantor of all their interest in the above-described property.

IX
Anyone having objections to this sale on any grounds whatsoever will be afforded an opportunity to be heard as to those objection if they bring a lawsuit to restrain the sale pursuant to RCW 61.24.130. Failure to bring such a lawsuit may result in a waiver of any proper grounds for invalidating the Trustee's sale.

X
NOTICE TO OCCUPANTS OR TENANTS

The purchaser at the Trustee's Sale is entitled to possession of the property on the 20th day following the sale, as against the Grantor under the deed of trust (the owner) and anyone having an interest junior to the deed of trust, including occupants who are not tenants. After the 20th day following the sale, the purchaser has the right to evict occupants who are not tenants by summary proceedings under Chapter 59.12 RCW. For tenant-occupied property, the purchaser shall provide a tenant with written notice in accordance with RCW 61.24.060.

If the Trustee's Sale is set aside for any reason, the submitted bid will be forthwith returned without interest and the bidder will have no right to purchase the property. Recovery of the bid amount without interest constitutes the limit of the bidder's recourse against the Trustee and/or the Beneficiary.

XI
NOTICE TO ALL PERSONS AND PARTIES WHO ARE GUARANTORS OF THE OBLIGATIONS SECURED BY THIS DEED OF TRUST: (1) The Guarantor may be liable for a deficiency judgment to the extent the sale price obtained at the Trustee's Sale is less than the debt secured by the Deed of Trust; (2) The Guarantor has the same rights to reinstate the debt, cure the default, or repay the debt as is given to the grantor in order to avoid the trustee's sale; (3) The Guarantor will have no right to redeem the property after the Trustee's Sale; (4) Subject to such longer periods as are provided in the Washington Deed of Trust Act, Chapter 61.24 RCW, any action brought to enforce a guaranty must be commenced within one year after the Trustee's Sale, or the last Trustee's Sale under any deed of trust granted to secure the same debt; and (5) In any action for a deficiency, the Guarantor will have the right to establish the fair value of the property as of the date of the Trustee's Sale, less prior liens and encumbrances, and to limit its liability for a deficiency to the difference between the debt and the greater of such fair value or the sale price paid at the Trustee's Sale, plus interest and costs.

TEENY MCMUNN: MY RECIPE BOX

Waldorf Wheat Berry Salad

I recently tasted wheat berry salad that my friend made and I knew I would like to have it again. I asked her for the recipe and she said didn't have a recipe but cooked the wheat berries, added fresh tomatoes, cucumbers, some black beans, and Caesar dressing (or was it Ranch?). So all or any of those ingredients make a fresh-tasting salad. She said sometimes she puts in green olives. She mentioned she would give me some wheat berries fresh off the combine. WHAT??

I'm not sure where I thought she got the wheat berries, her being a farmer's wife and all, so I still need a conversation with her to explain this transformation. And yes, I do know carrots come out of the ground with dirt still on them and not clean like when I buy them.

I googled wheat berry salads and this one caught my eye. I really like a Waldorf Salad. This one has the basic ingredients except it has the wheat berries. I have not tried it yet, but will as soon as my friend brings me some "fresh from the farm."

½ c. wheat berries cooked in 1 ½ c. water, covered and simmered for about 15 minutes, until tender and chewy. Set aside to cool.

1 sweet apple, chopped
 1 celery rib, chopped
 ¼ c. raisins
 ½ c. walnuts

Dressing
 2 TBSP Dijon mustard
 1 tsp honey
 1/3 c. yogurt
 2 TBSP fresh lemon juice

MY NOTES: I have shared I'm not crazy for yogurt so for this I will use mayonnaise with sugar (or honey) thinned with orange juice. The raspberry vinaigrette might also be good. If you try it with the yogurt, please let me know if you liked it.

FEEDBACK #2: Remember the blueberry zucchini cake that I put too much sugar and baking soda in? I froze it to take to my son for his birthday. I put the lemon pudding and whipped topping for the frosting. It was yummy. No worries. The blueberries settled to the bottom so I'm not sure the whys there. We had it for breakfast as it was more like a coffee cake---maybe because of the screw ups, but good all the same.

Enjoy!

