Dayton Mayor Craig George to Resign

GEORGE AND HIS WIFE, KATHY, PLAN TO MOVE TO ARIZONA NEXT YEAR AFTER 17 YEARS IN DAYTON

By Michele Smith | THE TIMES

DAYTON—There is a for sale sign on Kathy and Craig George's lawn on S. 2nd St. in Dayton.

Craig George has announced that he will resign his post early next year as Dayton's mayor. He told The Times that he and his wife, Kathy, will be moving to Tucson, Ariz., to enjoy the health benefits of living in a drier climate. He said they are in the process of having a home built in the gated community of Saddle Brooke Ranch, north of Tucson.

"This is the first time we have really bought anything for us. We haven't had the kids in mind, or we haven't had the Navy in mind. This is just for us," said Kathy George.

The Georges said they will miss their Dayton friends, but are looking forward to making new friends in Tucson.

"We were amazed we stayed as long as we did," said Craig George about their 17 years in Dayton.

George is a retired Navy Commander. The George family moved many times during his career, living first in San Diego, then in Allentown, Pa., Washington DC, Okinawa, Japan, Minneapolis, Belgium, where George was attached to a military arm of NATO, and finally in Chicago.

"Then I retired in 1987," he said. "The two older kids were in college and we all agreed we wanted to go back to Minneapolis, because we enjoyed that the most of any place we lived."

They moved to Minneapolis, but the plane trip to visit children grew tiresome, so they decided to move closer to their three children, Thomas, Trini, and Heidi.

"By this time our children were married. We had a son in Seattle. We had a daughter in Lake Chelan. We had another daughter, and she was in North Carolina," said George, who is a Seattle native. Washington State won out.

"Kathy insisted we live east of the mountains," he said.

The Georges began looking for their new home, and Dayton was one of the places they visited. In the fall of 2001, the Georges saw an ad in the real estate section of the Walla Walla Union Bulletin for the house on S. 2nd St. It is a Victorian home, built in 1871, and it appealed to Kathy.

They wrapped things up in Minneapolis and made their final move to Dayton in the summer of 2002.

"That's funny that a house would bring you to a town," said Kathy George, whose passion is home interiors and gardening. She said she worked extra hard getting to know people in Dayton.

"Craig is the outgoing one. I am not," she said. "I knew I was going to have to be more outgoing for me to feel comfortable in town. I would take our two dogs for a walk or sit in the garden to work, and every time a car went by I waved and said 'hi!'"

E.L. POWELL'S GREAT GRANDSONS VISITED WAITSBURG DURING PIONEER FALL FESTIVAL

By Brianna Wray | THE TIMES

WAITSBURG—In August 2017, while many people were traveling elsewhere to see a solar eclipse, Barney Powell and his wife made a point to travel through Waitsburg.

"We stopped because I was interested in my ancestor, E.L. Powell," Barney Powell said. "We got a copy of the July newspaper with an article in it about E.L. Powell."

The article, "Fun with History," by Dena Martin, describes a colorful character who had many interests. He was the youngest man in the state to hold the position of Odd Fellows Third Grand Masters, at age 29. He pitched baseball well into his fifties. Among other things, Powell operated a general store, the first brick building, in Waitsburg for 18 years. At one point he was the mayor of Waitsburg and he was the longest owner of The Times.

E.L. Powell was also here, armed with Winchester rifles, during the Nez Perce war of 1877. He not only defended his own home and storefront, but he provided weaponry to locals to defend themselves from Chief Joseph. So many, in fact, he was the recipient of a special award.

"If you sold 1,000 rifles, the company would give you a Winchester Special 1876," Powell said. "My great grandfather, E.L. Powell, got one of those guns. It went to his eldest son, Percie, and to his only son, Pierce, and to his eldest son, Pierce Powell Jr., my brother.

Pierce Jr. had no kids, and at 80 years old has decided to donate it to the museum."

Barney, from Santa Barbara, Calif. and his two brothers, Pierce from Virginia City, Nev. and Frank, from British Columbia, made a special trip to Waitsburg.

"It's a bucket list thing," said Barney. It was something special they could do together.

Waitsburg Historical Society president Tom Land received the prized rifle, with an estimated value of $28,000, onstage at the Pioneer Fall Festival.

