Wheat fire claims 1,100 acres

THE TIMES

WALLA WALLA COUNTY—A fire broke out in a standing wheat field just north of Walla Walla on Friday, July 29. The fire was contained around 8 p.m. that night. The flames consumed more than 1,000 acres in a matter of hours, drawing responses from nearly all Walla Walla County fire districts, with aid coming from Walla Walla and College Place rural units.

This fire has been dubbed the “Van Ausdle Fire” due to its starting point near Van Ausdle Lane.

The cause of the fire is under investigation, and fire district officials said no injuries were reported. The potential for harm to firefighters and others was increased by community members who drove to the area to watch the fire, forcing the Walla Walla County Public Works and Walla Walla Sheriff’s Office to set up road barriers to the site.

While it may be safe to observe from a distance, it is crucial to keep roadways clear to give firefighters unobstructed access to the area.

Onlookers can also create hazards for home and property owners in the event of an evacuation. A level one, or “Get Ready,” evacuation notice for this fire was in effect for residents in the area that runs between Lower and Middle Waitsburg roads. In rural areas, evacuation can include animal trailers, farm equipment, and family vehicles. Unnecessary and unauthorized vehicles can cause traffic delays and added stress for those evacuating.

Though drones were not an issue at the Van Ausdle fire, Walla Walla County Emergency officials remind the public that drones are prohibited from operating around a fire.

For notification on emergencies and fires, Walla Walla County residents are encouraged to sign up for the Citizen Alert Notification by visiting <https://tinyurl.com/2hyprjd>.

The Jungle Book takes the stage on August 5, 6

By Beka Compton | THE TIMES

DAYTON—Shere Kan, Mowgli, and Baloo will take center stage at the Liberty Theater this weekend, in Dayton. Missoula Children’s Theater is back with their summer production of “The Jungle Book.”

The Missoula Children’s Theater (MCT) visits all 50 States, five Canadian Provinces, and 16 different countries. With the exception of 2020, the Missoula Children’s Theater has visited Dayton each summer for a week-long production of their choosing for many years. This year, a record-breaking amount of kids turned up to audition for a part, according to MCT Tour Directors Valerie Kinley and Devon Johnson.

“Things are going so well,” Kinley said. “The students are excellent- it’s only day number two. I worked with a group of kids yesterday, and today, we went over and reviewed the things we worked on. They have grown so much, and put so much personality into their lines!”

It’s been a short rehearsal time; the group first got together on Monday, August 1, and have been practicing hard all week. Two shows are being offered to the public on Friday, August 5 and Saturday, August 6. Both shows will begin at 7 p.m.

“This is one of the most fun groups of kids I have gotten to work with so far on this tour,” Johnson said. “We only have 20 hours to put on a full-length musical. The fact that they can commit to it all week and give it their all has been a real treat.”

Both Johnson and Kinley are excited for opening night, and look forward to watching the actors and actresses showcase their hardwork.

The Liberty Theater is currently recommending that masks be worn while watching a production or show to lessen the chance of COVID-19 spread. Tickets are available online at www.libertytheater.org. Pre-purchased tickets are preferred due to limited seating.

Rhythm and beat exercises were part of an afternoon rehearsal with Valerie Kinley at the Liberty Theater. This is Kinley’s first production in Dayton, and she looks forward to opening night on August 5.

Beka Compton

Missoula Children’s Theater Tour Director and Actor Devon Johnson led young actors during a Tuesday afternoon rehearsal. Johnson said that this group of Dayton actors and actresses has been one of the best groups this tour season.

AT THE LIBERTY:

The Jungle Book

THE TIMES

DAYTON—The Jungle Book live - on Friday and Saturday, August 5 and 6, at 7 pm - performed by local children, who will have rehearsed since August 1. The storyline is: Ever been abandoned in the jungle, adopted by wolves, taught by a bear, befriended by a panther and chased by a tiger? In the musical adaptation of The Jungle Book, Mowgli the man-cub has all these adventures and more. Join him as he escapes from the Monkey-people, outwits a tiger, enlists the help of a rock-python, explores what it means to be human and learns a lesson from the brave mongoose Rikki-Tikki-Tavi. Original music and rollicking humor give new life to the classic tale by Rudyard Kipling.

