Counseling discussed at Dayton School Board work session

By Justin Jaech | THE TIMES

DAYTON - The Dayton School Board held a work session meeting at 6 p.m. on Wednesday, February 1, 2023, in the High School library. School board members present were Chair Jeffrey McCowen, Grant Griffen, and Zac Fabian. Korinda Wallace attended on Zoom. Aneesha Dier was absent. Also present were Superintendent Rich Stewart and Business Manager Jana Ea-

The Board approved the consent agenda, which included approval for an FFA overnight trip to Olympia and the resignation of Carlos Norris as HS Head Wrestling Coach.

Next, the Board listened to a presentation from the two school counselors. Amy Cox, the Elementary Principal, introduced Caitlin Patterson, the Socio-Emotional Counselor, who serves grades K-12, and Kristie Korslund, the Prevention and Intervention Counselor, who works primarily with the HS stu-

Patterson said she counsels students who receive a referral from parents or staff. She typically sees six students daily but also takes drop-ins and in crisis situations.

Korslund is employed by ESD 123 to offer services under a contract between the Dayton School District and ESD 123. Korslund can refer students to more extensive services and treatment options beyond the scope of what can be handled in the schools. She works closely with the Coalition for Youth and Families in Columbia County to try and prevent substance abuse by Dayton's students.

The informational briefing on counseling was followed by an explanation and training for the organization of documents, such as school policies, that the Board uses.

After an hour and a half of covering work session topics, the Board adjourned to an executive session to "receive and evaluate complaints brought against a public officer or employee." There was no action taken after the ten-minute executive session.

AT THE LIBERTY:

"The Fabelmans"

THE TIMES

DAYTON— "The Fabelmans" has been described as an American coming-of-age movie loosely based on Steven Spielberg's childhood and first years as a filmmaker. It is told through the fictional Sammy Fabelman, a young aspiring filmmaker who explores how the power of films can help him see the truth about his dysfunctional family and those around him. Spielberg co-wrote the script alongside Tony Kushner and Spielberg directed it. The movie stars Michelle Williams, Seth Rogen, Paul Dano, Judd Hirsch, Gabriel LaBelle, and others.

According to online reviews it was named one of the top ten films of 2022 by the National Board of Review and the American Film Institute. The film received seven nominations for the 95th Academy Awards, including Best Picture, Best Director, Best Actress (Williams), and Best Supporting Actor (Hirsch), plus five nominations at the 80th Golden Globe Awards, winning Best Motion Picture (Drama), and Best Director. It also received 11 nominations at the Critics' Choice Awards.

Rotten Tomatoes critics rate this movie a 92% favorable, and the audience gives it an 82%. It is rated PG-13 (some strong language, thematic elements, brief violence, and drug use). The Imdb Parent's guide rates the profanity at moderate with a couple of "F bombs" and many other profanities. All other categories are considered mild. Runtime is 150 minutes.

THE DAYTON EAGLES CONTRIBUTE MUCH TO THE COMMUNITY

Dear Editor,

As we go about our daily lives in Dayton, WA, we encounter many, many wonderful individuals. I have the privilege of knowing a group of such individuals; a group that works as a team and makes up the Dayton Eagles Aerie and Auxiliary #2618.

The Dayton Eagles Auxiliary #2618 have been raising money to support the Aerie and their community they love, for over 70 years. The Aerie and Auxiliary has and continues to fundraise and donate in a multitude of ways.

- Donated swim passes for all the kids in town Helped with band uniforms for the high
- Handed out scholarships
- Donate to the county extension office for local 4H memberships
- Donate to our local Summer Rec program for
- Helped buy a Neonatal bed from Sacred Heart in Spokane. (As a few babies from Dayton needed the use of one)
- Give school supplies to the grade school kids every year
- Donated twice to The Club; Dayton's community after school, spring break, and summer program.
- Helps with the annual Halloween party for our local kids
- Donates to our local kids sports programs
- Sponsored a CampFire group
- Sponsored a 100th birthday party for a local lady which resulted in a very large turn out. More than expected - for the good.
- Helped with a monetary donation for a Waitsburg, WA boy that needed a transplant.
- Gave a $500 grocery/clothes certificate for a young family that lost their home in a fire.

