Broken Lock to Be Fixed by September 30

By GREAT WRITER | THE TIMES

The goods transport and vessel crisis due to a broken lock at the Bonneville Dam along the Columbia River now has an end date. According to the Portland District of the Army Corps of Engineers the Bonneville navigation lock will return to service, allowing vessels to pass through the lock, beginning 10 a.m. Sept. 30.

"It's important to recognize the patience from our Columbia River users, who depend on this critical piece of infrastructure to run their businesses," said Portland District Commander Col. Aaron Dorf.

"This lock closure is significant, which is why our engineers, experts and contractors are working tirelessly to ensure we get the locks back in service as quickly as possible. It is not lost on anyone in the Portland District that this outage has tremendous impacts to Columbia River users," he said. "Between now and Sept. 30, our teams will be working around the clock to construct the new sill to restore Columbia River traffic."

DAYTON CITY COUNCIL UPDATE

September 11, 2019

By Michele Smith | THE TIMES

DAYTON—There was no unfinished or new business at the Dayton City Council meeting last week.

The majority of the meeting time was spent addressing a letter written by Dayton residents Chuck and Peggy James about the alleged lack of qualifications of the City's new Planner, Meagan Bailey, and the allegedly poor conduct of the City's Administrator, Trina Cole, when Ms. James reached out to her by phone, the first week of September. The James' letter was published in the Dayton Chronicle on Sept. 12.

Councilman Mike Paris said, "I was appalled when I saw the letter and the things that were said. It was a character assassination, as far as I was concerned."

Paris said he was in the office at the City Hall when a phone call between Cole and Ms. James took place. He said he never heard Cole saying anything out of line. "She finally got frustrated to the point that she said she was going to talk to an attorney, and I don't blame her," Paris said.

Former City Councilwoman Kathy Berg said, "It's deplorable to make accusations about people you haven't met . . . there is a very negative current in the city, right now, and it is very sad to see individuals make such callous comments, mostly because of vicious hearsay."

Supporters of Bailey and Cole were many and they included; Kari Dingman from WDFW and the Port's Economic Development Coordinator Kathryn Witherington, both of whom serve on the Dayton Planning Commission, the Port's Executive Director Jennie Dickinson, Mike Smith, Chairperson of the Historic Preservation Commission, along with the Dayton City Council, and the Mayor, Zac Weatherford.

"As far as hiring Meagan, I made that decision," said Mayor Weatherford. He said a committee was formed with representation from the Public Works Department and the planning committee, and included the deputy clerk.

All three applicants for the position were extensively interviewed by the committee, and they were all treated equally, he said.

"I have faith in Meagan. I think she will do a great job for the city and I hope she is very successful here. I think Trina does a good job for the City, and I will back her," he said. "I will back all my staff unless they give me a reason not to," Mayor Weatherford said.

Chuck and Peggy James, who were at the meeting, presented the council with what they said was a revised letter.

Ms. James said, "If we don't say anything, if we don't ask questions we never hear the answers and that's all we were doing."

The James' daughter, Cara, is running against incumbent Dain Nysoe in the November General Election.

County Commissioner Ryan Rundell congratulated the City for hiring Bailey on a full time basis. Bailey had been splitting her time between the county and city.

Mayor Weatherford thanked the Board of County Commissioners for their support and expressed the desire to continue their good working relationship, to which Commissioner Rundell replied, "We do, too."

Other city council news

Mayor Weatherford read a letter from Dayton resident Art Hall about some public health concerns he has around the smell and the number of flies coming from a commercial refuse collection semi-truck parked close to his property every Sunday. Brenda Hall and Johnny Johnson also talked about the issue.

Mayor Weatherford said their complaints have been forwarded to the Code Enforcement Department. "It is something we are definitely looking into," he told them.

Resident JJ Dipple asked if the council is following up on some issues she has had with fireworks during the 4th of July. Councilman Dain Nysoe said the Safety Committee has not yet met. "We'll be meeting and we will be glad to get back to

PIONEER PORTRAITS

Ten Years Ago September 24, 2009

Almost one-third of W.H.S. has flu. Listen up, class. Today's lesson is about acronyms and the first example (cough) is ILLI, which stands for "Influenza-Like Indicators." For example, as of last Tuesday, 31% of the students attending Waitsburg High School were absent from school and were self-reporting ILLI.

