Cardinals win after dramatic forfeit

The football season ended before halftime on Friday, November 3, in Waitsburg against St. John-Endicott (SJE).

THE TIMES

WAITSBURG — After stopping the SJE Eagles on the opening kickoff, running back Brenton Segreaves got the Cardinals on the scoreboard early with a sweep around the outside. The defense continued to stop the Eagles on each of their possessions, including a defensive touchdown by JJ Gleason. Behind big plays by quarterback Isa Reyes, running backs Cyson Morris and Koyen Fortune, and big pass plays by Blake French and Jayce Gleason, the Cardinals led 38-0.

With about two minutes left in the second quarter, the Eagles gained momentum. They were within 10 yards of the endzone when a Cardinal and an Eagle player were ejected for head-butting each other.

Two plays later, the SJE quarterback's helmet slipped position during the tackle and came back down, breaking the player's nose. According to Coach Gabe Keifel, the Eagles' coaches charged the field, spewing profanities, got flagged, and were ejected. The SJE athletic director informed the referees that the Eagles were forfeiting the game. They quickly left the field and loaded the bus for home.

"It was a strange way to end the season," said Keifel. "I have never seen anything like it."

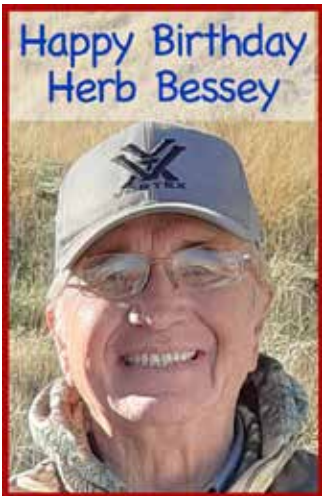

For Senior Night, the four senior football players, Blake French, Jayce Gleason, Cyson Morris, Reuben

Yutzy, and senior cheerleader Abbi Paolino, were recognized before the game with their families.

"I can't help but feel as though our players got bilked out of their final half of the season. They didn't get a full final game, and the younger players who would have gotten a lot of playing time with the lead we had, missed their chance to get in the game," he added.

The Cardinals ended the season with a 5-5 record competing in a new league, playing a new game (8-man football), and with new coaches.

"I would like to thank our coaches, Dane Kiefel, Greg Crenshaw, Matt Hamilton and Lash LaRue. They made coming to practices and games so smooth. They worked their tails off. Lastly, I would like to thank my wife and family for their support. Football season always gets busy, and I am lucky to have a supportive family that understands the commitment," said Coach Kiefel.

Sherwood Trust awards $102,000 to local organizations

Waitsburg's RYES and Cardinals Nest programs are awarded Impact Grants.

By Lane Gwinn | THE TIMES

WALLA WALLA — Sherwood Trust is awarding $102,000 in Impact Grants to eight organizations serving local communities, said CEO Brian Hunt. Impact Awards support youth, community outreach, and recovery programs. The competitive grants are available to organizations that have not recently received Sherwood Trust funding.

"To support equity in our grantmaking, we want to make sure we are learning from organizations that have not applied or received Sherwood Trust funding," said Hunt. "This year's Impact grants were an opportunity to focus on building new relationships."

2023 Impact grants were awarded to the following:

- $15,000 to Abundant Life Childcare, www.abundantlifechildcare.com, to support its effort to establish licensed childcare in the Waitsburg area.
- $15,000 to Cardinals Nest, www.waitsburgsd.org/page/cardinal-nest, to support its growing after-school program in Waitsburg.
- $15,000 to Citizens TV, <http://citizenstvwww.com>, in Milton-Freewater to support technology upgrades for its affordable access to out-of-area television stations.
- $15,000 to Northwest Public Broadcasting to support its "Explore Together/Exploremos Juntos" for Walla Walla Valley youth.
- $10,000 to Rhizome, <https://www.werhize.org>, to support civic service fellowships for youth in area schools.
- $12,000 to support organizational development for Rural Youth Enrichment Services (RYES) <http://www.ruralyes.org>, in rural Walla Walla County.
- $15,000 to Walla Walla Area Crime Watch, <http://www.wvacw.com>, to support its outreach, graffiti abatement, and community education programs.
- $5,000 to Walla Walla Community Change Team, <https://www.wvcommunitychangeteam.com>, to support art for recovery and resilience.

