Event-goers enjoyed live music, a parade, car show, Brewfest, good food, games, and more. Both the ATV Sunset Cruise and Karen's Ride Poker Ride were popular events. One hundred fifteen machines joined the poker ride and 220 hands of poker were played. See the Last Page for more

City Moves Ahead with Tree Removal

COUNCIL WILL CONSIDER CHANGING TREE ORDINANCE AND COMMITTEE STRUCTURE IN THE FUTURE

By Dena Wood | THE TIMES

WAITSBURG - After weighing input from a handful of citizens who spoke at the May 18 Waitsburg City Council meeting, the council voted unanimously to move forward with the planned removal of five large trees on W. 6th Street. The council also agreed to consider amending the current tree ordinance at an upcoming council meeting.

The trees were to be removed earlier this month, because they had caused extensive heaving to the existing sidewalk. Local homeowners have agreed to replace that sidewalk through the city's sidewalk replacement program. The city had agreed to cover the cost of removal of the trees in preparation for laying new sidewalks.

A group of citizens stalled the removal by objecting to the fact that the city had not followed its own tree removal code, which requires the authorization of the Waitsburg the removal even until winter. Tree Committee to remove any trees on public property.

At last week's meeting, Waitsburg Attorney Mike Hubbard said that an arborist's report stated that three of the trees still had three to five years of life. "If they do have to come out why not take them out in December or January when they're dormant?" he Hubbard asked the city to consider putting a citizen, rather than just council members, on the Tree Committee. He also suggested that the city look at alternatives to the sidewalk, such as replacing it with gravel. "You have an ordinance here that says trees are more important than sidewalks," Hubbard said.

Council member KC Kuykendall responded that the arborists report stated that all five trees were sickly and should be removed and questioned the value of delaying Resident Gail Gwinn said that there are at least two trees that are healthy enough to provide shade for that end of the street. "I don't even understand why we need a sidewalk on that side of the street. Use that side of the street for shade and the side with the sidewalk for walking," she said.

Gwinn said she lost a large tree on her property during the 7th Street renovation and also advocated for waiting until the 6th

New Refuse Agreement Likely

DAYTON AND COLUMBIA COUNTY IN TALKS WITH BDI ON TRANSFER STATION

By Michele Smith | THE TIMES

DAYTON-The City of Dayton and Columbia County have entered into talks with Basin Disposal, Inc. to develop a plan for BDI to process refuse at the transfer station in Dayton.

The county has also been discussing whether to repair the old facility, or to build a new one, after a fire at the transfer facility in July, 2015 destroyed most of its equipment and seriously damaged the integrity of the main building.

Darrick Dietrich, president of BDI, and Dayton Mayor Craig George were on hand at the County Commissioners' regular meeting last week to discuss the idea of bringing BDI on as the new hauler/processor.

Dietrich said that the city has the majority of the county's population, but because the county owns the transfer facility, it would be best to create a partnership among the three parties, in order to create balance on all sides, spread the risk, and create long-term stability.

Commissioner Dwight Robanske pointed out that the current cost for hauling refuse to the Pasco facility is around $25,000. He said that money could be saved by depositing refuse locally.

Dietrich agreed, and said that because he is in control of a very large waste stream in the region, he could use that lever-

Historic Districts Provide Benefits to Investors

[Editor;s Note: This is the first in a short series of articles that will appear on this page about the importance of preserving and restoring the historic buildings in the Touchet Valley]

By Ginny Butler, president, Dayton Historic Depot Society

rowing up in Dayton, I knew that our downtown was a special place. It had a wide expanse of street and wide sidewalks where bikes could be ridden without hitting anyone. The stately old buildings that graced each side were like old friends. They had a certain feel and smell when you walked in that made you think of permanence and times past.

It wasn't until I was an adult and became involved with the fundraising and restoration of the Columbia County Courthouse, that I began to understand the significance of downtowns. Our Downtown Historic District was born from the restoration of the Columbia County Courthouse. From this comes the economic and cultural significance of the Downtown District.

Main Street is an important economic engine for Dayton. It is a wise place to invest local resources and is the hub of small business development.

Because of the benefits of the District, my husband Dan and I have invested in five buildings on Main Street. The first was the Guernsey Sturdevant, which has housed the Wenaha Gallery for 23 years. The second was the Weinhard Hotel which we owned and operated for 14 years. The next two were the McGee Building and the one next door which became Patit Valley Products, 230 and 236 E. Main. They were owned by the same person, who would not sell separately, so we purchased both buildings, cleaned them up and resold them so that they could become the productive buildings they are today.