PIONEER PORTRAITS

Ten Years Ago-September 25, 2008

Pending finalization of a contract and the inclusion of the former Preston-Shaffer Milling Co. structure on the City's insurance policy, emergency roof repair work was approved unanimously by the Waitsburg City Council last week. Funding would come from a $30,000 grant made to the Wait's Mill Project through the Blue Mountain Resource and Conservation District (RC&D) by the Kinsman Foundation of Milwaukee, Ore. Of the funds granted, $27,000 is available to the project. About $3,400 is available from the Waitsburg Historical Society excess funds from the drive to develop the architect's plan. About $2,000 to cover part of the sales tax remains to be raised.

Morgan Forney, daughter of Paul and Dana Forney, Prescott, participated in the Columbia County Fair Sept 5-7. Morgan owns a total of five Boer goats, and took top placing in the seven classes she entered with a trophy and numerous ribbons. The Paul Forney family is hosting an Exchange student, Lena Schubert, from Hanover, Germany. Lena is 16 years old. She is participating in volleyball at Waitsburg High School

Twenty Five Years Ago-September 16, 1993

"Pioneers of the year" have two things in common—they share the same birthday and their roots go deep into Waitsburg. Donald Harris and his wife of 59 years, Evelyn, have been chosen by the Waitsburg Historical Society as the 1993 Pioneers of the Year. They will be honored Sunday, Sept 19 at the Fall Festival at the Bruce House on Main Street in Waitsburg.

JoAnn Laib, 17, of Dayton won grand champion and reserve grand champion FFA fitting and showing with her steers at the Columbia County Fair Sept 10.

Everyone can be a little fuzzy at 6:30 in the morning and slightly nervous too, when you have the responsibility of getting the voting machines in operation by the time the polls open, as the Waitsburg board discovered Tuesday morning. With all the details to be taken care of, help is always gratefully accepted. However a tense situation was relieved with a good laugh election day when Ernie Kison came dashing over to offer his assistance when he saw the flag flying bravely in the early morning breeze. Seems as if one of the volunteer assistants had put the flag out upside down-which happens to be the international distress signal.

THANK YOU

From our hearts we would like to praise and thank all firefighters, emergency responders, and members of the Waitsburg community who assisted with the terrible fire on Main Street. We are grateful to live and work in our supportive hometown and recognize the many forces that came together to put the fire out without injury or loss of life. Special appreciation to our local fire department for calling in the right help and seeing it through to the end. Watching all those firefighters at work was truly an awesome sight.

One-Year Fairgrounds Ban Upheld for Lee Ann Literal

COLUMBIA COUNTY COMMISSIONERS UPHELD JULY SUSPENSION AFTER MONDAY HEARING

THE TIMES

DAYTON—On a 2-1 vote, the Board of Columbia County Commissioners on Monday upheld a one-year ban from the Columbia County Fairgrounds for Dayton resident Lee Ann Literal, following an administrative hearing.

Literal appeared at the hearing with her attorney, Mona Geidl, to address the county's assertion that she was consuming alcohol during a celebration of life memorial service at the fairgrounds on July 21.

County Facilities Maintenance Director Dave Finney imposed the ban on July 23 after two incidents in which Finney claimed Literal was in violation of fairgrounds rules of use.

On July 5, Literal was cited for hit-and-run after she rolled her vehicle into a set of bleachers outside a barn at the fairgrounds. After consulting with Deputy Prosecuting Attorney Dale Slack, Finney drafted a first offense citation and warning letter to her.

Literal is scheduled to appear in Columbia County District Court on Oct. 16 for a hearing on the hit-and-run charge.

On July 21, Finney reported that he saw Literal in possession of a beer on fairgrounds property, at the conclusion of the memorial service. He also claimed in his report that Literal appeared to be intoxicated at that time.

During the hearing, Literal strongly denied both claims. Several others testified on her behalf that she had not been drinking.

Literal said she received a letter from Finney on July 23 saying he saw her in possession of and consuming alcohol at the fairgrounds. The letter went on to say she had already received one warning for the bleacher incident, and he was notifying her she would be suspended from the fairgrounds for the duration of one year, and that she had 48 hours to vacate the premises.

After Monday's hearing, Literal said she will definitely file an appeal.

