SHORT LINE RAIL GRAND RE-OPENING

An eager crowd awaited the arrival of the CWW train as it pulled into the Dayton Historic Depot right on time last Saturday. Frontier Rail, LLC Commercial Director Paul Didelius said his customer base includes shippers in stone, and seed who will use the rail service from the Dayton area, to connections in Walla Walla, the balance of 2017, and beyond. He said a local grain cooperative may ship from Waitsburg in 2018, and has already shipped some carloads from the Prescott elevator in 2017. Didelius will be glad to talk to anyone who wants "100s of tons of something" shipped, he told the crowd. Depending on actual demand, the CWW plans up to a daily train from Dayton to Walla Walla and back, he said.

Commercial Club Bolsters Business, Builds Community

CLUB LOOKS TO COMMUNITY DINNERS, PICKLEBALL, AND A NEW MURAL TO GROW INTEREST IN WAITSBURG

By Dena Martin | THE TIMES

WAITSBURG – Over the last several months, dozens of people from Walla Walla, Dayton and Waitsburg have gathered at the Whoopemup Café on the north end of Waitsburg's Main Street for Whoop EM Up Wednesday dinners. The unique meals, which have been highly successful, are the Waitsburg Commercial Club's most recent attempt to build community and bring folks to downtown Waitsburg.

The Waitsburg Commercial Club was founded in 1912 and functions as the city's chamber of commerce. It operates on a one hundred percent volunteer basis. Current board members are: Joy Smith, president; Terry Hofer, first vice president; Valerie Mudry, second vice president, Sandy Kleck, treasurer, and Fred Gonzalez, treasurer.

Whoop EM Up Wednesdays

The idea for Whoop EM Up Wednesdays was inspired by Lane Hill and Barb Jaksa who were trying to put together a Tamale Tuesday event at Hill's Ten Ton Press building on Main Street. While the logistics are still being worked out for that event, it gave Smith the idea to approach other business owners about doing something similar.

"We have one business that's willing to stretch so I said, 'let's see what other business are willing to stretch.' And Valerie was more than willing to do it," Smith said, referring to Whoopemup Café co-owner Valerie Mudry.

The goal of Whoop EM Up Wednesdays is to raise the profile of downtown Waitsburg by providing an event that requires low volunteerism because it fits with an already-existing business model. The meals are priced at an affordable $15 per person and the first three events have been very successful.

Nearly 70 people attended the first dinner, on Aug. 2, which featured Whoopemup Café Creole Filet Gumbo, corn chowder, cornbread, and New Orleans Muffuletta Sandwich bites. Jack Sherrill played guitar for diners who were served on the patio.

On Aug. 30, about 60 diners enjoyed grilled chicken tacos with specialty salsas, guacamole, beans and rice, prepared by The Q. Brian Hunt and Paul Gregutt entertained during the meal, which was also al fresco. The house was full with seating limited to 50 diners for an indoor family-style pasta meal on Sept. 20.

Smith said the events have the feel of a dinner party-style social event. "It's a great way to meet new people and visit with people in the community. It's been a good mix of people who are longtime locals as well as those who are new to the area," she said.

The October 11 Whoop EM Up Wednesday event is an Oktoberfest-style meal and a Halloween-themed event is planned for October 25.

County Puts Hold On Grandstands Demolition

By Michele Smith | THE TIMES

DAYTON—Last week the Columbia County Board of Commissioners decided to hold off on mid-October plans to start demolition of the east grandstand at the county fairgrounds, pending a proposal from a group of about 20-25 local people calling themselves the Columbia County Friends of the Fairgrounds.

Each person on the committee has an area(s) of overlapping or special concern regarding the county's recently drafted Facilities Improvement Plan.

For Lee Ann Literal, the plan to demolish the east grandstand, at a cost of $40,000, figures large on her list.

She said the committee has discussed getting an inspection and recommendation from Rick Nicely and Beau Sabin of Pillars of Society Woodworking, with the hope that the historical nature of the grandstands can be preserved while meeting current standards for ADA accessibility.

For years, the fairground facilities have been allowed to deteriorate because of a lack of interest and lack of funding for improvements, Literal said.

Also, the demise of Dayton Days, along with the recent increase in horse stall rental fees is making Literal nervous about the future of horse culture in the county, which could especially impact participation by youth. Literal said she is in the process of forming a 4-H club in horsemanship for a group of 8-13 year olds.

"This is just a neat old fairground, Literal said. "We need to market that facility. It could be a real going concern."

About 15 members of the CCFFG met last Thursday evening to hammer out a mission statement, discuss by-laws, elect officers, and begin drafting a letter of introduction to the Board of County Commissioners.

The CCFFG will meet next at 7 p.m., on Thurs., Oct. 19, in the Delany Room at the library. For more information contact Dawn Rodriguez by phone at: (509) 301-0588, or by email at: dawnrenee229@gmail.com.