The last building is the Dantzscher Building next to the courthouse. We live in a flat upstairs and house Azure Mountain and Manila Bay downstairs. All five of these buildings had been vacant for many years.

Without the protections and tax benefits of the Downtown Dayton Historic District, these projects would have been much a bigger risk. The belief that saving these buildings as historic resources and turning them into productive spaces has paid off for Dayton.

In a fast paced world, we are still able to learn about our unique local heritage and connect with our neighbors when we go downtown. It is not naïve to desire the kind of lifestyle where the business owner knows your name.

The defining character of our downtown and our older residential districts are the reason we have people interested in moving to Dayton. They are the reasons other communities in Washington that are struggling to preserve their heritage, know and respect the work that we have done to preserve our resources.

As president of the Dayton Historic Depot Society, I hope you enjoy the pictorial look backward and to the present as the Depot showcases some of the changes that Historic Preservation has brought over the last 20 years to Dayton.

Washington's Presidential Primary is Pointless

Dear Editor,

Because Washington State's presidential primary is meaningless--except to gather names for major political parties (which smells like public use of dollars for the benefit of private groups) the Secretary of State and Attorney General's offices were contacted. Responses from both referenced RCW 29A.56.060 submitted as an initiative to the legislature and passed in 1989. Simply put, if the legislature provides funds a Presidential Primary is held. This year the cost of the Presidential Primary is estimated at $11.5 million. Considering the McCleary decision (fully fund basic education) and the lack of state mental health facilities there were better uses for that money—especially since the legislature is fined $100,000 every day their education funding obligation is not met!

It's time to repeal RCW 29A.56.060 (and any related laws) and put the money spent on that worthless endeavor to better use. At the very least there should be some means to be reimbursed by the groups benefiting by getting lists of voters who must declare party affiliation in order to vote. Direct legislative action by the representatives and senators elected to represent you in Olympia could eliminate this wasteful spending, but only with your encouragement/pressure.

Thank You to WCD Volunteers, Supporters

Dear Editor:

Waitsburg Celebration was another huge success, thanks to a bunch of involvement from the community, its citizens, and its organizations. We are so proud to be living in this town, and enjoying our annual celebration as it is now and remembering the way Waitsburg has celebrated this weekend in May for so many years!

The event(s) could never have happened without the help of many people in this city. First, the Celebration Days Committee: they started meeting in October and have worked tirelessly throughout the entire fall, winter and spring. People involved are: Robbie Johnson, vice-president, Marianne Newell, secretary, Deanne Johnson, treasurer. Directors are: Joy Smith, Wendy Richards, Jim Davison, Lisa Naylor, Ann Adams. Others involved were: Dena Wood, Jim Romine, Ron Standring, Bill Clemens, Fred Hamann, Scott Archer, Dan McKinley, Randy Hinchliffe, Dr. Carol Clarke, Denise and Andy Winnett.

Second are the many oganizations that were willing to get involved. The sheriff's office, the fire department, the Waitsburg Commercial Club. The One of a Kind Auto Show, WCD Parade volunteers and judges of the parade committee, our parade marshals, Larry and Pam Conover, the American Legion and Auxiliary, the Waitsburg Historical Society, the Waitsburg Lions, PEO, Rainbow Girls, Ye Town Hall Board, the entire City of Waitsburg staff, cowboy church people: Rev. Brett Moser and K C Kuyendall.

Third are the businesses in town that were willing to support the many events. First of all: The Times; they have been supportive the entire year, thanks for that support, Ken, Dena and staff. The many that advertised, especially Joy Smith for her hours of work on the advertising of this event.

We are proud of this town and its spirit of volunteerism. Thank you all from the bottom of our hearts! See you next year? Volunteers willingly accepted! You are invited.

age to get lower disposal rates for the customer.

"I would take it over and do a very good job of it," said Dietrich.

Dietrich said a partnership would be beneficial in the long run, especially if the city wants to add additional services

Dietrich has looked at the engineering design for a new transfer station with County Engineer Andrew Woods, and he said he likes what he sees.

The only drawback is that his trailers need 13 ½ foot opening, and the design is for a thirteen foot opening, he said.

Woods said that he would go back to the drawing board with JUB, the engineering firm, so that plans can be modified to create the needed opening height for the BDI's trailers.

The cost for building a new facility is around $750,000, according to Woods.

Woods said the county can expect to be reimbursed $350,000 from its insurance company for damages from the fire. That amount coupled with another $350,000 from the state rural excise tax for capital projects, gives the county the capital to build a new facility, he said.