LETTERS

MARK CRIDER FOR SHERIFF

Dear Editor,
My professional law enforcement career has been spent patrolling the highways of the great State of Washington. Twenty-five of my 33-and-a-half-years with the Washington State Patrol have been spent serving and protecting the citizens of this great county. Being a Walla Wallan is, literally, in my blood. My uncle, Art Klundt, was Sheriff of Walla Walla County for 16 years. His son, my cousin, Kenneth, was Sheriff for four years.

I was born and raised in Walla Walla. In my 56 years, I've had both successful and failing attempts at law enforcement in this county. That's why I can say without a doubt that Mark Crider is one of the most professional and qualified law enforcement experts I have ever had the privilege of knowing. Mark has a calm demeanor to handle any situation that may arise. His background in the United States Navy as an aviator and the FBI makes him the most qualified candidate running for our next Sheriff. I hate hearing that he isn't from here, or that he is John Turners right hand man. Mark Crider is, and always has been, his own man. He has a lifetime of experience to share with the Walla Walla County Sheriff's Office. In today's society we are seeing an increase in crime and the increased presence of illegal drugs. In addition, gang activity is growing throughout our communities. Mark has the law enforcement training, resources, and connections to continue to provide top notch training to the Deputies to combat these serious issues.

Some people believe that I am only involved in the Sheriff's election so that I can have a job. I have a job; I love being a State Trooper. But after 33-plus years, I feel I can bring so much to the Sheriff's Office. With my connections to the Washington State Patrol, I have access to bring training to the Sheriff's office at no cost to the County taxpayers. Between Mark and I, we have over 55 years of law enforcement experience in all aspects of firearms, self-defense, patrol, collision investigation, impaired driving detection, warrant service, drug interdiction, criminal investigations, gang investigations and executive protection, just name a few.

Experience and qualifications matter in the position of Sheriff. Please vote to make Mark Crider the next Sheriff of our great county!

Joe Klundt

GREAT EXPERIENCE AT THE FAIR

Dear Editor,
Dain and I would like to thank everyone who stopped by the "Nysoe for County Commissioner" booth at the recent Columbia County Fair. It was great to be on the main fairway to see and greet so many people. The weather was perfect, and while Dain was busy listening to people express their thoughts about problems in the county, I had a fun time giving out honey sticks with little notes on them saying "BEE WISE, VOTE FOR NYSOE" Some of the kids came back many times, getting a handful for their "brother," and that was great because we had hundreds of them to give away. We were also happy to be able to assist people to register to vote if they needed help. But probably the best reward of being at the fair, were the small children. After asking their parent, we offered them a big, red, helium balloon and you should have seen their faces! Big smiles of approval as we tied the string to their wrists. You could tell, we had just made their day.

What I observed as first-time superintendent of the produce entries in the pavilion is there is no lack of dedication by community members. My part was very little compared to the dedication and hard work of people like Rose Englebright and Donna Hanger. These two ladies worked long hours, with little sleep! They were amazingly patient and still managed to have a sense of humor! They are just two the unsung heroes that continue to make the Columbia County Fair a success!

All and all, it was a great weekend. Dain and I enjoyed every minute of it and would not trade our experience of seeing and talking to so many people. Now we realize why Dain's heritage stretches back more than four generations—Columbia County is a truly great place to live because of the people.

SUPPORT URGED FOR NYSOE

Dear Editor:
I write urging readers to vote for Dain Nysoe as Columbia County Commissioner.

As noted by previous writers, Dain Nysoe is uniquely qualified by his education, his leadership in economic development, and by his keen perspective on our county as a fourth-generation resident. To get things done as a county-level leader today, these factors are necessary and important. And so is character.

I know Dain well. As cousins, we grew up together on what was a larger Donohue farm during the 1950s and 60s. We hauled hay, drove trucks and tractors, harvested wheat, laid irrigation pipe and chased after cattle on horseback.

From our parents and our grandfather, Dewey Donohue, we learned to take the initiative, to work hard, be honest with people and tight-fisted in financial matters. These characteristics, along with creative thinking and persistence, describe Dain Nysoe today.

In November, we have an opportunity to elect experience, leadership and character. Vote for Dain Nysoe as County Commissioner (District 3).

SUPPORT URGED FOR EVERETT MAROON

Dear Editor,
Please elect Everett Maroon to represent the 16th Legislative District in Olympia. A 1992 graduate of Syracuse University, he is devoted to public service and is eminently qualified to serve.