CCHS TOPS GROSS REVENUE RECORD

End is in sight for hospital reconstruction enhancement project

By Michele Smith | THE TIMES

DAYTON – In his financial report for August, Columbia County Health System Controller Tom Meyers said another gross revenue record was set for the month of August.

"We've had two really good months," Meyers reported to the commissioners.

Gross patient revenue reached an all-time high of $2,040,988, which was $67,000 over the previous record for July, 2017, he said.

Meyers pointed out higher volumes in the Emergency Department, Physical, Occupational and Speech Therapies, and in ultrasound. Volumes were higher in both health clinics, which is attributed to the addition of behavioral health care provided by Dr. Varnell, along with Wellness, Chronic Care, and Transitional Care visits in both clinics.

"Those are some strong areas, overall," Meyers said.

Also noteworthy in August is an improved cash position due to extraordinary dividends, which were received, related to the employee benefit costs. Deductions increased due to the higher volumes, and increased patient accounts receivable. These impacts combined to a booked gain of $230,000 in August, after taxes and non-operating revenues are booked, he said.

DAYTON - The Dayton branch of the American Association of University Women will host a candidates forum on Wed., Oct. 18 from 7-9 p.m. at the Liberty Theater (344 E. Main, Dayton).

Candidates traditionally give five-minute speeches followed by a moderated question-and-answer session. However, this year only one race is contested so the forum will allow more time to the two candidates for city council position #5, Kathy Berg and Kyle Anderson.

All other unopposed candidates in attendance will be presented on stage and available to answer questions from the audience. Candidates for positions for Columbia County Port District, Columbia County Hospital District, Dayton City Council, Dayton School District, and Columbia County Fire Districts 1, 2, and 3 have been invited to attend.

This is not a formal debate and audience questions will not be screened in advance. The forum will also include Lisa Caldwell, Director of Columbia County Public Safety Communications and Emergency Management and Columbia County Commissioner Norm Passmore, who will present information on local Proposition #1: Emergency Communication.

Refreshments will be provided following the forum to give candidates and citizens a chance to visit.

LIONS HOST GUIDE DOG PRESENTATION

DAYTON - The Dayton Lions Club will host a Guide Dog presentation at the Dayton Memorial Library Delany Building at 7 p.m. on Wed., Oct. 18.

Tri-Cities Lions members Al and Cheryl Harper will give a video presentation about guide dog schools and local and regional Lions Clubs support. The public is invited to the presentation to learn more about guide dog schools and how they help train dogs to assist people who are visually impaired.

Lion Bill Goage, who is visually impaired, will be on hand to discuss his personal experience with his guide dog, Tully, who will be present as well.

MASS BAND AND CHOIR CONCERT, OCT. 25

WAITSBURG - The Southeastern Washington Music Educators Association (SEWMEA) high school mass band and choir will return to Waitsburg on Wed., Oct. 25. Hundreds of high school musicians from small schools all over southeastern Washington will bus in to play and sing together.

Bands and choirs from Touchet to Rosalia, and Kahlotus to Asotin, will practice together all afternoon and perform in an extraordinary concert that evening at 6:30 p.m.

Expert conductors will lead these huge groups. Shawn Bowman, the recently retired Asotin music man, will conduct the MASS Band and Colleen Ochocinski, the young director of choral music at Walla Walla High School, will conduct the choir.

The music will be big, too! The chorus of 100 voices will sing Psallite, The Old Mill, and The Lion King.

A line of xylophone players will front the big band for "Mallet Maniacs!" Then comes video game music from "Starcraft ii - Legacy of the Void," and the lush ballad, "The Water is Wide," followed by the grand Wagnerian opera music, "Ride of the Valkyries!"

The concert begins at 6:30 p.m. in the Waitsburg High School gym and lasts just under an hour. Admission is $4 for adults, $3 for seniors and students, but just $10 for the whole family.

STRANGE BUT TRUE

by Samantha Weaver

* It was beloved 20th-century American poet, memoirist and civil-rights activist Maya Angelou who made the following sage observation: "Perhaps travel cannot prevent bigotry, but by demonstrating that all peoples cry, laugh, eat, worry, and die, it can introduce the idea that if we try and understand each other, we may even become friends."

* You might be surprised to learn that in terms of holiday retail sales, Halloween is second only to Christmas.

* If you're a fan of beer and/or space, you might be interested in Celeste Jewel Beer. This ale, created by Delaware-based Dogfish Head Brewery, has a unique ingredient: moon dust. Yep -- lunar meteorites were crushed into dust, then steeped in Dogfish Head's Oktoberfest offering. The resulting libation, it's said, possesses a subtle but complex earthiness, with notes of doughy malt, toasted bread, subtle caramel and a light herbal bitterness.

* Those who study such things say that there is enough phosphorus in your body to make about 250 matches.

