PRIDE OF WAITSBURG

The Preston Hall Middle School 7-8th grade band was the pride of Waitsburg on March 15. The band traveled to Garfield-Palouse High School in Palouse, for the Middle School Band Festival, and came away with a Superior rating. This photo was taken shortly after their performance. The band played two songs for the judges and a large audience of other music students: Tunbridge Overture by Mark Williams and The Curse of Tutankhamun by Michael Story. The Preston Hall Band will play these songs, and more, at their Spring Concert on May 14.

Waitsburg Voters to Weigh in on Grandstands

ADVISORY MEASURE WILL BE INCLUDED ON APRIL CITY ELECTION BALLOT

By Dena Martin | THE TIMES

WAITSBURG - At their regular March meeting, the Waitsburg City Council opened the floor to the public prior to adding an advisory item to the April 3 ballot seeking community input on how to progress with the grandstands at the Waitsburg fairgrounds.

"Before we can move forward, we need to move forward," said Mayor Marty Dunn.

Dunn explained that the council has been struggling with what to do with the fairgrounds grandstands and gathering information on options for years. He read a letter from an unnamed fairgrounds committee member, which explained the reason for the ballot measure. It stated that the committee was given a set amount of time to formulate recommendations, and that time has expired.

"There were varying options at the last meeting regarding public interest. That is the reason for an advisory vote on the ballot: to actually gauge public interest. Considering the relatively low historic turnout in uncontested City elections it still may not be a valid measure," the letter read.

"... Currently the grandstands are a potential liability. Some believe they could have a future as an event venue, which would be positive for the community. However, the space could be available as an event venue without the grandstands or other permanent seating. We hope the voting public will express their opinion knowing all options will use taxpayer money, since all options concerning the grandstands have a big price tag. It is time for this topic to be decided so time and energy can be redirected," the letter continued.

The ballot proposal presented to council included three options:

Option 1 - Demolish the structure at a cost of approximately $20,000 - $25,000.

Option 2 - Repair the existing structure at a cost of $41,000 - $70,000.

Option 3 - Remove and replace the structure at a cost of approximately $500,000.

The ballot item also states that Option 2 and Option 3 could require a property tax increase to cover debt service.

Council member Kate Hockersmith expressed concern about the wording of the ballot item, which presents demolition as the one option that won't increase taxes. She said that one contractor had bid $35,000 - $40,000 to stabilize the building.

"I do feel the wording on this is pushing towards getting rid of it. I don't think property taxes are the only way to take care of this," she said.

Community member Alison Bond was concerned about the fact that there is little time to get word out about the advisory vote item before ballots come out.

Commissioner Jackson Won't Seek Reelection

MERLE JACKSON IS FINISHING HIS FIRST TERM AS COUNTY COMMISSIONER REPRESENTING DISTRICT 2

By Michele Smith | THE TIMES

DAYTON - Commissioner Merle Jackson formally announced last week he will not seek reelection to the Columbia County Board of Commissioners when his term is up at the end of 2018. He has served one term. He said he is finally going to take life a little easier, to enjoy travels with his wife Joelle, and visits with his sons Dave and Mike and their families.

When he is not traveling, Jackson said he will be at home going through the barn, the basement, and the garage which are filled with the belongings of his great grandfather, Add Cahill, and his parents Hugh and Maxine Jackson, who have all lived in the same house on S 1st St.

"My grandfather and grandmother who lived two doors down, we got a lot of their stuff too," he said.

Jackson said he also needs to devote time to assist his son Dave with the family's farming interests on the Jackson Ranch 19 miles northeast of Dayton, and at Eckler Mountain and Bundy Hollow.

"It's just time to retire, and I hope I am more successful at that than I was previously," said Jackson with a grin.

In 2005 Jackson retired from a 37-year career in nuclear research and development that had taken him on assignments throughout the United States. He and Joelle then decided to return to Dayton.