"Equity, diversity, inclusion, and anti-racism are central to Sherwood Trust, and these grants support that work," said Sherwood Trust Board President Kazi Joshua.

"We're excited that in this round of grants, we've had applications from organizations we have not worked with in the past," Joshua said. "It is our hope that this will encourage other organizations who have not worked with Sherwood Trust to consider doing so."

Sherwood Trust previously awarded $1 million in grants from its spring Core grant program. Its 2024 grant cycles will be announced in January.

Waitlist open for new childcare center in Dayton

By Lane Gwinn | THE TIMES

DAYTON —YWCA Walla Walla will open the waitlist on for its new childcare center, RoseMary's Place, coming to Dayton in Columbia County.

The waitlist for the YWCA-operated childcare facility will open promptly at 7 a.m. on November 15, 2023, at ywcaww.org/rosemarys/. Families in Dayton, Waitsburg, and neighboring areas needing childcare services this spring are encouraged to make note of this date and add their names to the list. The center is set to officially open its doors on April 1, 2024, and the first names on the time-and-date stamped list will be offered the first chances to apply for the 40 available spaces.

The childcare center will be located in the renovated Booker Rest Home facility on the Columbia County Health System (CCHS) campus. It is the result of a collaboration led by Shane McGuire, CEO of CCHS, and Tabitha Haney, longtime Dayton resident and YWCA Director of Childcare.

The CCHS has taken on the cost of renovations, and YWCA will operate the center. Significant help with the YWCA's startup costs for equipping, furnishing, and staffing the center has come from community grantors.

"We are incredibly grateful for the support from Sherwood Trust, Wildhorse Foundation, and Columbia REA. Their generous grants totaling more than $250,000 make them important partners in providing these vital childcare services to our community," said Anne-Marie Zell Schwerin, YWCA Executive Director.

Tabitha Haney emphasized the impact of the grants on the children. "The grant money will provide tools the kiddos need to thrive, like safe cribs for infants, tiny tables for the toddlers, and a reading corner for preschoolers," she noted.

YWCA Walla Walla believes investing in early childhood education is crucial for building a prosperous community. Families who join the waitlist will have the first opportunity to enroll at RoseMary's Place for the planned opening in April 2024.

More information about the center, including the waitlist link, is available at ywcaww.org/rosemarys/. Those without internet access can pick up forms, available at the Columbia County Health Department or the Dayton and Waitsburg libraries on November 15, to submit by mail.

CCHS is remodeling the Booker Rest Home facility in preparation of the YWCA getting the keys in December.

DAYTON SCHOOL BOARD REORGANIZED ADMINISTRATION

By Justin Jaech | THE TIMES

DAYTON — The Dayton School Board met in the high school library at 6:30 p.m. on November 1, 2023. School Board Chair Jeffrey McCowen, members Zac Fabian, Aneasha Dieu, Grant Griffin, and Interim Superintendent Rich Stewart were present.

After approving the consent agenda, the Board interviewed Ryan Paulson for the vacant School Board position. Paulson was the only applicant and answered several questions from the board members. The Board approved Paulson's appointment after an executive session. He will be sworn into office at the next meeting scheduled for November 7, 2023, at 7 p.m. Paulson is the Public Works Director for the City of Dayton.

The Board discussed the administrative model for the school district following the planned departure of Stewart next year. A decision is necessary before the board can begin the search for Stewart's replacement.

Washington State does not allocate adequate funds for a full-time superintendent and two full-time principals for districts with Dayton's enrollment. The current model is for a part-time superintendent, two full-time principals, and a dean of students. The Board discussed an alternative with a full-time superintendent, a single K-12 principal, and a dean of students.

Part of the discussion was whether a search firm should be hired and what its duties be. Stewart suggested a search firm's responsibilities be limited to background checks on candidates and perhaps assisting in contract negotiations.