* Bayreuth Festspielhaus is an opera house north of Bayreuth, Germany. The venue is dedicated to the performance of works by Richard Wagner, and the 19th-century German composer himself chose and adapted the design. A key component is the seating: Not only are the seats arranged to give all attendees an equal and uninterrupted view of the stage, but they're also rather uncomfortable. It's been reported that Wagner intentionally chose exceptionally hard wooden seats to prevent the audience from treating his operas as fun.

Talk about Art

Special to The Times by Carolyn Henderson

You don't need a washing machine to create felted wool, which is a good thing, because the art of creating dense, waterproof fabric from natural fibers goes back to 6,500 B.C.

For Walla Walla fiber artist Linnea Keatts, all she needs is some hot, soapy water; a flat surface; a rolling pin; and some elbow grease. Oh, and the wool item to be felted.

"Heavier fleece is used to make 3D pieces such as purses, vessels, vase holders, bowls, and so on," Keatts, who has been felting for more than 35 years, explains. Lighter weight felting, which incorporates silk fibers in with fine merino wool fleece, results in diaphanous apparel such as scarves, draping fluidly and smoothly over the wearer.

"My goal as a felt artist is to make beautiful things that are pleasing and also practical," Keatts says. "The enjoyment of working with fine merino fleece and silk is absorbing and creative."

Keatts, who teaches the craft through the Quest program at Walla Walla Community College, does not limit herself to any shape, form, or subject matter, and among her display presently showing at the Wenaha Gallery (219 East Main, Dayton), are a three-dimensional penguin, a sculpted bust of Donald Trump, and a selection of farm animals. There is also an array of colorful scarves, one for each outfit in the closet.

Keatts' free Art Event of felted apparel, home décor, and personal accessories such as purses and tablet cases runs through Saturday, November 4. Gallery hours are 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., Monday through Saturday.

"Year-to-date, we show a gain of $407,000, unaudited. This is more than three times the budgeted bottom line of $111,000.00," Meyers said.

While collections haven't been as strong as recent revenue levels, the district expects to see improvements in collections for two to three months after higher monthly revenue, Meyers said in his report.

Meyers noted a billing issue in Respiratory Therapy and EKG, which was due to a licensing issue, and for which credit is being made for several months.

"Overall this is a really strong month and actually two strong months in a row," said Meyers.

CEO Shane McGuire agreed, stating in his report, "If we continue operating at current levels, our net operating revenue will end up in the $16.5 million range over last year's $12.4 million in new revenue.

He also noted that while gross and net patient revenues have increased by 26% and 28%, respectively, net income has only increased 2.35%.

"Our billing partner is working to get our collection rates up and has targeted a collection rate in the 75% range," McGuire said.

The goal is to have AR days down to 55 days from the current 68 days, and the strategic plan goal is to be at 45 or 46, by the end of the year. McGuire said overtime has been authorized to work through those issues.

Day cash on hand rose to 17.2 days from 9.7 in July.

Phase IV of the Hospital Renovation and Enhancement project has begun, McGuire said in his report.

Employees are moving into the ultrasound, environmental services, pharmacy, nurses' workstation, and medication rooms, and the new Emergency Department entrance will open in October.

McGuire said there was around $50,000 to $60,000 left in the contingency budget, but it has been spent because of some project issues. There are still some budgetary line items that haven't been spent, he said.

The Board of Commissioners approved a request from McGuire to commit Day Estate Trust funds as security to receive a low-interest loan from Columbia Rural Electric Association, for the Hyperbaric Wound Care Suite. Payments will likely be paid out of operation funds, McGuire said. The date for completion of that suite is December 23, 2017.

The board has approved using $11,000 from the Day Estate Fund for the purchase of walk-in bathtubs for the Booker Rest Home. Twelve thousand dollars of the $23,000 total is coming from community grants.

The board also approved the purchase of a program called "InstaMed" for use by patient registration personnel that will allow them to see progress toward meeting deductibles and help with collections of co-pays. It will also provide for a system of checks and balances for billing errors when patients register for services, said McGuire.

"It's all very convenient and user-friendly," said CFO Cheryl Skiffington.

Dayton Memorial Library Celebrates 80 Years

ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION
WILL TAKE PLACE OCT. 16

By Michele Smith | THE TIMES

DAYTON--Many things have changed throughout the years at rural libraries like Dayton's. Eighty years ago most library patrons shivered and quaked to hear librarians sternly reminding them to "Be quiet!" and "Take the gum out of your mouth!"

"You did not want to be late with a book," remembers former Dayton Memorial Librarian Lynn Williams.

Back then checking books out of the library required familiarization of the card catalogue. All books were indexed according to subject, author, and title.

Williams said westerns and romance paperbacks were a favorite fare of library patrons.

Today's library patrons are able to access other genres at the library, and many of them are e-books, said Dusty Waltner, the current librarian.