"I retired and what I was going to do was oversee the family farm. I was going to sit on the porch and read books and do whatever retired people do," he said. "And so, I tell everybody I flunked retirement," he quipped.

Jackson was appointed to the Dayton City Council in 2006. "That's when things started. I jumped in and have been serving ever since," he said.

The Jackson family has had a long presence in the county going back before Washington became a state, in 1899. And the Jackson men have devoted many years to public service.

"I was born and raised here and had a good upbringing," he said. "It was a great place to grow up, and it gave a core set of values that helped us through the rest of life. It's kind of a family tradition of community service."

OBITUARY

Clinton David Donley February 18, 1950 - March 21, 2018

Clinton D. Donley, age 68, died March 21, 2018 at his home in Burbank, Washington. Clint was the epitome of a hard worker and was considered a jack-of-all-trades, working in auto body repair, carpentry and general contracting. However, most people knew him as a salesman, where over the years, he ran several local lumber yards, sold cars, and worked as a regional sales representative for hardware and automotive companies. This is where Clint truly excelled and was revered for his outgoing personality and ability to make lasting friendships wherever he went. He always had a way of telling a joke or funny story to connect with people.

Clint is also remembered by family, friends and fans as a great rock singer. He released two 45 rpm singles when he was in high school and continued singing with groups throughout the northwest until his final performance in Spokane, Washington several years ago.

Clint is survived by his adoring wife of 47 years, Jaklin; daughter Colleen Brazell; son and daughter-in-law Clint and Laura Donley; grandchildren Chelsie Bales, Clint Donley, Julia Donley, Madelynn Donley, Cassandra Brazell, Lucas Brazell; great granddaughter Alice Clayton; brother and sister-in-law William and Linda Donley; sisters Frances Donley, Judith Anabel; aunts Beatrice Avery, Bess Porterfield; father-in-law Delbert Mock; and many loving cousins, nieces, nephews and in-laws.

He is preceded in death by his parents, Clinton and Vivione Donley, sister (and best friend) Delores Jones, mother-in-law Louise Mock, and sister-in-law Debra Williams.

A Celebration of Life will be held for family and friends at 1:30 p.m. on April 2 at the Best Western, 2811 N 20th Ave, Pasco, Washington. A private family interment was held at the Waitsburg City Cemetery.

Memorial Contributions may be made to the Juvenile Diabetes Research Foundation or the American Heart Association through the Herring Groseclose Funeral Home, 315 W. Alder, Walla Walla, WA. 99362.

LETTER

WE'RE WORKING ON CELEBRATION DAYS

Dear Editor,

There are a bunch of wonderful people working hard to bring our annual celebration to our great, One-of-a-Kind, little city. That event is Waitsburg Celebration Days and it is being planned for the weekend of May 18, 19 and 20.

So far, our community has responded very well to helping make this weekend really special. The Parade will once again be held on Armed Forces Day, and so the theme will be "Celebrate Waitsburg, the American Way".

As Waitsburg citizens are wonderful volunteers, we (The Parade Committee) are seeking nominations of a very special person/couple to honor as our Parade Marshal. Please take a moment and consider someone who has greatly contributed to the Waitsburg community. Please write up a brief nomination for that person and mail it to the Waitsburg Celebration Days Parade Committee. The firm Deadline for this is April 9, 2018.

Your nominations would be greatly appreciated. Please mail it to Walt and Gwen Gobel, P O Box 127, Waitsburg, WA 99361. Or email it to waltandgwen@charter.net or waltgobel@charter.net.

If you are interested in helping the WCD Board of Directors with this weekend, feel free to attend our next meeting on April 16th at the Waitsburg Business Center at 7 PM.

We appreciate The Times' support of Waitsburg Celebration Days. Your enthusiasm and coverage of this event weekend makes a difference to our community.