The Eagles Ladies' Auxiliary provides Memorial Dinners for our members, as well as for the community. There is no cost for this service, but they rely on donations to keep providing the service.

Since the June 2021 fire, most of the usual funds have been depleted in order to reopen a new loca-

The Aerie and Auxiliary remains as dedicated and instrumental as ever in the continuing operation of the Dayton Eagles #2618. Your efforts are not always front page news, but we see you, and we know the powerful force of your collective action; yours is a strong legacy of countless quiet acts performed with love. I would like to thank them for their many hours of service and commitment to making a difference in our lovely town, Dayton Wa.

NOTICE OF

STATE ENVIRONMENTAL POLICY ACT (SEPA) ENVIRONMENTAL REVIEW NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the City of Dayton has received a SEPA Environmental Checklist and other environmental reports and studies from the US Fish and Wildlife Service (USFWS) including an Environmental Action Statement (NFPA Categorical Exclusion) relating to a proposed project to repair at the Dayton Pond Intake Facility. The USFWS intends to repair the current weir and install a new Obermeyer Weir on the Touchet River, within a parcel owned by the City of Dayton (Columbia County Parcel #264771). The current weir has experienced erosion during high flows and is now undermined, causing concerns for stability of the structure and safety concerns for the public. The proposed work will stabilize the existing structure and riverbed both upstream and downstream. The installation of the new Obermeyer Weir will maintain the river channel. The proposal site is located in the Touchet River (Hydrologic Unit Code 170701020308) east of the terminus of S Cottonwood St. in Dayton, west of the USACE levee, and situated in Section 30, Township 10 N, Range 39 E, W.M. Geo ID: 1160200350000. Full legal descriptions are on-file with the City of Dayton and available upon request; the parcels are within Rainwater and Mustard, Tax 35 (Rock Hill). The weir is located on Columbia County parcel no. 264771. Other potentially affected parcels are nos. 264569, 264768, 264773, and 275544. There is no address assigned. NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN that the proposal is subject to environmental review. The City of Dayton is the lead agency for the proposal under the State Environmental Policy Act (SEPA) and reviewed the proposal for probable adverse environmental impacts and issued a determination of non-significance (DNS) for this proposal on February 9, 2023. Through the DNS process the City has also adopted existing documents: a NEPA Categorical Exclusion document, Prepared January 11, 2023 by the USFWS. Documents are available on the City's website at https://daytonwa.com/ inside-city-hall/departments/ city-clerk/public-notices The Comment period for the DNS concludes at 5:00 pm on February 23, 2023. The environmental checklist, adopted documents, and related file information is available to the public upon request and will be sent to agencies with jurisdiction, the Washington State Department of Ecology, and others having an interest in the proposal.

Wolfpack Boys Head to Playoffs

By Karen Huwe | THE TIMES

DW COMBINE—The Wolfpack boys' basketball team won their last two EWAC league games and is heading to the playoffs. Eight teams are in the 2B double-elimination district tournament, and the top four will advance to the state tournament. Tuesday, February 7, the team played the first round of playoffs at White Swan. Win or lose, they will play on February 10 at either Columbia Burbank or Goldendale.

DW led 48-35 at the end of the third quarter and held off the Cougars in the fourth quarter to win 61-53 at Warden on January 31. Spencer Hansen scored 27 points, and Gage Holm scored 20 and rebounded five. Benny Bryan contributed with six points and eight rebounds. Blake French added four points and five rebounds. Monte Pettichord scored two points, and both Ryland Kilts and Rueben Yutzy scored one point.