Williams said her budget for books was slim, but she was allowed to buy books at yard sales, along with prizes for games, and decorations.

"We were constantly on the look-out for books," Williams said.

Fifty percent of what patrons read back then was fiction. "We had a hard time getting nonfiction," she said.

Waltner has an annual materials budget of about $50,000, and nonfiction figures largely in purchases she is able to make.

The Summer Reading Program was an important program when Williams was the librarian, and it is still, she noted.

Librarians are responsible for deciding which books stay on the shelves and which books don't.

Waltner said she doesn't let anybody else "weed" books, and she does that when nobody else is around because people get upset to see their favorites go.

Librarian Dusty Waltner (left), local genealogist and historian, Liz Carson (center), and former librarian Lynn Williams (right), are shown making plans for an open house celebration for the Dayton Memorial Library's 80th anniversary. A slide show presentation detailing changes at the library over the past 80 years and a program about the value of ongoing library programs is planned. The celebration will take place between the hours of 10 a.m. and 5 p.m. in the Delany Room, on Mon., Oct. 16.

Williams remembered a time during her tenure when one civic-minded person went into the Pomeroy library when the librarian was out and "weeded", causing a great tumult.

Librarians looked to the state library association for resources then, as they do now.

"That has not changed," Waltner said. Libraries are places where censorship does not exist.

"Librarians are not supposed to censor. We had little wrangles about book content," said Williams.

Waltner agreed, "We've never censored anything. It's up to the parent."

"We could always count on people coming out to support us," Williams said about help from the local community.

Sue Hagfeldt and Liz Carson rate high on Williams' list of people to thank for their years of volunteerism.

Waltner agreed, "We still call on Liz."

Carson is considered the town's unofficial genealogist and historian.

Williams remembered a cute anecdote featuring Sue Hagfeldt and a Valentine's Day contest. She said two sneaky little boys came in to the library to claim their prize chocolate hearts and, as they walked out the door, Hagfeldt raced to stop them, calling "You are not So, and So!" One of the little boys turned and said, "I'm not?"

It was the Friends of the Library who judged the contest and gave out the prizes," Williams explained.

The Friends of the Library also paid for the computers and the wiring when the library came in to the Information Age in the 90s, Williams said.

Both librarians said they never have, and never do, hate to come to work.

"You just want people to be so happy to come to the library," said Williams.

"There have been a lot of changes over the years and we want people to come, and to share that," Waltner said about the 80th anniversary festivities on the 16th.

Research done by Catherine Schuck for the Jan. 14, 1999 edition of the Touchet Graphic Community Newspaper credits community-wide efforts with getting the library built in Dayton.

Schuck said that in 1919 a reading room was established by the Draper Self Culture Club, a Dayton women's club, in two rooms in the former Ankeny Building, where State Farm is now.

Public sentiment for a library was such that the Draper Club began working toward the purchase of a building lot at the corner of Clay St. and S. 3rd St., wrote Schuck.

Sometime after purchasing the $986.14 lot, a two-room library was opened in the old Odd Fellows Hall by the Elizabeth Forrest Day Club, formerly known as the Draper Club, while fundraising efforts continued, Schuck said.

In 1935, the club turned the deed for the lot and $4807.07 over to the City of Dayton to help move construction of the building forward.

Schuck said a national government project, the Works Project Administration, built the $15,534 library, and an open house was held on Oct. 2, 1937.

Schuck credits all the dedication and hard work from the ladies of the Elizabeth Forrest Day Club, and the community at large, with giving Dayton "the wonderful library we have now".

Librarians at the Dayton Memorial Library have been; Flita Weatherford, 1937 - 1964, Edith O'Neal, 1964 - 1971, Claire Saucier, 1971 - 1989, Lynn Williams, 1989 - 2006, Janet Lyon, 2006 - 2013, Jill Rourke 2014 - 2015, and Dusty Waltner, who hired on in March, 2015.

COUNTY WILL TREAD CAUTIOUSLY IN ISSUING NEW WELL PERMITS UNTIL HIRST DECISION IS CLARIFIED

Hearing on sales tax increase for emergency communication equipment is Nov. 20

By Michele Smith | THE TIMES

DAYTON— At last week's regular meeting of the Board of Columbia County Commissioners, Emergency Communication Services Director Lisa Caldwell said radio equipment malfunctions continue to cause county-wide disruptions in communication and that public safety is being compromised as a result.

The county is moving forward with a public hearing in the commissioners' chambers on Nov. 20, at 11 a.m. regarding levy certification for the proposed one-tenth of one-percent county-wide sales tax to be used to replace the outdated equipment and to provide for maintenance of it.

The equipment would be purchased from Zetron Public Safety Solutions in the amount of $108,646.82. Caldwell said the contract amount provides for three annual payments of $39,072.72 at an interest rate of 3.895% with payments beginning in Sept., 2018, or in one year from funding, or in five annual payments of $24,401.59 at an interest rate of 3.995% beginning in Sept., 2018, or one year from funding.