Please see the Liberty Theater website to reserve seats. We have eliminated the seat buffering between groups. However, the incidence and spread of BA.5 variant of COVID is high, so we highly recommend that you wear face masks in the theater. We appreciate your cooperation.

There will be no movies shown on Friday (Aug. 5), Saturday, Sunday or Tuesday (Aug. 9). Our next movie will be Minions: The Rise of Gru beginning on August 12.

THANK YOU TO WAITSBURG EMERGENCY SERVICES

THE TIMES

I would like to thank the Waitsburg Ambulance Service and Walla Walla Ambulance Service for saving my life on July 25, 2022. If it was not for them, I would no longer be here...they resuscitated me twice.

And I want to thank Patty Gleason for calling 911 for help... I was stubborn and said, "just call Rosie, she can take me in the car to the Emergency Room" ...she is not only a good horseshoeing client but a wonderful friend. Had it not been for the great care of the paramedics/volunteers I would not have made it.

So, thank you again, you all have my respect and admiration. Don't ever think we don't need these people.

SUPPORT FOR JENKINS

Dear Editor,

I give my full support to Jeff Jenkins as Columbia County Sheriff. As a population health nurse in this community there is an identified need for collaborating individuals in positions of decision making and policy that will help address the population health needs of our rural health community. There are multiple barriers in serving rural communities ie: outsourced resources, lower socioeconomic status, and an over representation of elderly population. Palliative care/population health have started hosting monthly multidisciplinary team meetings to address some of these challenges in our community concerning mental health/ addiction etc. Participating in Multidisciplinary team meetings have shown me that they are pointless without a strong working team effort.

I have had the opportunity to work with deputy Jeff Jenkins on several challenging cases. Jeff Jenkins was instrumental in saving a man's life late last year related to legislation restricting police response to mental health/ medical crisis. Jeff was able to think outside of the box around these barriers to collaboratively address the crisis and I have seen him do this multiple times in other cases. Critical thinking in this capacity is exactly what this community requires from its leaders so that we can better serve our region and community. We have so many barriers already that it is time to work together as a team without boundaries or limits to serve our rural community. This is the reason I support Jeff Jenkins.

HISTORY BROUGHT TO LIFE AT FORT WALLA WALLA MUSEUM

THE TIMES

WALLA WALLA—Lewis & Clark Living History Weekend kicks off Saturday at Fort Walla Walla Museum. Learn about the historical expedition on Saturday, August 6, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., and Sunday, August 7, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Pacific Northwest Living Historians (PNLH) will demonstrate the tools and skills employed by the Lewis and Clark expedition during this two-day special event.

Captain Meriwether Lewis and Captain William Clark were sent by President Thomas Jefferson to explore the newly acquired Louisiana Territory, seeking the best route to the Pacific Ocean through the Pacific Northwest. From 1804 to 1806, they led the Corps of Northwestern Discovery overland from St. Louis, Missouri, to the mouth of the Columbia River and back again.

With no means for resupply, the Corps (a U.S. Army unit of 31 men accompanied by Sacagawea and her infant child, Jean Baptiste) needed to use diverse skills and the right tools to survive.

PNLH interpreters, wearing clothing in the style of the Corps in 1805-1806, will demonstrate tools and skills, including flintlock firearms, fire starting with flint and steel, camp cooking, making clothing from leather, and making canoe paddles.

Visitors will also learn the history and stories of the Lewis and Clark expedition: the native people that they met, the unfamiliar territory they traveled and mapped, and the strange new animals and plants they discovered.

William McBean, Hudson's Bay Company trader, will be at the museum on Saturday, August 6, at 2 p.m. Living History performances bring history to life with reenactors portraying real people from the area's past.

Canadian William McBean came to the Walla Walla region in 1846. He became the chief trader in charge of the Hudson's Bay Company fort during the Whitman Massacre in 1847. He left Fort Walla Walla in 1855 during the Indian Wars and later returned to the region with his Indian wife and children. McBean continued to reside in Walla Walla and was active in assisting various Catholic institutions until he died in 1892.