Thanks much,
Walt Gobel & Gwen Gobel

"The outcome of this does not dictate anything. This is just the council's desire to gain some community feedback. We might get 36 people saying 'tear it down' or everyone choosing Option 3. That doesn't force our hand. What we're doing with this advisory vote is trying to get more input," said Council Member KC Kuykendall.

Dunn reminded those present that the council has been seeking community input on the grandstands for years. "We have to get out of the gate. We've got to move forward," he said.

Ballots for the Waitsburg election were out this week, and are due to be delivered to Waitsburg City Hall, or postmarked, by April 3.

CAROLYN HENDERSON: TALK ABOUT ART

Dixie Watercolor Artist Ellen Heath

Before the TV reality show that had little to do with its title, the simple life was one wise people have lived for thousands of years. It involves a lot of thinking, a sense of gratitude, and an appreciation for day-to-day elements which we tend to take for granted – especially in a corporate-based society emphasizing the over possession of advertised products to achieve happiness.

But happiness, as Dixie artist Ellen Heath knows, has nothing to do with owning a particular model of car, dressing like a pop culture icon, or wearing perfume named after a celebrity who probably doesn't use the stuff. A walk in the country, two kittens playing, sunlight dappling on a grazing horse, flowers in the meadow – the simple things that bring happiness are endearing, and enduring.

"I want people to catch a glimpse of the beauty and joy that I see in the world around us," the watercolor artist, who creates note card sets and prints of her country-themed works, says.

"I know all is not this way, but I hope people get a warm, good feeling inside when they look at my paintings – perhaps a happy memory, or a favorite person or place will flit through people's thoughts. Perhaps their day will be a bit brighter."

Through Saturday, April 21, Wenaha Gallery is showcasing a selection of Heath's note cards, prints and original art, celebrating the world of country and the lifestyle of the real and genuine.

The gallery, located at 219 East Main in Dayton, is open from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., Monday through Saturday, and invites people in to see the beauty.

As Heath says, "It may not sound very deep and artsy, but I guess my subject is happiness."

What an excellent topic to paint.

Jackson said his father also served on city council, and his grandfather, George, served Dayton as its mayor. His great grandfather, Add Cahill, was also a county commissioner.

Jackson has served on the Dayton Historic Preservation Commission, on the Dayton Development Task Force, on the Board of Directors of the Farm Bureau, on the Dayton HS Alumni Association, and Dayton Kiwanis.

Jackson and his father seem to have similar philosophies about governance. In the late 1970s when County Commissioner Hugh Jackson was asked by the Walla Walla Union Bulletin about the future in terms of county projects and aspirations, he simply said, "We'll handle things as they come."

Jackson recently echoed those same words when talking about plans for consolidating county offices for better efficiency, safety and to reduce costs. "... and we will be eating this elephant one bite at a time," he said.

Jackson said he hopes county government does a better job of planning for the long range, rather than operating reactively.

Jackson was elected to the District 2 commissioner position in 2014, and began his term in 2015. He said he is most pleased to be associated with the county's purchase of land adjacent to the public works department, which can provide for future growth, and which allows for expanded rock crushing operations. He said he is also pleased with the Fair Board's work in getting the HVAC system installed at the Fairgrounds Pavilion, and with the county's encouragement of wind energy development and the Lyons Ferry Straw Pulp Mill. Lately, the county has developed a new volunteer policy for the fairgrounds and golf course, and he said he is happy about that.

Before his term ends, Jackson said he looks forward to helping establish designated speed limits signs on county roads to make them safe for both ATVs and 18 wheelers.

He said he looks forward to hiring a county human resources director, and working to consolidate county office spaces, to provide for better courtroom security and safety.

In the future Jackson would like to see work continue on improving and maintaining county roads.

"When I was young and working on the farm we used a lot smaller equipment; two ton trucks to haul grain to the elevator," he said. "Now it's all 18-wheelers taking the grain to market. The weight and width of the tractors and equipment place tremendous stress on roads. We need to figure out how to build and rebuild roads to accommodate the equipment that is being used."