Caldwell is also seeking some proposed changes to help dispatchers in the EMS department. She explained to the commissioners that dispatchers are providing a highly technical service, at a great personal cost, in the form of prolonged physical and emotional stress.

"Every phone call for them is their worst day," she said.

She is asking the commissioners to consider a decrease in hours for the dispatchers to 36 hours a week, with four days off between shifts, giving them time to recover. This will provide the same level of coverage in the department, she said. Dispatchers would receive the same rate of pay they currently receive.

Caldwell also asked if she could purchase some office furniture to improve flow in the department.

Planning and Building Director Kim Lyonnais and County Prosecutor Rea Culwell came before the BOCC last week to address how the state Supreme Court Hirst ruling might impact permitting for new wells in Columbia County. Lyonnais said his department has two applications pending and he is seeking clarification about associated risks before permits are granted.

Culwell said the court has made a decision that is too broad and sweeping and that there could be some risks to the county, if doing business as usual.

"If you dig a well, you have to be able to stand up in court and defend," Culwell told the BOCC.

Lyonais and Culwell have been looking into how other counties are handling the issue, and it was generally agreed for the county to proceed cautiously with processing new well permits, until the state establishes what the Hirst decision means specifically to

PickleBall

In another attempt to build community, the club purchased an outdoor pickleball set, which will be sponsored by Star Fitness, which is owned by club member Fred Gonzalez. The highly popular paddle game is easy to learn and can quickly develop into a competitive game for experienced players. Pickle Ball enthusiast Barb Jaksa is spearheading the drive to set up games at the middle school basketball courts.

"We want to pull people in and teach them to play. It's an amazing sport with health as well as social benefits," Jaksa said.

She said if Waitsburg is able to generate enough interest, the city may consider installing a permanent court.

Port of Walla Walla

The Commercial Club also works closely with the Port of Walla Walla. The port commissioners have made a point to meet in Waitsburg twice a year, and will hold their Oct. 12 meeting at the Waitsburg Lions Club Building.

The public is invited to meet the commissioners and port staff during a meet and greet from 5-6 p.m.. The Whoopemup Café will serve gumbo, cornbread, and beverages, courtesy of the Commercial Club and the port. Attendees are welcome to stay for the official port business meeting at 6 p.m.

Smith said the Commercial Club is in an ongoing discussion with the port regarding the Waitsburg Business Park located behind McGregors off Millrace road. Harvey Johnson Plumbing currently operates from the park and additional lots are platted and set up with water, sewer, garbage and electrical.

"The port can help with build-to-suit as well as business advice and direction. The good thing about the Waitsburg Business Park, as opposed to port property at the Walla Walla Airport, is that lots can be sold. They are available for rent, lease, or sale," Smith said.

"It is uniquely sited in that it's the only place we can put light manufacturing," she added.

Community Promotion

Smith said Commercial Club members make a point to be liaisons or voting members of committees that impact events, such as the historical society, the Celebration Days Committee, and the Friends of the Fairgrounds Committee.

"We want to hear what's happening on a broad-based community level so we can bring that back to the club," Smith said.

The Commercial Club hosts the Celebration Days community bonfire (they plan to have the band biG foNT play this year) and Gonzalez runs the Classic Auto Show. The club is responsible for organizing Hometown Christmas, which will include visits from Moana, Princess Ariel and Spiderman this year.

The club is a partner in the annual Swim the Snake fundraiser and Smith said they hope to add an optional bicycle leg to that event next year, which would allow the event to start and end in Waitsburg.

"This area is a great sports bowl for hunting, fishing, and biking. The fact that we have this adjacency to the Blue Mountains and Ski Bluewood and all of this hiking, biking, sports arena is something we need to capitalize on," Smith said.

The commercial club supports businesses as the opportunities arise. Blush Salon & Spa will hold a Holiday Open House on Nov. 9 and owner Brooke Mikesell will host some pop-up businesses in her store. Smith said she has found another pop-up business to sell from the former liquor store space and Jaksa is organizing a pop-up art show, which will take place in the Heaven space, next to the former jimgerman-bar.

Mural

The Commercial Club is also sponsoring the painting of a mural on the JP Kent building, next to the former Delta Connection. The club's executive board, the building owner, and the historical planning commission have all approved the art, which will be executed by Jaksa. The art is based off of an image Jaksa captured while traveling down Middle Waitsburg Road.

"A lot of my artwork is based on landscape and travel. It's a road traveling off into the distance and it celebrates the great big blue skies, the wheat fields, and the gravel roads. It's about the road of possibilities, the road to the horizon," she said.

Jaksa said she would like to involve the community, possibly high school students, in the creation of the mural. "This is just the basic image. It will evolve and grow. It's not the finished image," she said.