It's that time again; each August, the museum likes to celebrate summer with an old-fashioned family event, including games, living history, and ice cream. Cool off at the Ice Cream Social, featuring the interactive Oregon Trail Game, on Sunday, August 14, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

This year, FWWM is bringing back the interactive Oregon Trail Game, inspired by the popular 1985 education video game. Bring your team and survival skills to make it from Independence, Missouri, all the way to Fort Walla Walla. In this kid-friendly game, there will be calamities to overcome, fun activities to complete, and a photo opportunity at the end.

From packing your wagon with supplies to overcoming obstacles along the way (snakebite remedy, anyone?), kids and adults alike will have a lot of fun learning about travel on the Trail. Judge William Langford, portrayed by Don Schacht, will give a Living History performance at 2 p.m. Born in Ohio in 1835, Langford later came to Oregon to study law. He was the last territorial justice of the Washington Territorial Supreme Court to serve in Walla Walla County, appointed by President Grover Cleveland on December 3, 1885.

SHERWOOD TRUST OPENS FALL IMPACT GRANT OPPORTUNITIES

THE TIMES

WALLA WALLA—Regional nonprofits and qualified agencies are invited to submit inquiries for Sherwood Trust Impact Grants that will be awarded in November. Impact Grants are available to fund up to $15,000 to nonprofits and agencies serving Walla Walla or Columbia County, Washington, or Milton-Freewater, Oregon.

This year's Impact Grants will favor organizations that have not previously received Sherwood Trust funding or two or more organizations working on a shared outcome.

"Impact Grants can support important, smaller projects," said Hunt. "We're especially interested in hearing from organizations that have not previously received a Sherwood Trust grant and collaborative projects shared by two or more organizations."

Letters of Interest for Impact Grants are due Friday, September 9, 2022. Organizations are encouraged to contact Sherwood Trust to discuss prior to submitting materials. Impact Grant recipients will be announced in November.

To learn more about Sherwood Trust grant guidelines and eligibility go to www.sherwood-trust.org.

Sherwood Trust is a private, placed-based foundation that supports capacity-building to ensure that everyone in the Walla Walla Valley has a sense of belonging and contributes to a thriving region. Founded in 1991 to continue the legacy of Donald and Virginia Sherwood's efforts to make the Walla Walla Valley a better place, it has invested more than $35 million to strengthen nonprofits and improve communities here. For more information, please visit www.sherwoodtrust.org

The defaults referred to in Paragraph III must be cured by 8/22/2022 (11 days before the sale date), or by other date as permitted in the Note or Deed of Trust, the default as set forth in Paragraph III is cured and the Trustee's fees and costs are paid. Payment must be in cash or with cashiers or certified checks from a State or federally chartered bank. The sale may be terminated any time after the 8/22/2022 (11 days before the sale date) and before the sale, by the Borrower or Grantor or the holder of any recorded junior lien or encumbrance by paying the principal and interest, plus costs, fees and advances, if any, made pursuant to the terms of the obligation and/or Deed of Trust, and curing all other defaults. VI. A written Notice of Default was transmitted by the Beneficiary or Trustee to the Borrower(s) and Grantor(s) by both first class and certified mail, proof of which is in the possession of the Trustee; and the Borrower and Grantor were personally served, if applicable, with said written Notice of Default or the written Notice of Default was posted in a conspicuous place on the real property described in Paragraph I above, and the Trustee has possession of proof of such service or posting. The list of recipients of the Notice of Default is listed within the Notice of Foreclosure provided to the Borrower(s) and Grantor(s). These requirements were completed as of 3/21/2022. VII. The Trustee whose name and address are set forth below will provide in writing to anyone requesting it, a statement of all costs and fees due at any time prior to the sale. VIII. The effect of the sale will be to deprive the Grantor and all those who hold by, through or under the Grantor of all their interest in the above-described property. IX. Anyone having any objections to this sale on any grounds whatsoever will be afforded an opportunity to be heard as to those objections if they bring a lawsuit to restrain the sale pursuant to RCW 61.24.130. Failure to bring such a lawsuit may result in a waiver of any proper grounds for invalidating the Trustee's sale. X. NOTICE TO OCCUPANTS OR TENANTS – The purchaser at the Trustee's Sale is entitled to possession of the property on the 20th day following the sale, as against the Grantor under the deed of trust (the owner) and anyone having an interest junior to the deed of trust, including occupants who are not tenants. After the 20th day following the sale the purchaser has the right to evict occupants who are not tenants by summary proceedings under Chapter 59.12 RCW. For tenant-occupied property, the purchaser shall provide a tenant with written notice in accordance with RCW 61.24.060. THIS NOTICE IS THE FINAL STEP BEFORE THE FORECLOSURE SALE OF YOUR HOME. # Palouse Outdoors: Upland Pursuits – A Fly Fishing Farewell