Three seniors, Monte Pettichord, Gage Holm, and Benny Bryan, were honored before the start of the game against Walla Walla Valley Academy on Thursday, February 2. The seniors led the Wolfpack to a 19-9 first-quarter lead and finished their regular season basketball game with a 70-44 win. Hansen had another strong offensive showing, scoring 23 points and seven boards. Pettichord scored 19 points, rebounded nine, and had four steals; Holm scored 11. Kilts scored nine, and French had four points. Yutzy and Bryan scored two points each, with Bryan getting seven rebounds.

Playoff update: DW beat White Swan 65-47 on Tuesday night, Feb. 7. They will play Columbia Burbank, who won their game on Tuesday against Golden-

DW COMBINE—The Wolfpack girls continued to improve throughout the basketball season. They played tough and hustled on tired legs, ending their season with only seven players. Before their last game against Walla Walla Valley Academy, senior Claudia Benevides was honored. Benevides' season ended early with a knee injury, but she continued to support her team at practices and games.

The first time DW played WWVA, the girls lost 48-18. At their last home game on February 4th, the Wolfpack girls lost a close game to WWVA 37-31. The third quarter was the only quarter that the girls were Teagan Culley and Makenna Barron scored eight points each. Teammates Marissa Tupling and Peyton Benevides scored six points. Alyssa Hollingsworth hit for two points, and Grace Trump made a free throw for one point.

Taking the plunge

By Tom Elstrom | THE TIMES

Twenty-some years ago, I felt the need to make like Moses and herd sheep. For me, trucking was the modern-day equivalent. Asphalt became the antidote for job burnout and the death of my wife.

Unlike some who grew up with trucking, I started from scratch enrolling in the commercial driving program at Walla Walla Community College. Most of the other aspiring drivers were in my kids' age cohort. But we experienced camaraderie and learned against a backdrop of hilarity that rivaled late-night television. After ten weeks, I was the proud recipient of a commercial driver's license. Recruiters from carriers visited our class, hoping to lure us into their folds. That's when I encountered the term "48 and Canada," which describes a lifestyle where the 48 states and adjoining provinces are home for weeks at a time.

Company brochures pictured beautiful trucks with Malibu surf or the Colorado Rockies in the background; however, first-time work is usually spent in down-and-dirty industrial backwaters. For many, the rub came with the realization that one had to live in this parallel universe for two to three years before gaining the experience necessary to land a cushier driving job.

I felt bad for people who entered trucking out of necessity as a last resort for creating cash flow in the face of life's woes. I took to the road with a different mindset.

At the time, I served in management at a company in Atlanta. As a previous customer of that business, I had come to view the owner and employees as family. But the work no longer excited me. Before taking that job, I thought it would be stimulating to live in Atlanta. However, I missed the Northwest, where I had lived as a kid, and then off and on during earlier working years.

Taking a break from my job, I helped move my daughter, Melissa, from her gig as a nanny in New York to college in Portland. I cleared my head as we drove across the continent, crammed into a rented minivan, and on I-80 in Nebraska, the die was cast.

Flying back to Georgia, I sorted through the mechanics of extricating myself from between a laminate desk and a matching credenza. After getting my employer's blessing and trading my roadster in for a pickup, I was westbound with a U-Haul in tow. The motel on I-75 in north Georgia seemed like the Ritz-Carlton.

The 48 and Canada experience got into full swing for me in Lewiston, Idaho, with Swift Transportation as my trucking "boot camp." After several weeks of running with a trainer, I was turned loose on a snowy January day with a 53-foot trailer filled with consumer paper products (i.e., toilet paper and paper towels, a truly "high value" load more recently). After routing through Walla Walla to grab some gear from my storage unit, I pushed on to Las Vegas. Chaining on Cabbage Hill made for a rollicking good start to my first solo trip.

For a couple of years, until I was fortunate enough to get together with my wife, Susan, I lived on the road. Dispatches came via an onboard device generally referred to as "The Qualcomm," eponymous for the company that created this bit of technology. Where to next? Chicago, Montreal, Orlando, Dallas, Los Angeles, or just up the road to Yakima? I thrived on spontaneity.