The Commercial Club will soon begin fundraising for the mural which they estimate to cost approximately $20,000.

Other

Smith said the club is also working to add dog waste receptacles on the sidewalks downtown and a Facebook partnering workshop, focused on teaching businesses to use Facebook, Instagram, and Twitter, is in the works. A financing workshop is also planned for the near future.

Football injury dashes plans for Switchgrass Delta's sister-city exchange tour

By Dena Martin | THE TIMES

WAITSBURG – Seven years ago Chris Philbrook knocked on Kate Hockersmith's door saying he wanted to be a Troublemaker (a youth bluegrass band member) and travel to Japan like they had. On Tuesday, that dream was supposed to come true. Instead, Philbrook will be undergoing surgery with his fellow band members staying stateside to offer support.

Philbrook got Kate Hockersmith back in the bluegrass business in 2010 when he came calling, asking how he could be a Troublemaker. That parent-led bluegrass band played throughout the valley for years and traveled to Japan as part of the Walla Walla-Sasayama Sister City exchange program in 2007.

As the members graduated and went their separate ways, the band disbanded, but Philbrook was the catalyst for Hockersmith to begin working with kids again. She gathered musicians, taught lessons, and eventually formed the Touchet Valley Acoustic Music Project under the umbrella of the non-profit Rural Youth Enrichment Services.

The project currently has several bands, playing at different musical levels. Switchgrass Delta, made of Philbrook on banjo, his sister Emma Philbrook on mandolin, Robert Walsh on standup bass and Kaleb Kuykendall on fiddle, is the most experienced group.

Switchgrass Delta members performed at a Lost Apple Project fundraiser on Saturday night in spite of member Chris Philbrook sustaining a severe football injury the night before. L to r: Emma Philbrook, Kaleb Kuykendall, Robert Walsh, Philbrook.

Every five years Walla Walla and Sasayama do a cultural exchange of some kind. Switchgrass Delta members have spent the last two years practicing and fundraising to be the performers in that exchange, which takes place this year, as part of the exchange program's 45th anniversary. The anticipated trip was just a week away, when a tough tackle put an end to the band's plans.

Philbrook, the star running back for the DW football team, received a debilitating injury during the Sept. 29 game against Lyle-Wishram.

"I was carrying the ball and one of their players grabbed onto my ankle and started to roll on it. When I was falling down, another player came in and hit my leg the wrong way. It snapped my fibula and tore the ligaments that keep my ankle in place," Philbrook said.

The injury didn't stop the band for a minute, however. Philbrook got hit on a Friday night and the band played for an event at the GESA Powerhouse Theater on Saturday morning and for a fundraising dinner in Waitsburg on Saturday night.

"We just propped Chris' leg up on a chair and carried on," Hockersmith.

Philbrook had a doctor's appointment on Oct. 4, after the swelling had gone down, and he and his band members were hopeful that he would be put in a cast and the Japan trip could continue as planned. Unfortunately, that was not to be.

The doctor said Philbrook would need surgery to keep his ankle in place while the ligaments heal. Instead of heading to the airport on Oct. 10, Philbrook headed to the operating room.

His fellow band members had the option to make the trip without him, but opted not to.

"They said they started as a band and they would either go as a band or not at all," Hock-

ELEMENTARY STUDENTS HELP HURRICANE VICTIMS

Relief efforts teach social responsibility, kindness and compassion

By Dena Martin | THE TIMES

WAITSBURG – Waitsburg elementary students are learning and practicing giving and compassion as well as academics. From Oct. 3-13 grade school students are collecting supplies for children affected by hurricanes Harvey, Irma and Maria. The supplies will be gathered into kits and distributed to children in need by the United Methodist Committee on Relief (UMCOR).

Kindergarten teacher Pam Beasley initiated the project and said students have responded enthusiastically. She encouraged each student to contribute at least one item, but says many wanted to do more and asked where they could send backpacks, books, food and blankets.

"We talked about how school is one of our 'safe places' and that by sending school supply bags, we are helping the victims of the hurricane feel safe, and learn, again," Beasley said.

Beasley said elementary staff are constantly working on kindness, compassion, and respect in the school.

"When I saw this relief opportunity through UMCOR, I knew the students would embrace it, and they have. It's a way of helping others outside their own 'bubble' and a way to teach social responsibility," Beasley said.

"Also, today I showed all students the affected areas on the globe. There was a collective gasp from each group as I showed them the area of Dominica, where our para, Eleanora Montgomery's family lives. They survived the hurricanes, but were left with nothing. I think this brought the disaster closer," she added.

The districts is donating through UMCOR because the organization spends 100 percent of designated donations on the projects donors specify. The organization accepts hygiene, cleaning, and school supply kits to areas affected by disaster and Waitsburg teachers felt a collection of school supplies would be the most appropriate and meaningful to their students.