"We need to do it correctly," Chairman Merle Jackson said. "Time is of the essence."

Woods agreed. "We can move forward on the building, itself, while working on this," he said.

Mayor George said he will take the numbers to the Dayton City Council for review

All three parties have agreed to meet in June to continue their talks.

SHEO Presents Poetry Slam at Liberty Theater

STUDENTS WILL ATTEND SPRING YOUTH FORUM IN CENTRALIA LATER THIS MONTH

By Michele Smith | THE TIMES

DAYTON—Last week, Chris Andrews, Lily Reconoco, Josh Hartwell, Kylee Harris, Logan Literal, and Sheanna Brinckens, from the organization Students Helping Each Other, performed a trial-run poetry slam before an audience at the Liberty Theater.

With only eight minutes allotted to each, the students had to explain adverse childhood experiences, describe the number of their own individual risk factors, explain the concept of resilience, and describe their participation in all the drug prevention-type activities that took place throughout the school year.

The presentation was a dress rehearsal for a state-wide competition at the Spring Youth Forum at Great Wolf Lodge in Centralia, Wash., and for the annual youth conference, in Las Vegas, Nev., if they make it that far, according to Peggy Guiterrez, Program Director for the Drug-Free Communities Grant.

"This is the ninth year for Dayton SHEO to attend the Spring Youth Forum, she said.

"They have been working hard on their presentations," said Guiterrez.

Spring Youth Forum is an annual youth conference hosted by the Division of Behavioral Health and Recovery. Schools at the Spring Youth Forum will compete for a $5,000 scholarship to attend the national conference, said Guiterrez.

NEW ACTIVITIES FOR ADULTS AT THE DAYTON LIBRARY

By Michele Smith | THE TIMES

DAYTON—There are two new activities, and one ongoing activity, at the Dayton Memorial Library, specifically for adults, according to Dayton Memorial Library assistant Lorna Barth.

"Coffee, Cookies, and Coloring" is a new activity at the library that takes place on Fridays between 3:00 p.m. and 5:00 p.m. This activity provides an opportunity for adults to de-stress from their busy week, with colored pencils, pens, and printed pages, Barth said.

Barth also said that a new writing group is forming, and will meet in the Delany Building on Saturday mornings and Thursday evenings. Anyone can attend, she said.

The group hopes to feature speakers, host writing workshops, and participate in a national novel writing program, through NaNoWriMo, as well as providing the space for aspiring writers to write, Barth said.

The next writers' group meeting will be on Saturday, June 11 at 9:30 a m

Bring a beverage of your choice, and an appetizer to share, when you come to Book Chat, the Not a Book Club, Book Club, on Saturday, June 25, from 6 - 8 p.m. in the Delany Building. Book Chat is a forum for book lovers to talk about all things literary, to play literary-minded games, and to enjoy each other's company.

To find out more about Book Chat; Coffee, Cookies and Coloring; or the new writers' group, contact the Dayton Memorial Library at: 382-4131, or Lorna Barth at: lorna@daytonmemoriallibrary.org.

Rob Moore to Retire After 29 Years at DHS

MOORE HAS HELPED DAYTON HIGH STUDENTS WIN MANY FBLA AND MICROSOFT OFFICE AWARDS

By Ian Smay | THE TIMES

DAYTON - When Rob Moore started teaching typing and business at Dayton High School in 1987, following three years at Pateros High School, Ronald Reagan was President, the Soviet Union was still together, and typewriters were still in use at DHS.

Moore, who has just finished his 29th year on the staff at Dayton, has decided to close the curtains on his teaching career at the end of the academic year. He is widely known among his former students (of which I am one) and co-workers for his compassionate and fun nature, all while still being serious about the success of his students.

When you walk into the business lab on the second floor of Dayton High School's main building, the first thing you notice is the walls covered in awards from the annual Future Business Leaders of America state conference, and Microsoft Office certificates earned by his students. Moore has been the FBLA advisor since he started at Dayton.

"FBLA has been really positive for me, and hopefully for the kids as well," Moore said about his involvement in the extracurricular club.

Moore has impacted the lives of hundreds, if not thousands of students at Dayton through both business and technology classes as well as FBLA. He has had students go on to work and be successful in many fields. "Watching kids put in the effort to be successful, and then be successful, is really cool," said Moore when asked to describe the best moments of his nearly three decades of work for DHS.

Due to his long tenure at the school, Moore said the hardest part of his job was keeping up with technology. "When I started teaching here, we had typewriters in this room," he said. "Now we're almost at a point where...desktop computers are almost obsolete because they're not portable. Trying to keep up with that has been a challenge."