Thousands of trips later, through gigs as an employee and owner-operator, I settled into a niche transporting agricultural and industrial chemicals in tankers. The tangible rewards were decent, and the lifestyle less draconian. Still, nostalgia emerges when I see a Swift truck trundling through Waitsburg as I help Sue in the yard or lounge on the deck with a beer tending the grill.

My 48 and Canada experience was characterized by the unexpected. Dispatches could change without notice. Expectations for time at home were not always met. Arbitrary schedules turned the sleep cycle upside down. For some, this was upsetting. To thrive, I endeavored to embrace ambiguity and banish any notion that my state of mind was dependent on external forces.

In the age of the virus, we all experienced our versions of 48 and Canada: ambiguity, uncertainty, changing, and conflicting information. Negotiating this terrain taxed us.

Some years ago, on WA14, at a café in Roosevelt, Washington, I met another trucker who took an interest in the vintage Kenworth I was driving. He was older, wiser, and comfortable in his skin. I enjoyed the conversation and wished we could have lingered over a second cup of coffee. "Motor easy," he intoned as we parted. That advice stays with me as I attempt, imperfectly, to forge through this chaotic world with grace.

Motor Easy!

Streaming Review: "Stonehouse"

Blind to the error of his ways

By Lane Gwinn | THE TIMES

"Stonehouse" – BritBox, 2023

A three-episode mini-series on BritBox is based on a story of a British politician in the seventies who digs himself into a hole through his constant lying. Is he a naïve victim of pride, or just a criminal? He certainly appears delusional in his confidence to evade consequences.

John Stonehouse is ambitious and entitled. He is played by Matthew Macfadyn, who is a regular cast member on HBOs Succession. Both characters share a comical ability to misread situations, inflate their importance, and still believe in their moral superiority.

Stonehouse manages to get involved in an international spy game, eventually disappointing his wife, country, and Russian handler. Easily blackmailed and clueless about the game, it was fortunate that he was such an inept spy.

As his financial gains dwindled, his political career sidelined, and his mistress impatient, he decided to disappear. But the story continues to twist, and the third episode has many surprises. Or, considering the current political climate, his third act may not be so unusual.

A fun series made better after doing a little online research into the actual events.

Wine of the Week

Tyrus Evan 2021 Red Blend

By Paul Gregutt | THE TIMES

If you follow classic Oregon Pinot Noir, you surely know the wines of Ken Wright, one of the most important vintners of the past 40 years. But you may not know this family brand, named for his two sons. Tyrus Evan wines are priced lower than the Ken Wrights and focus on Washington rather than Oregon grapes. This brand new release is a classic Bordeaux blend, drawing almost half its grapes from the outstanding Cold Creek vineyard. It's bright and spicy with cassis, black cherry, cocoa, and espresso components. It sets up firm but fruit forward and can benefit from decanting to pull all its components into balance.

Two Waitsburg High School football standouts who go together like fall and football have been selected to play in the A-B All State Football game June 20 in Yakima. Former Cardinal runningback Ryan Leid, who rushed for 1,104 yards (avg. 6.1 yards per carry) and 13 touchdowns, and former lineman Randy Hinchliffe, a 6-2, 240-pounder who reliably opened big holes for Leid to run through, were selected by a group of coaches to play in the game. Chris Pearson was selected as an alternate. An anchor to Waitsburg's offensive and defensive lines, Hinchliffe had 13 tackles in which the ball carrier was thrown for a loss, and three sacks during the 1997 campaign. "Both of them worked real hard and are very deserving of the honor," said Jim Sharkey, head coach of the Waitsburg football team. "It's an honor not only for those three but also for the program, teammates, and really, the whole community."