At the end of the public meeting, the Board approved seeking a full-time superintendent to serve with a full-time K-12 principal. In addition, the Board will conduct its superintendent search without using a search firm.

Though not discussed at the public meeting, the change to the administration would affect the two principals. It is possible that the Board is considering one as the K-12 principal and the other superintendent.

The meeting adjourned at 8:11 p.m. The next Board meeting will be Tuesday, November 7, 2023, at 5 p.m., where the discussion topics will be to determine a potential Capital Levy amount and to prioritize facilities projects.

CWWFD # 2 HONORED WITH GESA CREDIT UNION'S LOCAL HEROES GRANT

By Lane Gwinn | THE TIMES

Waitsburg — Columbia-Walla Walla County Fire District # 2 received a Local Heroes Grant of $10,000 from the Gesa Community Foundation. The CWWFD #2 purchase new radios for the department with the funds. The radios will be used to outfit new volunteers and replace existing aging radios.

"Gesa is honored to support the Local Heroes in our community whose selfless dedication and unwavering commitment betters the lives of those across Washington," said Don Miller, President and CEO of Gesa Credit Union. "We are inspired by the remarkable efforts of CWWFD # 2 that continue to make a positive and lasting impact, and we're thrilled to honor their work with our Local Heroes Grant award today."

Gesa's Local Heroes Grant Program awards grants to organizations, including firefighters, healthcare workers, law enforcement, teachers, and veterans. This year, the program recognized 42 local organizations. Since launched in 2021, it has awarded over $1,000,000 to 108 organizations across the state.

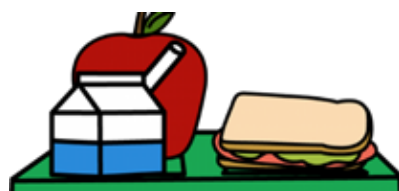

"As the demands increase in almost every fire jurisdiction across the country, our service area's demands grow as well," said Matt Spring, Captain/Commissioner CWWFD#2. "We continue to find new and additional ways to fund and support the members of our department. Purchasing new radios with this grant money will outfit several members with on-scene communications, increasing their safety and effectiveness during incidents. Our number one goal is service to the community and safety of our volunteers. We as a department thank GESA for supporting our mission of protecting the community."

$50,000 RAISED FOR NEW WAITSBURG POOL; PROJECT KICKOFF EVENT IS NOV. 16

THE TIMES

WAITSBURG – This year’s efforts by Waitsburg Friends of the Pool and the Parks and Recreation District to replace the city pool are ending on a high note. With over $50,000 raised, the project’s feasibility study can begin.

Results from the September Waitsburg Parks and Rec community survey showed a new pool was the top priority for 60% of respondents.

“Energized by the survey results, Waitsburg Parks and Recreation District had a goal to get the pool project off the ground by the end of the year, and we are ecstatic we can take this step forward for our community,” said Wendy Carter, Waitsburg Parks and Recreation District commissioner. “We could not have done it without our partners, the Friends of the Pool, and the generous donations from businesses, community organizations, and local families.”

The district will use the funds to hire an engineering and environmental firm to complete a feasibility study to see if a pool can be rebuilt at its current location. If not, a second site will be studied.

To celebrate, the Friends of the Pool is hosting a Pool Project Kickoff from 6-8 p.m. on Nov. 16 at The Royal Block. The community (21+) is invited to celebrate the work of the volunteers and the generous support of over 100 donors who made this happen.

The event is free to attend; small bites will be provided, and there will be a no-host bar. Come early to bid on select silent auction items including:

- A one-night stay for two and a special wine tasting at The Royal Block
- Dinner, drinks and dessert at the Dozier Ranch hosted by Sen. Perry and Darleen Dozier
- Mayor Marty Dunn’s Dream Yard Service
- Fire station birthday party, complete with birthday cake and dunk tank, donated by the Waitsburg Firefighter’s Association and the Waitsburg Parks and Recreation District
- And more

Children can be dropped off at Kids Night at the Plaza Theater during the event. Supervision will be provided by Girl Scout Troop #5381.