Last week, Moore described his 29 years at Dayton as, "Wonderful. I can't imagine finding a better teaching job in Washington. It has been way more positive than negative."

His hard work and dedication has earned him great respect from students, as many still go to Moore when they need pointers on resumes or cover letters. Many parents also volunteer to help with FBLA fundraisers

Waitsburg's Musical History

NEW ROTATING EXHIBIT WILL BE OPEN DURING ALUMNI WEEKEND

By Dena Wood THE TIMES

WAITSBURG - The Waitsburg Historical Society debuted the latest of its rotating Wilson Phillips House displays, the Waitsburg Musical History Exhibit, during Celebration Days weekend. The display will also be open to the public during Alumni Weekend on May 28 from 2-4 p.m.

Historical Society member and display organizer Mary Phillips encourages all alumni to reminisce and check out the display. "They may even find a picture of themselves," Phillips said. Nancy Otterson will man the museum from 2-3 p.m. and Delores Nettles will greet visitors from 3-4 p.m.

The display includes a variety of antique instruments, old sheet music, historic photos, and vintage WHS band and majorette uniforms. Photos taken from school annuals include the 1915 Glee Club, the Farm Quartet and the Huntsville School Orchestra.

When The Times visited, WHS alumnus Bruce Abbey was delivering a Wallace trombone to be included in the display, and shared a few memo-

Abbey said he remembered practicing in the band room that was located in the elementary room basement, where the boilers are kept now. "When the elementary school caught fire, the basement filled with water and a lot of what was in there was destroyed," Abbey said.

Abbey also recalled that the high school marching band of the late 60's was "pretty good" and won the Spokane Torchlight Parade several times. They were the first band, leading the parade, his senior year.

"We did a lot of weavings and fancy things. The drum major would whistle and we'd break up and run all around and shake hands with the crowd. It was a lot of fun," he said. "The drum major was about six-feetseven-inches tall, then he wore this big hat which made him seem 14 feet tall. He'd scare the little kids when he went to give them candy!" he added.

Anyone who is unable to visit the display this weekend will be able to check it out during regular museum hours beginning in June.

Waitsburg, Dayton Track Athletes Move On to State Championships

CARDINALS ADAMS AND CROCKETT TO COMPETE IN FOUR EVENTS, CALLAS, MONTGOMERY IN THREE

By Ian Smay | THE TIMES

SPOKANE VALLEY - Local athletes had to deal with less than ideal conditions at Central Valley High School as they competed for spots in the State 2B Track & Field Championships. Waitsburg continued its strong season by sending nine of their eleven participating athletes on from regionals. Dayton also had three of their own qualify for the last meet of the season in Cheney.

season with an amazing showing at the District 7/9 contest, winning the triple jump and also qualifying in the 800, 1600, and 3200 meter races. "Emily Adams had a heck of a regional...ran and jumped very well," said Waitsburg coach Jeff Bartlow.

Travis Crockett also qualified in all four of his events, including a win in the high jump and strong performances in the 100 and 200 meter races, as well as anchoring Waitsburg's state bound 4x100 meter relay team that also consisted of Landon Callas, Nick Kitselman, and Joe Leamey.

Callas added a second and a first in the 110 and 300 meter hurdles respectively to compliment his relay efforts. Skylar Wood filled the fifth and final qualifying spot in the 3200 meter distance race.

Mark Montgomery kept his final season of high school track alive, as he advanced in all three throwing events (javelin, shot put, and discuss). "We have not had a kid go (to state) in all three events in a long, long time. He did it and we are really proud of him," said Bartlow.

"I could not be more proud," claimed Bartlow as he reflected on his team's weekend performance.

Dayton, which also sent many athletes to the regional meet, saw three of their own place well enough to earn a bid to state.

Cal Martin finished second in the javelin to punch his ticket for Cheney. Alexus Wanlarbkam took fourth place in the 110 meter hurdles, ensuring her a spot at the state meet. Neylan Bryan rounds out the Dayton qualifiers by placing fourth in the 400 meter running event. "I'm pleased, but certainly not surprised that these athletes are going on," said Dayton coach Dan

The State 2B Track & Field Championships will be held May 26th through the 28th at Eastern Washington University in Cheney.