Her father, George Boldman Bosley, was born in Clay Co., Illinois where he served in the Civil War as a blacksmith and was discharged due to injuries sustained while on duty. He married Martha Angeline Able. They came to Washington, which at the time was called Columbia County or Washington Territory. He was engaged in freighting from Wallula to Lewiston in the gold rush days. When Patsy was only four weeks old the family moved to Pataha Flat. There they lived in a log cabin where her father had taken up a pre-emption claim. When she was four they once more moved. Their permanent home was made at Columbia Center, located in Garfield County about ten miles south of Pomeroy towards Peola, it boasted a Post Office, hotel, flour mill, store, saloon and meat market. It was then vying for the honor of being county seat of the combined Garfield-Columbia Coun-

Beef Goulash with

Spaetzle

Everyone has their own unique way of expressing matters of the heart. For me, my love language has always been centered around the kitchen. Sharing recipes, cooking together, and serving special meals, are some of the ways that I communicate my feelings to loved ones. With that, there are certain homey recipes that are so comforting they feel like a hug. This dish of tender braised beef, spiced with a generous amount of sweet paprika, and served over small tender dumplings, is like a love letter in a stew pot.

Ingredients:

For the goulash:

3 tablespoons lard, or vegetable oil 3 yellow onions, finely chopped 1/4 cup sweet paprika

2 teaspoons whole caraway seeds

2 teaspoons kosher salt, or 1 teaspoon fine salt

2 pounds beef chuck roast, 1-inch cubed

1 cup beef broth

1 tablespoon red wine vinegar

For the spaetzle:

1 ½ cups all-purpose flour 1 ½ cups whole wheat flour

1/4 teaspoon fine sea salt

2 eggs

1 cup water

2 tablespoons salted butter, melted

For serving:

Fresh parsley, finely chopped Butter

Directions:

Heat the oven to 275 degrees. In a Dutch oven, heat the oil over medium-high heat until shimmering hot. Add the onions, allowing them to sizzle in the hot oil, and cook until they start to turn translucent, about 4 minutes. Turn the heat down to medium-low and continue to cook, stirring frequently, until the edges begin to brown and caramelize, about 15 to 20 minutes.

Stir in the paprika and caraway seeds, incorporating fully into the onions. Add the beef, and continue to cook, stirring constantly to avoid burning the paprika. Cook for about 5 minutes, searing all sides of the meat, then add the beef broth and the vinegar. Bring liquid just to a simmer, then cover the pot and transfer it to the oven. Allow it to cook in the oven until the beef is very tender, about 2 ½ to 3 hours.

During the last half hour of the beef cooking, make the spaetzle. In a large mixing bowl, whisk together the flours, and the salt. Make a well in the center of the flour, then crack the eggs into the well. Starting in the center, begin beating the eggs, then gradually whisk into the flour. As you beat in the eggs, slowly pour in the water, and melted butter. Continue beating the batter until fully mixed and fine bubbles begin to form.

Heat a large pot of water to a boil, then season the water with salt. Working in batches, push the batter through a colander or spaetzle press into the boiling water. Spaetzle will float to the top and slightly puff when cooked through. Drain the spaetzle through a strainer, then transfer to a bowl and set aside.

When beef is tender, remove from the oven. Allow the goulash to rest for a few minutes. Taste for seasoning, adding more salt as needed. When ready to serve, melt a couple tablespoons of butter in a cast iron skillet. Toss the cooked spaetzle in the butter and heat through. Season with a pinch of salt and toss in some chopped parsley. To serve, spoon a portion of spaetzle on a plate or shallow bowl, then top with a scoop of the goulash. Garnish with more parsley.

Spaetzle is a rustic dumpling like pasta that is typical in southern Germany and central Europe. While you may be a kitchen gadget nerd like me and purchase a spaetzle press, there are other ways to make these little delights. If using a metal colander, scoop the batter into it and use a ladle or large spoon to push the batter through the holes. Swirl the batter around as you push it through so that you get irregular shapes. Another method is to push the batter through the largest holes of a box cheese grater.

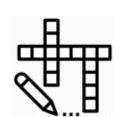

This goulash could be made a day in advance and then reheated gently on the stovetop before serving. I served this hearty dish with a side of lovely green beans sautéed in butter and finished with a squeeze of lemon. A crisp chop salad would also make a lovely side. Enjoy!