He added, "It's been my honor and privilege to serve the citizens of Dayton and Columbia County. I hope during my time here I left it a little better, and not worse than when I got here."

Dayton Moves Ahead on School Upgrades

COMMUNICATIONS, HIGH SCHOOL ROOF AND HEATING SYSTEM PROJECTS WILL BEGIN THIS YEAR

By Michele Smith | THE TIMES

DAYTON—Capital projects, the athletic combine and the makeup of the hiring committee for prospective coaches were topics at last week's Dayton School Board meeting.

Superintendent Doug Johnson said the district has enough funds allotted to address the remaining capital projects on its list. Yet to be accomplished this year are upgrading the phone system, repairing and replacing the heating system, and replacing the high school roof.

Johnson said 75 phones are to be installed by Tri-Tech Communications on March 26, and cable drops for internet and electrical outlets for backup service are to be provided, with wireless service from the HS gym to the shops. Total cost of around $66,000.

Drew Wright, consultant from Garland Company, spoke to the directors about the benefits of installing a roof at the HS with a 25-year warranty rather than 18 years. The low bid was from Gillespie Roofing Co. for $235,485.51, which includes five percent for decking replacement. Roofing will begin on June 11, with oversight from the Garland Company, Wright said.

Johnson said the new heating system will cost around $325,000.

Middle and High School Principal Paul Shaber said there are not enough participants in Waitsburg for Girls Softball and track. 75% of spring sports are already combined, he said.

"We're getting more experience working together," said Shaber about a positive result of the combine. (See complete story on athletic combine progress on Page 6.)

Dayton Elementary Principal Denise Smith said things are moving right along in the elementary school.

Students have finished a charity events called Jump Rope and Hoops for Heart, and a Pacific Science Center presentation called "Blood and Guts" was well received by students.

Students in Grades 3-10 are working on "I, Ready," a new diagnostic assessment tool, which provides more information about deficiencies and skills. It replaces the STAR assessment tool, said Smith. "The kids are loving it," she said.

Dr. Seuss Week was a hit, with 200 people attending the Green Eggs and Ham breakfast. Students were challenged to read 3,000 pages and they read 7,000, Smith said.

Waitsburg City Council March 21, 2018

THE TIMES

Attendees: Mayor Marty Dunn, council members KC Kuykendall, Terry Jacoy, Kevin House, Jim Romine, Kate Hockersmith, and student representative Leena Baker.

Public Comment:

-Commercial Club President Joy Smith presented the 2018 Walla Walla Visitor's Guide, which includes seven pages of information and advertising on Waitsburg, including a section on Waitsburg Celebration Days. Smith said 35,000 copies are printed and she uses the guide for visitors and business recruitment. Smith said the guide is where the Commercial Club spends the bulk of its advertising budget each year.

-Members of the Society for Creative Anachronism (dressed in medieval garb) asked the council to use the inner field, shower building, and community building of the fairgrounds for the third weekend in June and the second weekend in October. The group estimated approximately 100 people would attend the June event and 175 would attend in October. The events would include fighting, dancing and target and combat archery. The October event will include a plywood castle setup. The group is insured and has used Preston Park and the Waitsburg Elementary School for events in the past, but is looking for a larger setup. The council approved the use at the proposed rates.

New Business:

-Grandstands Community Discussion – Council approved placing the grandstands as an election advisory item on the April 3 ballot. (See story on Page 1.)

-Approved Resolution 2018-681, approving use of the city streets for the annual the Tour of Walla Walla bicycle race.

Unfinished Business:

-Discussion regarding installation of water meters will be pushed to April.

Mayor's Report:

-Read letter from Columbia County Health Systems thanking the council for attending the Dayton General Hospital ribbon-cutting.