“Waitsburg needs a pool,” said Karen Huwe, co-chair of Friends of the Pool. “Our children need to learn how to swim, and our seniors need a local spot for low-impact exercise. Waitsburg has been without a pool for three years and we collectively have felt the void. We hope the community is proud of what has been accomplished in the past year, and we hope everyone will stop by the Pool Project Kickoff Event to celebrate and dream about what it would be like having a pool back in Waitsburg.”

Those wanting to donate to the pool project can do so on the Rural Youth Enrichment Services website at ruralyes.org. Donation checks can be written to Friends of the Pool/R.Y.E.S. and mailed to Rural Youth Enrichment Services, PO Box 371, Waitsburg, WA 99361. Questions, comments or volunteers should be emailed to info@waitsburgparks.org.

WAITSBURG SIREN WILL BE TESTED FOR FLOOD PREPAREDNESS

By Lane Gwinn | THE TIMES

WAITSBURG — The City of Waitsburg will test the flood siren on November 11 at 10 a.m. The siren is located on the Weller Public Library roof and sounds at noon on weekdays. For the test, the siren pattern will be continuously sounded for a long time to be determined by the operator.

City Council and Community Health & Protection Committee member Jillian Henze said residents should use the flood siren or other alerts to ensure family members and animals are safe. If conditions warrant, people in the affected areas should head to higher ground or evacuate the area. There is a city flood control plan available at www.cityofwaitsburg.com/flood-control.

For more information, residents are encouraged to attend the Community Health and Protection Committee meeting on Tuesday, Nov. 14, at Waitsburg City Hall. For Zoom go to <https://tinyurl.com/yc3frht5>.

HAUNTING IN WAITSBURG SCHOOLS

By Karen Huwe | THE TIMES

WAITSBURG — It was a scary time in the Preston Hall gym on Monday, October 30 for those who dared to walk through the haunted house.

With the leadership of Waitsburg staff member, Dusty Wirtzberger, the gym was transformed into five rooms featuring scary clowns, a chainsaw madman, ghosts, goblins, and creatures with glowing green eyes.

Numerous adults and students hung black plastic from the balcony to create a maze for attendees to venture through. The decorations were scary, and there was a cry or two from young children during the non-scary hour between 4:30 and 5:30 p.m. After 5:30, the lights were turned off, and goblins made a few older children run in fear. For a five-dollar donation, you could go through the haunted house as many times as desired.

Outside Preston Hall in the parking lot, students had the opportunity to “trunk or treat” and enjoy pizza offered at $2 a slice. Hopefully, the haunted house will be an annual event as it was well attended and spooky fun

Around the Valley: With Karen Huwe

Ready, set, throw

In March, my sisters and I took a basket weaving class at The Refinery in Walla Walla. At that time, I saw people using the pottery wheel, and in my Around the Valley article about our basket-weaving class, I said, "I can see the clay flying as I speak."

On Saturday, October 28, we decided to give the pottery wheel a spin. Our instructor, Jess, met the sisters in the studio for a two-hour session. We signed up in September to reserve our spots, as only six pottery wheels exist.

We took seats by the wheel and covered our legs with a towel as we assumed the clay would be flying. Jess started from the beginning, telling us the parts of the wheel, the tools we would use, and the speed we should use while creating our projects. The wheel uses a pedal similar to a sewing pedal.

After clear instructions, we put clay on the wheel bat and got the wheel spinning. We soon found out how wet to have our hands and how much pressure to put on the clay to mold it. Like any handmade art object, each project turned out a little differently. One might look like a bowl, cup, or even a Harry Potter hat.

Esther, Sandra, Janet, Joan, and I had a great time learning to "throw" clay, and it did not go "flying" as I thought it would. After the initial step-by-step project guided by Jess, we had the chance to make another project on our own. It was a fun day at The Refinery. Check out the website to take a class at refineryww.com. Ready, set, throw.

(top left) The finished projects all look a little differently. (top right) The author's project on their "messy" wheel bat. (bottom right) Jess was very helpful "fixing" projects.