By Brad Trumbo | THE TIMES

The high cumulonimbus clouds born of afternoon heat, dust particulate, and inexplicable humidity morphed into a nebulous gray bank of doom. Nate and I were headed east into the Blues for an evening of temping mountain rainbows with big dry flies – his last outing before moving to New England two days hence.

“Seems to storm every evening I fish the Blues,” I said as we wound out of the foothills into the mountain canyon.

“A little rain just makes the fishing better,” Nate replied, ignoring the potential for lightning strikes.

With lightning in mind (or my wish to avoid it), I selected a river reach low in the watershed, expecting the bulk of the storm to pass further into the mountains. It had been about five years since I fished this particular river reach, and I recalled the habitat as mediocre, meaning few good pools and log jams and little variation in depth and riffle-run-pool sequence. Regardless, the few good spots were always worth checking out.

The usual small-talk of flies and tippet sizes ensued on the tailgate as we donned our waders. In his couple years in Walla Walla, Nate had never fished the mountain streams and had no idea what to expect.

“These fish are easy,” I said. “Little resident rainbows and juvenile steelhead that are more than happy to take whatever you’ve got on a 5x tippet. Typical mountain stream trout fishing.”

Once geared up, we busted the brush toward the sound of rushing water. I expected to emerge on a stretch of creek flowing in a long straight riffle with a run cutting into the bank about 100 yards upstream. That bank undercut is where I figured we would start, but what we found instead was the result of stream restoration efforts and Mother Nature’s handiwork with the recent high-water events.

Nate and I found ourselves standing below a small log jam with a beautiful pool and a couple of similar scenarios stair-stepping their way upstream. This wood addition transformed a formerly unremarkable reach into something I was excited to fish.

Approaching the first pool, I pointed to a deep spot below the wood, looked at Nate, and said, “you can find a few in there.” I left him to fish and headed up to the next pool. A large log spanned the channel, and water spilled over near a root wad. Another plunge pool formed there, and a shallow glide edged the depths, presenting several areas with good potential to hold fish.

Starting on the left side of the pool, I cast a fluffy stimulator caddis. A few small fish came to hand from the root wad, many bumping the big fly as it bobbed along but struggling to fit the hair mass into their small gapes. But big or small, watching trout attempt to smash a big dry fly provides endless entertainment.

Turning my attention to the head of the pool, a few more dinks challenged the fly; each brilliantly colored like jewels in a treasure chest. It seemed odd that a bigger fish didn’t come from beneath the log. Shifting right a little, I cast toward the glide.

As the fly bounced against the log and floated back into the glide, a fish larger than any I had caught in this stream since 2013 swiftly rose and engulfed the meal, then quickly reminded me what it was like to fight a strong fish on a Tenkara fly rod. The fish was over fourteen inches, thick and deep, quick and fast, and would have been into the drag had I been using a standard rod and reel. Somehow, I thwarted its attempts to blast downstream through the riffles and break me off. As the fish slid into the shallows, I admired its beauty and effort, and released it with the hope that it would grow another year.

Nate and I moved upstream at a snail’s pace, stopping to pluck a trout or two from every pocket. The approximate mile-long reach had been completely re-born into what a mountain stream should be. Side channels were cut throughout the floodplain as a result of the frequent and varied log jams. One area presented a side channel that appeared to have been cut this past spring. Reed canary grass was peeled back from the shoreline in a wide swath, and hummocks of root-bound soil clung to existence. Gravel bars were covered in wildflowers and willow and cottonwood saplings, suggesting the riparian forest was regenerating post-disturbance, as nature intended.