Before moving to Walla Walla, Maroon was the lead manager for ORC Macro's Interface Design and Evaluation Group, responsible for the transition of many public health and health research systems to the internet. In 2003, he won the company's Employee of the Year Award.

Maroon is now the executive director of Blue Mountain Heart to Heart. Under his tenure, BMHTH has increased its budget from under $200,000 a year to more than $500,000 a year, and from three employees to eight. A national leader on the opioid crisis, Maroon attended the 2006, White House Convening on Opioids. He is the Principal Investigator for Southeast Washington on the current Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration effort to improve distribution of naloxone, an overdose reversal drug, across the region. Part of a statewide contract, this effort has reversed more than 1,500 overdoses in two years.

Maroon is the co-chair of the Greater Columbia Accountable Community of Health's Opioid Demonstration Project. He is on the Walla Walla County Department of Health Finance Committee.

Please support Everett Maroon, a caring, capable candidate!

BOOKER RESIDENTS' TRIP TO FAIR A SUCCESS

Dear Editor,
This is a letter of thanks and acknowledgement. We staff members at Booker Rest Home were overjoyed with how our wonderful community pulled together to help our residents.

On Friday, Sept. 7, BRH (Booker Rest Home) was able to take 21 residents to the Columbia County Fair. This was an unprecedented number of residents to go on an outing. This feat would have been impossible without the support of the Columbia County Fair Board. The Fair Board accommodated the various needs of our residents and staff to make this a successful outing. Columbia County Transportation staff went above and beyond. They busted their tails off helping to get all of our residents to and from the fairgrounds safely. Other members of the community who helped make this possible were some wonderfully caring students from Dayton High School, and residents' family members. They volunteered their time to visit with the residents and show them the sights that the fair had to offer. I'm not sure if those students know the impact that holding a hand, visiting, and just spending time with our residents had on them, but the sheer joy that we witnessed on their faces was priceless.

With so many stories of things going wrong in the world today, this experience was a shining example that there are still caring people. From all of us here at BRH and CCHS, we thank you!

CAROLYN HENDERSON: TALK ABOUT ART

Organic, Dynamic Ceramics

Long before there were machines, there was – and still is – the human hand. And as miraculous and wonderful machinery is, it does not begin to compare with the creativity of the hand, impelled by the human heart and brain.

For Portland potter Dave Raynalds, ceramic plates, platters, and even globes, benefit from the direct interaction of clay and hand. Raynalds specializes in a technique called slab-built ceramics, which involves hand shaping clay – as opposed to using the pottery wheel – into its finished form.

“I prefer the spontaneous, loose, lively and organic shape that slab building can give,” Raynalds says.

A professional cabinet maker for more than 30 years, Raynalds explains that he takes a woodworker’s approach to working clay, because many woodworking tricks translate well to slab-built ceramics. There is an added benefit of clay over wood however:

“If you cut something too short you can add more clay and move on.

“Clay also lends itself to more organic shapes than wood. This appeals to me because complex shapes and curves can be generated very fast, as opposed to wood.”

And the shapes are complex indeed, embellished by innovative glazing, texturizing, and graphics, all of which ensure that each piece Raynalds creates is distinctly unique, unlike any other pottery piece on the planet.

Raynalds is presently showing a collection of his work at Wenaha Gallery, in a special art event that runs through November 3. The gallery, located at 219 E. Main Street in Dayton, is open 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., Monday through Saturday.

“I can’t tell you how pleased we are to accept this,” he said.

The Powell brothers met with Anita Baker to tour the house and learn more of their own family history. In 1874 William Bruce and E.L. Powell formed a partnership in the general merchandise business. Powell later went on to be associated with the Preston Brothers.

“He was quite a guy,” said Anita Baker of Powell’s ancestor.

“We don’t do much, we look good and have our pictures taken,” insists the eldest brother Pierce Jr who, at 80 years old, is walking history.

“I was in Germany in 1963,” recalls Pierce Jr., “I watched De Gaulle and Eisenhower shake hands.”

The Bruce Mansion complex tour takes about an hour and features many clothing and furniture donations from local families which, together, complete the historical context of the impressive mansion’s heyday.

“You’ve done amazing things,” noted Frank of the Historical Society’s restoration efforts. “Yeah, I like what you’ve done with the place,” the Powell brothers agree.