Last Week's Solution

File No. SEPA16-019 DETERMINATION OF NON-SIGNIFICANCE (DNS)

Description of Proposal: 2016 Walla Walla County Comprehensive Plan and Regulation Amendment Final Docket items: CPA16-002 and REZ16-001 Proposal to amend the Walla Walla County's Comprehensive Plan to assign a land use designation of Medium-Density Residential (MDR) to the properties located at 1407 Grandview Ave College Place, WA and the adjacent parcel to the east (APN's 350735430057 and 35073543002). In addition, amend the Walla Walla County's Zoning Map to assign the zoning district of R-60 Single Family Residential, which is identified in Table 5-4 of the Comprehensive Plan as one of the implementing zoning districts of the MDR land use designation.

This is a non-project proposal, consisting only of the zoning and land use map amendments, no project development or construction has been proposed. The property is located within the City of College Place Urban Growth Area (UGA). In 2015, this property was de-annexed from the City of College Place and as a result, has no zoning or land use designation. Due to this recent decision by the City of College Place to remove the property from their city limits and place it back in County jurisdiction, it is necessary for the County to amend the zoning map and Comprehensive Plan.

LEGALS (cont.)

Proponent: Walla Walla County
c/o Lauren Prentice, Principal Planner
Community Development Department
310 W. Poplar Street, Suite 200
Walla Walla, WA 99362

Property Owner: Terry Brown
1891 Heritage Road
Walla Walla, WA 99362

Location of Proposal: These amendments will relate to approximately 12 acres of land located generally at 1407 Grandview Avenue, College Place, WA (APN 350735430057 and 507835430052).

The lead agency for this proposal has determined that it does not have a probable significant adverse impact on the environment. An environmental impact statement (EIS) is not required under RCW 43.21C.030 (2) (c). This decision was made after review of a completed environmental checklist and other information on file with the lead agency. This information is available to the public on request.

The Determination of Non-Significance (DNS) is based on the project as proposed and reflected in the following:

Environmental Checklist (SEPA16-019), dated 4/28/16
Site-specific rezoning application (REZ16-001), dated 3/31/16
Comprehensive Plan land use map amendment (CPA16-002), dated 3/31/16

This DNS is issued under WAC 197-11-340(2)(a); the lead agency will not act on this proposal for fourteen days from the date below. Comments must be submitted by September 29, 2016.

The lead agency has determined that the requirements for environmental analysis, protection, and mitigation measures have been adequately addressed in the development regulations and comprehensive plan adopted under chapter

36.70A RCW, and in other applicable local, state or federal laws or rules, as provided by RCW 43.21C.240 and WAC 197-11-158. Our agency will not require any additional mitigation measures under SEPA.

This DNS may be withdrawn at any time if the proposal is modified so that it is likely to have significant adverse environmental impacts (unless a non-exempt license has been issued if the proposal is a private project); if there is significant new information indicating, or on, a proposal's probable significant adverse environmental impacts; or if the DNS was procured by misrepresentation or lack of material disclosure.

program will be integrated into the curriculum, and teachers received training in August on how to integrate those lessons into the curriculum, she said.

Teachers will participate in a survey and discussion on the impact the art lessons have on student achievement, Lindsley said.

Lindsley also said that teachers will participate in a book study titled "Number Talk: Helping Children Build Mental Math and Computation Strategies."

Secondary School

Secondary Principal Paul Shaber told the directors, "Some of the negativity present at the beginning of the school year last year was not present on the first day of school."

Shaber talked about giving students another opportunity to see what is great about living in Dayton. Shaber is creating a backcountry club for students to get involved in outdoors activities, such as skiing, hiking, rafting, and mountain climbing.

Superintendent Doug Johnson said that those experiences can be tied in with curriculum, and he gave the example of how writing poetry could be connected to participation in outdoor activities. Johnson also said this is one way to help define the Dayton School District as being unique, and attract more families to Dayton schools.

Shaber talked about a new Dayton Bulldog Logo contest in the works. He said students will begin submitting ideas for consideration at the end of the month.

Work is continuing on the beautification of the front of the high school, with planters and benches made by students planned. And after the logo contest is over, banners bearing the new logo will be displayed on Third Street, he said.

Also, office space has been created in the high school for law enforcement to use during the day, to increase their presence on campus, Shaber said.