A light rumbling overhead soon delivered a soft rain on the outskirts of the storm – a perfect time to call it an evening. We sat on the tailgate with bottles of rich amber suds, talking of the dreams to be realized in the Northwoods. The evening sun cast a warm hue on the distant mountains, illuminating the raindrops and adding deep contrast to the overall setting. A fine Blue Mountain send-off for a good friend. He just might miss this place before long.

Around the Valley: With Karen Huwe

My sister won a lottery! A successful fishing trip, and I finished the month of July enjoying a parade in Oregon.

By Karen Huwe | THE TIMES

The lottery was not for money but a week’s stay at beautiful Lake Tapp near Bonney Lake, Washington. My sisters, sans one, and I enjoyed a two-bedroom cabin with a kitchen and a deck overlooking the lake.

After stopping at the store to stock up on groceries, we enjoyed a boat ride compliments of an area resident and his family. At the lake, we saw geese, goslings, eagles, hot air balloons, and lots of people enjoying water sports. Mount Rainier is the backdrop of the lake, which made for awesome pictures while boating and later in the week during our kayak trips.

We took a day trip to Mount Rainier, and though unable to drive through areas under construction or see the Grove of the Patriarchs due to flooding damage, we did hike on the Sunrise trail.

On another day trip, we walked around the Museum of Glass in Tacoma, saw Victor Falls in Bonney Lake, and hiked to the Bubbling Geyser in Auburn.

From our cabin, it was a nice walk to Lake Tapps Park, a popular place with locals. It was a relaxing week of good food, good company, and a variety of games. If you ever go by Bonney Lake, be sure to check out Lake Tapps and Mount Rainier. You won’t be disappointed.

Karen Huwe

Sisters Sandra and Joan enjoy the view of Mount Rainier on our hike on the Sunrise trail

Next was our trip to go salmon fishing. We traveled to Brewster, Wash., to spend the night before we were to be at the dock at 4:30 a.m. A fisherman at the hotel said to my sister the following day, “You must be going fishing as who else would get up before the crack of dawn.”

After a ten-mile drive to Bridgeport, we took a six-mile boat ride to the mouth of the Okanogan with boat owner Dave, my sister’s friend, and his two children. Fishing was good, with a limit on Sockeye salmon of four per person. Dave was a great guide, his young kids were a great help in the boat, and we all caught our limits.

This salmon trip was the second for me and my sisters and the first for Allen. It was an enjoyable time, and although there were about 100 boats in the area, it didn’t feel crowded. We had a filet when we got home, and it sure was good. Find a guide and hook a big one.

Saturday, July 30th, Allen and I, along with our daughter and grandkids, took a trip to Irrigon, Oregon to check out the Irrigon Watermelon Festival. It is a yearly event with a lot of activities for young and old. It was a hot day, and after a quick walk through the park, we headed to Main Street for the parade. There was a huge crowd on one side of the street: the side with the shade. The parade lasted for about an hour, and the amount of candy handed out was massive. After the parade, we went back to the park for hamburgers, fries, and, of course, a big slice of watermelon. The park was packed with numerous vendors, some with free giveaways. There was a band, entertainment, bingo, kids’ games, a softball tournament, and a car show. There was a lot to do at the Watermelon Festival. Be sure to check it out in July 2023.

A lottery, salmon, and a parade in July. What will August bring?

Waterbrook 2020 Reserve Chardonnay

I’ve been drinking a lot of Chardonnay during the recent hot weather, and if you put a slight chill on the bottle (about 20 minutes in the fridge) it can be a most refreshing choice. This Waterbrook Chard is labeled as a reserve but falls into the value category for me as it is difficult to find this kind of flavor at this kind of price. It’s more generous than pretentious, done in a straight-ahead style with bold fruit flavors of apple and lemon meringue pie. A wash of toasty oak puts a pretty frame around the finish.

If Karen Mohny's math is correct, the Rainbow Girls group has been active in Waitsburg for more than 75 years and about 680 to 700 Waitsburg girls have been part of the organization. Mohny, the current mother advisor of the Waitsburg group, is no stranger to Rainbow herself. And there are many other volunteers and board members who have also spent many years of their lives involved in the organization. The women, older and younger, say they stay with Rainbow because of the lifelong friendships they develop, the confidence it gives them, the volunteer lessons they learn, the faith it promotes and because it gets them ready to be a helpful and contributing woman in society.