The school supplies kits contain specific items including: three spiral or top-bound pads, 24-count boxes of crayons, blunt scissors, 2-inch or larger erasers, unsharpened pencils, hand-held pencil sharpeners, 30-centimeter rulers (no advertisements). All items should be free from advertisements, religious, patriotic, military or camouflage symbols. The items are then packaged in a 14"x16" cloth bags, which will be sewn by women from the Pioneer Methodist Church in Walla Walla.

Each elementary classroom has a donation basket and donors can send individual items, entire kits or even funds that can be used to purchase items. Students are encouraged to earn money for the cause by doing yard work, cleaning, or other chores. Please contact Pam Beasley at (509) 337-6461 with any questions.

Megan Robins made eight kills and nine digs, Tatum Laughery served a perfect 19/19 with three aces and ten digs and Shaelyn Fortier served 12/12 with three aces and seven digs.

Dayton Loses to TCP in Five

DAYTON - The Lady Bulldogs took the first two matches 25-26 and 25-21, but Tri-Cities Prep rallied to take the final three matches 25-12, 26-24, 15-10 for the win on the Dayton court on Oct. 3.

"We played together our first two sets but then completely lost our edge," said Dayton coach Shannon Turner. "We couldn't pass the ball and made numerous unforced errors. We need to stay focused and finish a match. We got lazy and quit communicating," she added.

Hanna Becker served 14/15 with two aces, 15 kills, nine assists, nine blocks and eight digs. Megan Robins served a perfect 24/24 with five aces, eight kills, one block and 17 digs. Scully Castorena went 19/20 on the service line and made three aces, seven kills, 13 assists, one block, and 20 digs while Kaleigh White made 13 kills, two aces, three blocks, and nine digs.

"We will learn from this and move forward," Turner said.

Lady Cards Fall to St. John-Endicott in Four

By Dena Martin | THE TIMES

ST. JOHN - The Lady Cards fell to St. John-Endicott in a hard-fought four matches on the Eagle's court on Thurs., Oct. 5. Waitsburg dropped the first two matches 18-25 and 13-25, won match number three 25-18, but dropped the final match 20-25.

"We didn't play very well in the first two sets. We tried a couple of different rotations with girls in different positions and they didn't make the adjustment. In the third set we went back to our original rotation and the girls were clearly more comfortable and played much better. In the fourth set, we dug ourselves a huge hole (about 10-1) before making a run and coming back," said Cardinal coach Angie Potts.

Devon Harshman led the stats with an impressive seven kills, six blocks, two aces and four digs. Taylor Jones made four kills, two blocks, three digs, and one ace, Kirsten Miller made five kills, seven digs, and two aces, and Ariel Sandau made four kills and six digs. Amy Farley added another two kills and one block, Teagan Larsen made four digs, and Kailyn Lewis added one kill and one block.

"We still have several things to work on and improve on such as consistent serving and better serve receive passing. We missed 11 serves in the first two sets and aren't passing the ball where it needs to be to be effective. We'll get there and the girls are willing to work hard to make the improvements," Potts said.

The match left the Cardinals standing at 0-4 in league play and 7-9 overall. The Cardinals will play a league match against Colton on Oct. 10, at home.

DW CANCELS JV FOOTBALL

By Dena Martin | THE TIMES

WAITSBURG/DAYTON - Due to declining numbers on the DW football roster, the last high school junior varsity football game was Mon., Oct. 9 in Irrigon. JV athletes will remain on the roster, at practice, and at varsity games but there will be no further JV games for the season.

The original JV/Varsity roster listed 35 athletes. An updated roster, released last week, lists 27 players. Head DW football coach Troy Larsen attributed the decline to a mix of students moving from the district, players quitting, grade ineligibility and injuries.

Also, players are limited in the number of quarters of football they are allowed to play in a season. Larsen said this year's team only has seven linemen on the whole team. The younger linemen have played both JV and varsity, which is maxing them out on play time.

"Then with (Chris) Philbrook out for the year (with a leg injury), freshman Shawn Evans will be the starting quarterback. So we have just run out of bodies," Larsen said.

MABTON FOOTBALL GAME CANCELLED

MABTON - The DW football team traveled to Mabton for a league game Friday night but a failure to schedule referees, which is the responsibility of the home team, resulted in the game being cancelled. Both teams arrived ready to play and waited for approximately an hour before heading home, according to WHS school officials.

The schools are working to coordinate a makeup game date. The WIAA is testing the RPI system, which is used to seed tournaments, so the game must be played.

Why do you feel uncomfortable in your childhood bedroom? These are just a few of the questions Janning will discuss.

FORMER PRESCOTT SUPERINTENDENT PASSES AWAY

CLE ELUM, Wash. – Former Prescott school district superintendents, Lloyd Olson, passed away on Sept. 24 at his home in Cle Elum, at age 84, of natural causes.