Photographs of the farmers at harvest in the Wilson-Phillips House exhibit got Barney Powell’s attention, because of his interest in farming history. “I enjoy seeing the evolution of machinery,” he said, “from a plow and horse to these gigantic machines we see today.”

The tour is available by appointment only. Those interested in touring the museums can make an appointment by calling 509-337-6157 or by visiting www.waitsburgmuseum.org.

DW Gets Big Win at White Swan, 38-6

NEW QB AND FOCUS ON RUNNING GAME IGNITE DW OFFENSE

By Ken Graham | THE TIMES

WHITE SWAN—The Dayton-Waitsburg football team got its first win in over a year Friday night, swamping White Swan on the road, 38-6. The win came as coach Troy Larsen shuffled his offense, focusing almost completely on the running game.

Brayden Miller switched from receiver to quarterback and found success leading the running attack. Another former wide receiver, Chris Andrews, moved to the backfield as well.

In all, DW rushed for 320 yards in the game.

“We had a lot of student athletes wanting to change the way this season is going,” said Larsen. “Brayden Miller switched to QB and managed a great game as the signal caller.”

After a scoreless first quarter, Miller led the offense to three running touchdowns in the second, to take a 22-0 halftime lead. Freshman running back Damien Johnson started things off with a 60-yard TD romp, followed by a two-point conversion run by Miller. Miller picked up two more running touchdowns, of 15 and three yards, to build the halftime lead.

In the third quarter, on his only pass attempt of the game, Miller hit Cason Nichols for a 57-yard touchdown. Johnson punched in the two-point conversion.

In the fourth quarter, Andrews picked up a touchdown on an eight-yard run, and then scored his second two-point conversion. DW led 38-0 at that point.

“Chris Andrews switched from WR to RB and had a fantastic game, darting for 87 yards and scoring a TD, while the offensive line stepped up against a big White Swan team to rush for over 300 yards,” said Larsen.

“I also want to praise the defense for stepping up and keeping White Swan out of the endzone on a couple of first-and-goal opportunities in the first half,” Larsen added. “The defense is starting to figure it out.”

For the game, Johnson led the rushing onslaught with 188 yards on 19 carries. Andrews carried the ball 14 times for 87 yards, and Miller ran for 24 yards on six carries. Former QB Lash Larue ran for 21 yards on six carries.

Nichols had DW’s only catch of the game for a 57-yard TD from Miller, on his only attempt.

DW is now 1-1 in Eastern Washington Athletic Conference play, and 1-2 overall. They travel to Medical Lake Friday for a non-league game, and then host Mabton on Sept. 28 in Dayton for this year’s homecoming game.

has served in her church, quilted, and read to first graders at the elementary school. She has served in PEO, on the Dayton Historic Preservation Commission, and in the Elizabeth Forrest Day Club, all the while improving her home and yard.

Mayor George has been equally busy for the past 17 years. “It seems like he is going to meetings all the time,” said Kathy George.

Mayor George said he had been attending city council meetings when then Mayor Bill Graham let him know about two upcoming vacancies on the council. He ran and won a seat, serving for four years, before being elected mayor in 2007.

As Dayton’s mayor, George has been active in the Association of Washington Cities. He was the AWC president in 2014 and served on its board until last year. Because of his connections through AWC, Dayton is more familiar to people throughout the state, and their response to Dayton is very warm, he said.

“That makes it feel like it’s worth it,” he added.

George is also a senior warden at Grace Episcopal Church. He is active in Dayton Kiwanis and he serves on the County’s Civil Service Commission, as well as on the executive board for the Columbia County Public Transportation System.

He said there have been many accomplishments since becoming mayor, especially since the city was able to form a Transportation Improvement Benefit District.

“Together with the city council we have really been able to upgrade our infrastructure, particularly street work, over the years,” he said. “We have been successful in getting grants from the state, and that’s a combination of the council and the staff working together.”

He also pointed to the success of the city’s dog park, which he attributed to Christine Broughton on the city council, and the Friends of the Dayton Dog Park.

“You go up there now and there is usually always somebody up there,” he said.

“I think another thing is in the last few years there have been more county/city partnerships than there were before,” George said.

George said future planned city improvements include fully automated sprinklers in the city park, and a new state-of-the-art wastewater treatment facility.

“We have continued to grow because if you stay steady you are going to fall back. It seems like each year we have been able to get a little bit more done,” he said.