Pasta alla Nerano

While ripe tomatoes and sweet corn are what I most associate with summer cooking, it is bountiful zucchini that usually manages to make an appearance at every meal of the season. Living in a town full of seasoned, and generous, backyard gardeners, there can never be enough zucchini recipes to have on hand. Thankfully, the dark-green summer squash is as versatile in the kitchen as it is prolific in the garden. Grilled, roasted, or sauteed, zucchini takes on different flavors with every culinary technique. Here, it is fried before being made into a creamy pasta sauce with parmesan and herbs. A recipe originally from the tiny town of Nerano along the picturesque Amalfi Coast, this dish is a perfect example of the simplicity and ease of seasonal Italian cuisine.

Ingredients:

- 28 ounces zucchini, approximately 4 to 5 small or 2 to 3 large
- 2 tablespoons olive oil
- 2 tablespoons canola oil
- 2 cloves garlic, halved lengthwise
- Salt and fresh ground black pepper
- 1 pound spaghetti or linguini
- 1 tablespoon fresh oregano, chopped
- 2 tablespoons fresh parsley, chopped
- ½ cup parmesan, grated (plus more for serving)
- 2 tablespoon butter
- Pinch crushed red chili flakes (optional)

Directions:

Prepare a large pot of salted water and set over medium heat. Slice the zucchini into thin, ¼-inch thick, rounds. If the zucchini is very large you could cut into half-moons.

In a large skillet, heat the canola and olive oil over medium heat. When the oil is glistening, add the garlic halves and cook gently for several minutes until the garlic is lightly golden and the oil is fragrant. Be careful not to burn the garlic. Remove garlic from the oil and set aside. Raise the heat to medium-high. Working in several batches, add slices of zucchini in single layers to the hot oil. Watch out for hot splatters. Cook for a couple of minutes on each side, until zucchini is lightly browned and beginning to blister. Adjust heat as you cook, to keep an even cooking temperature. Do not overcrowd the pan as it will start steaming the squash and make it difficult to brown. Remove browned zucchini from the oil and drain on sheet pan lined with paper towels. Generously season cooked zucchini with salt and pepper as it drains.

Raise heat on pot of water to high and bring to a boil. Cook pasta al dente per package instructions. Before draining pasta, use a heat proof measuring cup to reserve 1 cup of the pasta cooking water. Drain pasta.

Working quickly, add approximately a third of the browned zucchini to a blender along with the browned garlic halves, half the pasta water, and the minced oregano. Blend until smooth. Return pasta to the large pot along with the zucchini puree and set over medium heat. Add the parsley, butter, and parmesan, stirring to melt. When cheese is melted and sauce is creamy, add the remaining zucchini rounds. If using crushed pepper flakes, add them at this point to taste. Add more splashes of the pasta water as needed to make sauce the right velvety texture and to have it cling to pasta. Keep stirring vigorously until the zucchini slices are heated through and the sauce is the perfect consistency. Taste, then adjust seasoning, adding more salt and pepper as needed. Serve immediately with more parmesan sprinkled on top.

Notes:

The browning of the zucchini is an important step to build flavor to the sauce. You want to adjust the temperature of the burner between medium to medium-high to let zucchini cook tender quickly, but also to brown evenly.

Traditionally this recipe is made with torn fresh basil added in the last step. I substituted with fresh oregano, because I had it on hand, and because I love the robust flavor it adds. Experiment with your favorite fresh tender herbs.

Some versions of this classic dish use an aged Provolone del Monaco or Caciocavallo cheese instead of (or in combination with) the parmesan. Since both of these Italian cheeses may be hard to find, simply using a hunk of good quality parmesan works just perfectly. I always prefer grating my own cheese.

This kind of pasta is all about timing. Have all your ingredients prepared and ready to cook before starting. As the last batch of zucchini is browning raise the heat on the pot of water to boil. Work quickly when stirring the sauce together in final step. The pasta cooking water is the magic ingredient in sauces like this, adding a little starchiness to help the sauce cling to noodles. Enjoy!