Olson was credited with having a positive impact on the Chumicum School District where he was superintendent from 1976 to 1988, and oversaw the building of the town's new high school in 1979. Prior to taking his position in Chumicum, Olson was district superintendent in Prescott from 1970 to 1976.

Four of Olson's seven children went on to become educators.

HUMAN MIGRATION COMMUNITY CONVERSATION

DAYTON – The Dayton Memorial Library and Humanities Washington have collaborated to bring speaker David Fenner to Dayton for a free speaker's bureau event titled The Long Haul: Stories of Human Migration. The community is invited to engage in conversation with Fenner on Thurs., Oct. 26 at 6:30 p.m. at the library.

In his talk, Fenner explores the factors that cause human migration, which in turn can help us understand more fully events in the headlines and better know the mosaic of peoples who have settled in the Pacific Northwest.

For more than 200,000 years, Homo sapiens have moved around the planet drawn and driven by natural and man-made forces such as drought, floods, crop failure, was, the quest for survival, or the hope for a better future.

TEENY MCMUNN: MY RECIPE BOX

LIGHT AND FLUFFY SPINACH QUICHE

Quiche is a bit like stir fry; most anything can go into it. This one caught my attention because for some reason we have three dozen eggs in the refrigerator. I like a breakfast dinner, so for me, this would be dinner with fried potatoes and fruit. Quiche is good for all three meals and is easily warmed up.

INGREDIENTS:

½ c. light mayonnaise

½ c. milk

4 eggs, lightly beaten

8 oz shredded reduced-fat Cheddar cheese

1 -10 oz package frozen chopped spinach, thawed and squeezed dry

¼ c. chopped onion

1-9 inch unbaked pie shell

DIRECTIONS:

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Line a cookie sheet with foil.

In a large bowl, whisk together mayonnaise and milk until smooth.

Whisk in eggs. Layer spinach, cheese, and onion in pie shell, making several layers of each. Pour in egg mixture. Place quiche on prepared cookie sheet. Cover quiche with foil.

Bake for 45 minutes. Remove cover and bake 10 to 15 minutes, or until top is golden brown and filling is set.

MY NOTES: Add your choice of meats, if you like, as well as other vegetables. I like broccoli so will add that. I will use regular (not reduced fat) cheese and probably part cheddar and part swiss.

I believe the pie shells come in a package of two. If so, I'll make two quiches and freeze one. Perfect for a night that I don't have much time to make a dinner, or to take on my next visit to see my grandkids for an easy and quick lunch.

ersmith said. "It wasn't a difficult decision, but it's still hard. Emma had studied Japanese for a long time and the kids were really looking forward to the trip."

On a positive note, the band members will be able to get back at least a good portion of the money they paid toward the trip. With concerns about the political unrest with North Korea, the group bought trip insurance, which they normally wouldn't have purchased.

Hockersmith isn't sure how much of their trip money will be refunded, but she and the band members are hopeful that they will be able to plan a different trip, perhaps this summer.

"I feel bad that I ruined the experience for everyone else but it's also really nice what the band is doing," Philbrook said.

Lost Apple Detective Plans Return Visit

DAVID BENSCOTER IS HOPEFUL TO DISCOVER LOST APPLE VARIETIES IN LOCAL ORCHARDS

By Dena Martin | THE TIMES

WAITSBURG – David Bencotter, aka the Lost Apple Detective, had a productive trip to Waitsburg last month and is already looking forward to a return visit, according to Kate Hockersmith, who spearheaded his visit.

A large crowd showed up to support Bencotter at a fundraising dinner held at Ten Ton Press in Waitsburg on Sat., Sept. 30. The Columbia County Extension Office provided Sauerkraut Stew and Warren Orchards provided apple tasting and apple cider. Switchgrass Delta entertained the crowd with their bluegrass playlist.

"We had lots of great donations for a silent auction and altogether, between food, cider, the auction, and donations, raised over $500 for The Lost Apple Project, which is part of the Whitman County Historical Society," Hockersmith said.

Following the fundraiser, history and apple enthusiasts joined Bencotter at the Lions Club Building at the fairgrounds to learn more about the apple industry in Washington as well as eastern Washington history.

Earlier on Saturday, Tom Land and Carla Rose joined Bencotter and Hockersmith to explore Jasper Mountain in search of old apple orchards. Hockersmith had arranged site visits with landowners, which did not disappoint.

"Dave found interesting trees in most of the orchards he visited and took samples to be identified by apple experts. He found several trees that were not quite ripe yet, and hopes to come back the end of October to check those again," Hockersmith said.

On Sunday, Bencotter scouted up Lewis Gulch Road and the north fork of the Touchet River where he took more samples and will likely return as well.

"Dave was quite excited about our area's apple trees. He thinks we may have lost apple varieties in these old orchards!" Hockersmith said.