Lady Bulldogs Earn Trip to Softball State Championships

DAYTON GIRLS QUALIFY
WITH 6-1 WIN OVER COLFAX
AT REGIONALS; SEEDING
GAME VS. ASOTIN RAINED OUT

By Ian Smay | THE TIMES

SPOKANE – Dayton's softball team will be making their seventh appearance in the past 10 years at the State 2B softball tournament, as they won their opening game against Colfax 6-1 on Saturday here, before inclement weather forced the rest of the day's games to be postponed until the 24th.

Dayton opened the game strong with a three-run first inning, as Kellie Moore and Madison Mings both had RBI singles following hits from Heidi Dobbs and Mia Becker in the bottom of the first frame.

Dayton pitcher Savannah McFarland had a strong hold on the Colfax offense, as the opponents' only breakthrough came in top of the fourth on an RBI single. McFarland would finish the game with only one hit allowed over seven innings.

The Lady Bulldogs added three more runs in bottom of the fourth, as Moore added another RBI and Scully Castorena got one more before Megan Robins scored on a Colfax error for Dayton's final score.

Notable performers included Moore, who went 2 for 2 with 2 RBIs, and Mc-Farland, who recorded 11 strikeouts.

The strong showing from the Dayton ballplayers in the first game guaranteed them a spot in the State tournament in Yakima. "Terry (Dayton Coach Terry Robins) and I are very proud of this team," said assistant coach Desirae Jones. "They have had some struggles but they are playing their best ball right now. This is when we want them to peak."

The Bulldogs faced league rivals Asotin in an afternoon game, which was purely for seeding purposes. However, the elements were not on their side, as the game was suspended in the bottom of the second inning. Dayton was up 1-0 when it was decided that the rain was too much, and were about to take their second round of hacks.

The Dayton-Asotin seeding game was to resume in Spokane at the Merkel Complex on Tuesday. The Bulldogs were to have another seeding game in the afternoon, following the conclusion of their matchup with the Panthers.

"The big pressure to get to State is off, now our games tomorrow are just for pride," said Jones.

street trees were dormant to have them removed. "When our tree came out, it had just leafed out. There were squirrels everywhere, there were birds everywhere. It was just brutal to watch," she said.

Gwinn said she understood the need to care for infrastructure, but that infrastructure also includes urban forests. "If we don't take care of that, along with the rest of the infrastructure, we're not going to be a one-of-a-kind town. We're going to be like a suburb of Dallas. It's not just about these six trees. It's about the attitude that seems to be in town about trees in general," she said.

Sixth street homeowner Carol Guay said her sidewalk is heavily used and that the trees are dangerous and a liability.

"I have five kids and two adults living next to me who use that sidewalk all the time. They're kids. They're not going to go to the other side of the road to use the sidewalk. It needs replaced or they're going to get hurt. I've tripped myself, two houses down, and sprained my ankle. I don't want the liability of someone spraining their ankle because the roots have come up over the sidewalk," she said.

"All we have to do is read the final assessment from the arborist," said Mayor Walt Gobel prior to asking for a final vote from the council. "He said, 'most, if not all these trees are candidates for removal for various reasons'." The council voted unanimously to move forward with the tree removal.

The council also agreed to consider modifying the tree ordinance to allow for the removal of trees that are an immediate safety hazard, such as those blown down during a storm, while still allowing for some level of oversight from a committee. Those revisions will be placed on an upcoming council agenda.

and events, and he also receives support for his club members from various community organizations, such as the Lions, Kiwanis, and the Dayton Alumni

The respect he has gained from his students and the community is reciprocated by Moore as well. "I really gain a lot of energy from the kids, from the students," he said. "I really don't even like to call them students, they're people. Getting to know them and their families', that's going to leave a pretty big hole."

When the news broke that this would be Moore's final year at DHS, many people (including me) wondered how someone who had spent so much time and become such a big part of the school community could be replaced.

The district promptly began searching for a suitable replacement to take over the business classes that would now be without a teacher. The search did not take long, as a successor was found in short order.

Moore's replacement is Bob Cummings, a 44-year-old from Oregon who is currently at Kennewick High School. Cummings is a graduate of Whitworth University in Spokane who started gaining classroom experience during his college days, and is looking forward to teaching full-time in Dayton.

"I want to have a positive transition. It may take a little time, as these are big shoes to fill. But I want to fill Moore's shoes my own way," said Cummings. He is from Rainer, Oregon and once ran a mental health service for kids in Idaho.

Moore left some parting words from his time at Dayton: "I will never forget the support that I've had over the whole 29 years in Dayton from my school board, the parents and the families. The support that I personally and the business program has had from the community has really been amazing. I don't want to leave anyone out, my coworkers have been amazing over the years. It has been a great, warm experience."