Gains and Losses

By Vicki Sternfeld-Rossi | THE TIMES

We changed the clocks last night or officially at 2:00 a.m. Does anyone set their alarm at 2 to change their clocks and watches? I know I don't. Thank goodness most things are automatic these days. I remember days gone by when it took at least an hour to change all the clocks, the VCR (remember those?), the answering machine, and my watch.

This is the time of year we gain the hour we lost in Spring. But are we gaining an hour? It will still get darker earlier; the days will feel shorter, making me feel lethargic. Mugsy (like all other dogs, cats, hamsters, etc.) has no concept of daylight savings. He will wake me up at his usual time, bug me to go out, and then wait for his breakfast. I have no chance to feel I've gained an hour.

I am also attending the last day of tennis camp. This is probably my fourth camp, and I finally see gains in my tennis game. In fact, one of the camp's coaches, who had given me some advice on my serve, commented that it now has more power, speed, and accuracy. I proved to him (and myself) that you can teach an old dog new tricks. But I probably lost more money paying for the camp than I've gained in serving skills.

The camp kept us in constant motion, which is good for burning calories. So, yes, I have lost a pound or two. I have gained aching muscles, a corn on one toe, and the realization that, despite my improved serve, I can't beat the twenty-year-olds. Gaining confidence is good, but a dose of humility has its place.

I'm still eating the Peanut M&Ms and Dots left from Halloween. I am sure I will regain the pounds I lost on the court. Thankfully, Advil is non-caloric because that has been my appetizer and dessert every day.

Another benefit of attending tennis camp is making new friends; this year was no exception. Many came from Portland or Seattle, but some are local and will join our Monday, Wednesday, and Friday morning tennis games when possible. So, another "tick mark" in the gain column.

Lately, with camp, clock changes, clients, and life in general, I often think I may lose my mind. I am constantly looking for my keys and iPad, but mostly my phone. I must add 10,000 steps daily as I run around the house looking for it. The good news is that I am gaining on my friend's number of steps, even if it is a pathetic way to compete.

There is a poem I was recently reminded of by Elizabeth Bishop, "One Art." The first line is, "The art of losing isn't hard to master; so many things seem filled with the intent to be lost that their loss is no disaster." It ends with, "It's evident the art of losing's not too hard to master although it may look like (Write it!) like disaster."

My losses, thankfully not disastrous. Although an hour gained in winter doesn't compensate for the hour lost in Spring, I do anticipate the gains in the garden after another year of learning, trial and error, and maybe even good weather.

Wine of the Week

Soos Creek 2021 King Cab Cabernet Sauvignon

By Paul Gregutt | THE TIMES

Soos Creek's Dave Larsen sources Cabernet from some of Washington's A+ vineyards, and his sturdy, dense wines are built to age. But with this King Cab, he's given a special gift to less patient wine lovers. It's a single vineyard Horse Heaven Hills Cabernet at a supermarket price. The blend includes 15% Merlot, which helps to soften the tannins. There's an interesting sweetness here – not from fruit or sugar, but more like the sweetness of fine tobacco. This is a classic Washington Cabernet with black fruits, sandalwood, toasted walnuts, and tannins with a firm streak of espresso. A super bargain, worth hunting for.

Ten Years Ago

On November 8, 1899, a 30-foot high arch draped in patriotic colors stood in the center of Waitsburg's Main Street. A bell – brought from the Philippines – hung from the center of the arch and was rung continuously by a boy dressed as Uncle Sam and a girl dressed as Columbia. A crowd welcomed home the soldiers of Waitsburg's Company K as they passed ceremonially beneath the arch before taking part in a town-wide celebration that included a banquet, fireworks, and a dance. On Friday, 87-year-old William "Bill" V. Hinchliffe will celebrate the 114th anniversary of that welcome home by speaking at a Veterans Day Assembly at Waitsburg High School. The story strikes a personal chord with Hinchliffe whose father, William Hinchliffe (no middle initial) was the last surviving Waitsburg veteran of Company K. In 1898, the 19-year-old William Hinchliffe lied about his age and volunteered with Company K to fight in the Spanish-American war.