“It kind of goes back to three things people want: their trash picked up, their toilet flushed, and they want water, and we have been able to keep that going,” George said. “I think it’s a great little town and that makes you feel good.”

Mayor George’s current term expires at the end of next year. When he resigns, a mayor pro tem will fill the remainder of his term. A new mayor will be elected in November 2019.

Newspaper Archive Unlocks History Mystery

MICHAEL PECK FOUND A 1948 TIMES STORY ABOUT HIS BIRTH FATHER'S DEATH BEFORE HE WAS BORN

By Brianna Wray | THE TIMES

WAITSBURG—In spring of 1948, The Waitsburg Times published a succinct article about a 24-year-old male who was killed in a motorcycle accident. Little did they know at the time, there was more to the story.

Fast-forward to the contemporary Times. Our Waitsburg office recently received a phone call asking if our archives were available for the perusal regarding one of Waitsburg's lost sons. Our physical archives are bound and well-worn, as they are regularly referenced for our Pioneer Portraits feature. Therefore, we require the wearing of gloves for their protection.

The voice on the other end, belonging to Michael Peck, of Warden, Wash., was more than happy to oblige. Peck said he was searching for information about his birth parents, who had lived in the Waitsburg area.

In 2014, the Washington Legislature passed a measure granting adoptees 18 and older access to their original pre-adoptive non-certified birth certificates, unless a birth parent files a contact preference form indicating that he or she does not want the information released. Peck explained that since neither of his birth parents filed a contact preference form, Peck was able to retrieve his original birth certificate.

With the certificate and the help of a friend, Peck found his biological mother. Her original name was Dorothy Roy, then changed to Gallaher. She eventually died as Dorothy McHargue.

"I had applied to see her," Peck recalls, but the courts turned me down." Unfortunately, Dorothy passed away in 2014 before Peck obtained his birth certificate, but her obituary was a step in the right direction toward finding his family roots.

In it, Vicky Davis, of Dayton, a sister-in-law he didn't know existed, was listed. "I found and contacted Vicky on Facebook. I wasn't sure if she'd respond, but I left my phone number and, to my surprise, I got a phone call the next day. I told her the mother's name. And before I could say anything else she said, 'you're my brother.'"

Having the mother's name doesn't necessarily guarantee the father's. Fathers only appear on birth records if they were married to the mother and the information was provided at the time of birth. If they weren't married, additional paperwork would have needed to be done before the adoption was finalized for them to appear on the birth record.

Vicky didn't know the father's name, but she knew the story. Michael was given up for adoption by his mother because of the trauma and stigma faced by a teenaged widow in 1948. She was just graduating high school when her boyfriend, college student William Hart, died.

Rather than face an uphill battle as a single mother, Dorothy offered Michael a chance at a happier life. Michael's adoptive parents were always forthcoming with information about his personal history, but Michael never cared much about finding his biological family in his youth. "When I was young, I was a cowboy," explained Michael, "my grandfather had a ranch and I did a lot of work then. But the older I've gotten, the more curious I've become. This is a search 40 to 45 years in the making, off and on. It's been a process. I'll be 70 this December."

After much searching, Peck found the original article, published in The Times on April 23, 1948:

Brother is Killed in Cycle Accident

William Hart, 24, brother of Jerald Hart, was fatally injured in a motorcycle accident near Nampa, Idaho, Friday evening, where he was attending college. The cycle exploded, causing fatal burns and skull fracture. Another boy following on his motorcycle suffered burns in attempting to rescue Hart from the flames. Hart was taken to a hospital where he died early Saturday morning.

Surviving are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jess Hart of Walla Walla, and one brother, Jerald Hart of Waitsburg. Another brother, Gordon, was killed in a plane accident a year ago. Funeral services were held Tuesday at the Nazarene church in Walla Walla, with interment in Mountain View cemetery.

Upon further digging, this reporter located Michael's paternal grandmother, Lucy Hart, whose obituary was printed in the May 9, 1986 edition of the Union Bulletin. In it, it is mentioned that Lucy was preceded in death by her three sons Gordon, Jerald and Billie (William). So all three sons met a tragic fate. But the future looks bright for Michael Peck.

Vicky plans to introduce Michael to more family. Once things settle down, they'll finally get to meet.

"One half-brother is working on harvest, another is away on a hunting trip," explained Michael. "They might accept me, they might not, but I look forward to reaching out."