Council Reports:

- Kate Hockersmith presented the city with an updated emergency management plan binder that she and Jim Romine have been working to complete. One copy will be placed at City Hall and another at the elementary school. Romine is in the process of completing an emergency evacuation plan.

City Clerk's Report:

-The city has addressed what City Manager Randy Hinchliffe called a "substantial sewer backup" on E. 7th Street. Hinchliffe said tree roots along the road on a planting strip had infiltrated the sewer line through the joints, created a barrier and the sewage came up through a basement. The City had to hire a company from Pasco to clear the blockage. He said the line has now been rodded, vacuumed and tied, and the line is clear and the pipe appears to be good. Hinchliffe said another blockage occurred the day of the meeting, and he assumed it will be the same issue. He said there is a process where a large foam ball, infiltrated with chemicals that kills tree roots, can be pushed through the line to give the line an additional 5-10 years. The City will look into vendors who can perform the application.

-The city had previously requested assistance from the Army Corps of Engineers for help repairing a "pretty severe" washout on the levee on the east side of town. The Corp has notified the city that they intend to perform the repair this year during the low water window. Hinchliffe said the city has responsibility for a portion of the repair in excess of $20,000. However, in lieu of cash, the city will be allowed to drill and blast the city rock pit and provide the resulting rock as a portion of the payment.

-The fire hydrant on 7th and Coppei has been replaced but is slightly tilted to allow for a fiber optic line that runs through that spot. The tilt does not affect functionality.

-The City is moving forward in investigating the possibility of adding an automated sprinkler system to the cemeteries.

-Work on the Main Street Bridge could resume next week if the weather holds. The City planted Honey Locust trees on both sides of Main Street near the bridge.

-The transfer station is in place.

-The Urban Forestry Project will distribute 150 free trees to school children for Arbor Day in April.

TEENY MCMUNN: MY RECIPE BOX

Goof-Proof Coconut Curry Chicken

This gave me an idea for dinner. It sounded different and tasty. I hadn't had curry anything for quite a while. This is what the recipe said: "So easy to make, yet so darn tasty. Guaranteed to please."

It calls for five tablespoons of curry sauce. I looked for it and didn't find it (in a jar) so we made the curry sauce from scratch. I think this is meant for a quick and easy dinner, and would have been if we used already prepared curry sauce.

I'll give you the original and let you decide. The curry sauce we googled was Creamy Curry Sauce by Brit Chick/Genius Kitchen. I'm limited on space or I would also type it. It seems there are many different curry sauces.

INGREDIENTS:

- 1 potato, cubed
- 1/2 pound chicken thighs, cut into pieces
- 2 Tbsp vegetable oil
- 1 green bell pepper, seeded and cubed
- 1 small onion chopped
- 1/2 c. coconut milk
- 5 Tbsp curry sauce
- 1/2 tsp salt
- 1 cup water, divided
- 1 tsp cornstarch

DIRECTIONS:

Place cubed potatoes in a microwave-safe dish and heat in the microwave on high for five minutes.

Heat oil in a large skillet over medium heat. Place chicken in oil and cook to brown. Then stir in green peppers and onions. Cook about four minutes. Stir in potato, coconut milk, curry sauce, salt and 3/4 c. water

Mix together cornstarch and 1/4 c. water. Stir into skillet and simmer 10 minutes.

MY NOTES:

Besides making the curry sauce, we added chicken breast and a baked potato we had left over, omitting the green pepper, but added an onion. It was flavorful but not as spicy as I thought it would be. I'm thinking the leftovers will be even better, much like spaghetti and stew are better the next day.

Happy Easter! What are your plans for all those leftover hardboiled eggs? ENJOY!

The idea of Go Figure is to arrive at the figures given at the bottom and right-hand columns of the diagram by following the arithmetic signs in the order they are given (that is, from left to right and top to bottom). Use only the numbers below the diagram to complete its blank squares and use each of the nine numbers only once.