Lifelong Waitsburg residents Sam Wills and Don Wills were among the numerous Waitsburg boys who went overseas during World War II and then returned to Waitsburg where they have lived and worked and are now spending their retirement. Both long-time fixtures in the community, Sam can be seen cruising around town in his red Chevrolet, "keeping an eye on things," and Don also putts around town in his Toyota pickup, making sure all is well at Ye Towne Hall, among other things. Last week Sam was saddened with the passing of his wife of 51 years, Ethel, 82. When the United States entered the war in December, 1941, Sam was working on the construction of the cannery here in Waitsburg, a place he would eventually spend his career working until retirement when Green Giant closed the facility in 1982.

Chicken Vesuvio

As with many famous Italian American recipes, the origins of Chicken Vesuvio are slightly shrouded in mystery. Named after Italy's infamous Mount Vesuvius, the dish shares many qualities to chicken preparations made around the Campania region for hundreds of years. Another possibility is that the recipe gets its name from Vesuvio, a famous restaurant in 1930s Chicago. Either way, it's clear to see why this homey dish of crispy roasted chicken and potatoes in a lemon laced white wine sauce has remained a classic.

Ingredients:

- 3 large russet potatoes
- 5 tablespoons olive oil, divided
- 1 ½ teaspoons dried oregano, divided
- 3 pounds bone-in, skin-on chicken thighs (about 6 to 8 thighs)
- Salt and fresh ground black pepper
- 4 tablespoons butter
- 6 to 8 garlic cloves, thinly sliced
- 1 cup chicken stock
- ½ cup dry white wine
- 1 cup fresh or frozen green peas
- Juice of one lemon
- Fresh flat leaf parsley, chopped, for serving
- Lemon wedges, for serving

Directions:

Preheat the oven to 425 degrees. Cut the potatoes in half lengthwise, then cut into 1-inch-wide wedges. In a 9-by-13-inch baking dish, toss the potato wedges with 3 tablespoons olive oil and ½ teaspoon of the oregano. Season with salt and pepper to taste. Spread the potatoes out in an even layer. Bake for 15 minutes then gently toss. Return to the oven and continue to bake until the potatoes are tender but still firm, and the edges are beginning to brown, about 15 minutes longer. They don't need to be totally done because they will finish roasting with the chicken.

While the potatoes are roasting, prepare the chicken. Season the chicken on all sides with salt, pepper, and the remaining 1 teaspoon of oregano. Heat the remaining 2 tablespoons of olive oil in a large skillet over medium-high heat. When the oil is shimmering hot, add the chicken skin-side down, working in batches, until the skin is golden brown, about 8 to 10 minutes. The chicken will not be fully cooked at this point, you will just be searing and browning the skin. Transfer chicken to a plate and set aside.

Turn the heat down on the skillet to medium or medium-low. Add the butter and garlic to the skillet, cooking until very fragrant and just starting to turn golden, about 2 to 3 minutes. Add the chicken stock and the wine to the skillet, raise the heat and bring to a simmer. Cook for 2 minutes, then stir in the peas and take off the heat. Taste and adjust seasoning, adding more salt or pepper as needed. Pour the mixture evenly over the roasted potatoes, stirring gently to combine. Place the chicken on top of the potatoes, skin-side up, along with any of the accumulated juices from the plate.

Bake until the chicken is cooked through, and the potatoes are very tender, about 25 to 30 minutes. If using a thermometer, the thighs should reach about 170 to 180 degrees. If needed, you could turn on the oven's broiler, and broil for a couple minutes to crisp the skin more. Remove pan from the oven and squeeze the lemon juice over the top, and sprinkle with parsley. Serve with plenty of the flavorful pan sauce over the chicken and potatoes, and crusty bread for dipping on the side. Extra lemon wedges are also lovely served on the side.

Notes:

Be sure to use a baking dish that is at least 9-by-13-inches to allow room for all the chicken and the potatoes. If needed, you could divide the recipe between two baking dishes.

This week, I served this cozy dish with a side of sauteed spinach and a loaf of crusty, Italian-style bread.

Enjoy.