If anybody has more information relevant to this story, please contact Michael Peck, tinkermike@hotmail.com.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING BOARD OF COUNTY COMMISSIONERS

WALLA WALLA COUNTY, WA

Notice is hereby given that the Board of County Commissioners will hold a public hearing at 11:00 AM on Monday, October 1, in Commissioners' Chambers, Walla Walla County Public Health and Legislative Building, 314 West Main, Walla Walla, Washington to receive public testimony and consider, pursuant to Walla Walla County Code Chapter 14.15, action or decision on the following proposal which is on the 2018 Final Docket of Comprehensive Plan and Development Regulations Amendments.

ZCA17-004 – Abeja Winery Type III Winery Zoning Code Amendments

Proposal by Abeja, LLC. to amend Chapter 17.08 – Definitions and Chapter 17.22 – Development Standards – Wineries and Breweries to establish a new definition for 'Type III Winery': A Type III Winery would be able to provide overnight accommodations (i.e. a country inn). Under the proposal, a Type III winery could have accessory uses that would include but are not limited to a restaurant, catering facility, banquet and meeting rooms. Amend Section 17.16.014 – Permitted Uses Table to make Type III Winery a conditional in the Rural Residential Mill Creek 5 (RRMC-5) district.

On September 5, 2018, the Planning Commission voted 5-0, with one member abstaining, to recommend that the Board of County Commissioners approve the amendments as presented.

Written comments regarding these amendments may be submitted prior to and at the hearing on October 1. This is the final opportunity to comment; written comments will not be accepted after the public hearing is closed on October 1. Send written comments to one of the following addresses:

TEENY MCMUNN: MY RECIPE BOX

Whoopie Pies

You know what a Whoopie Pie is, don't you? I thought everyone knew, but I thought everyone knew what a Pecan Sandie was also. I was wrong.

Here is what the web said: "The whoopie pie is a U.S. baked product that may be considered either a cookie, pie or cake. It is made of two round mound-shaped pieces of chocolate cake, or sometimes pumpkin or gingerbread cake, with a sweet, creamy filling or frosting sandwiched between them"

I received a recipe in my email, using Red Velvet cake mix, with the filling being marshmallow crème.

There was a recipe in the Ruralite Magazine using marshmallow cream and blueberries. I noticed their recipe for the cookie part differed slightly from the recipe on the web. I used their cookie recipe, as it added an extra egg and flour to the cake mix, but another recipe added butter and powdered sugar to the marshmallow cream, perhaps making it even sweeter, but easier to spread. So I went with it.

INGREDIENTS:

- 1 box Red Velvet cake mix (18.25 oz)
- ¼ c flour
- 1/3 c. water
- ¼ c. vegetable oil
- 3 large eggs

DIRECTIONS:

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Line baking sheets with parchment paper. In a large bowl, combine cake mix, flour, water, oil, and eggs. With an electric mixer, beat at medium speed until smooth, about two to three minutes.

Scoop the batter by rounded tablespoons onto prepared baking sheets two inches apart, to make 24 cookies. Bake until puffed, about eight to 10 minutes.

Let cool on the baking sheets for two minutes, then move to wire racks.

FILLING:

- 1 stick soft butter
- 1 cup powdered sugar
- 2 cups marshmallow cream
- 1 tsp vanilla

Beat butter and powdered sugar until fluffy and smooth, add marshmallow cream and vanilla. Put one to two tablespoons on flat side of cookie, adding another on top, completing the sandwich.

MY NOTES:

Well for one thing, I forgot to add the vanilla! Those small jars of marshmallow cream are, I'm guessing, a bit more than a cup. I didn't want to open another one and have part of one left, but I guess I should have. I cut the butter in half, guessed at the powdered sugar, and used one small marshmallow cream jar. If I do it again, I will use what the recipe calls for, but my first batch was flat and undercooked, so I didn't fill them.

My second batch, which the picture shows, turned out fine. I had a different cookie sheet and baked them for about 13 minutes. They should puff and be firm to the touch. Thankfully, my household includes someone who will eat the no-so-perfect baked goods!

I also noticed that the bottoms don't get a crust and come out much like the bottom of a cake, which makes sense

So my kitchen had red cake mix and sticky marshmallow cream all over, which makes for good licking. As noted in the quote, any flavor of cake mix can be used.

ENJOY!