A four-week project to replace inadequately sized water lines along West Fourth Street should be getting underway sometime next week. The Waitsburg City Council, at its Sept. 16 meeting, gave Mayor Markeeta Little Wolf the option to approve a winning bid without the need for a special council meeting - if bids received are in order, indicate there was "good" competition and pricing was reasonable.

Twenty-Five Years Ago September 15, 1994

A black bear that may have been ill was shot by two hunters on property just outside the Waitsburg city limits on Saturday, Sept. 10. Lynn Mings, 47, and Ethan Carpenter, 16, both of Waitsburg each shot the bear at least once with their 7mm Magnum rifles, they reported.

Dr. Jonah Freedman, who has been the physician at The Waitsburg Clinic for less than a year, is leaving the practice of medicine to take, what he called "a prolonged break from providing medical care, after 25 years of active practice."

Joe Sr. and Winnifred McCown of Waitsburg have been named "Pioneers of the Year" for 1994 by the Waitsburg Historical Society. They were to be honored in person at the Fall Festival this Sunday, Sept. 18. However, the best laid plans often go astray when health problems arise.

Fifty Years Ago September 18, 1969

Jack and Nancy Otterson will open the Plaza Theatre this weekend for the fall season. Shows will be held Friday and Saturday night starting at 7 p.m. The first show scheduled for September 12-13, will feature a family fishing story filmed off the coast of Africa entitled "Wild Season."

If you ended up last Thursday afternoon (about 1:45 p.m.) jumping halfway out of your skin when three jets held a fly-by, relax. It was nearly all local talent. Madison Jones and Bob Collins, former Waitsburg residents, were taking part in a flying exercise for the Washington Air National Guard. They flew down from Spokane, paid their salute to Waitsburg, and then zipped to the Yakima firing range where they got a little exercise in the use of weapons. We planned to get a picture, but they went over kinda fast.

Miss Colleen Collins has been pledged to Delta Delta Delta social sorority at Washington State College and Miss Phyllis Anderson has been pledged to Kappa Delta.

City councilmen ordered several bicycle racks at their meeting Wednesday night so that there will be a systematic parking of such vehicles on the downtown streets.

Mrs. Henry Roberts PTA president announced committees for the coming year. A report was made that hot lunches are being served to 120 per day and that the new refrigerator had arrived for the hot lunch room.

One Hundred Years Ago September 26, 1919

Struck by the 6:20 O-WR&N train as their auto attempted to cross the track at the McCaw crossing Wednesday W. D. Wallace was instantly killed and Millard H. Keiser died a few minutes later from his injuries.

R. W. Leid well-known farmer and who owns a fine ranch on Coppei Mountain completed Tuesday the threshing of 80 acres of fall wheat and 150 acres of barley. His wheat - Jenkins Club - a sheaf of which was sent to this office is exceptionally fine this year and with hardly a trace of smut. He reports that from sack measurement the yield averaged 52 bushels per acre which is by far the heaviest yield reported in this season.

One Hundred Twenty-Five Years Ago September 21, 1894

J. H. Mitchell sold a quantity of wheat hay at six dollars per ton delivered at Waitsburg recently.

Those parties who have been amusing themselves by shooting J. D. Laidlaw's ducks are warned to "let up" at once or take the consequences. A word to the wise is sufficient.

J. E. Eaton has resigned his post as president of Whitman College and Rev. S. B. L. Penrose has been elected to that position.

LETTERS

In comment to the negative letter in the Dayton Chronicle on 9/11/19

Miss Bailey is qualified for the position of City Planner She was the most qualified out of the several applicants for this job. Also, would the county have hired an unqualified planner? She has proven to the city to be above and beyond excellent in our dealings with her. One of the best planners we've had in my 19+ years on the council. She does NOT have big west side ideas like some people are spouting about. She is taking this job very seriously. Sometimes people don't like the answers they get about planning, but that doesn't always mean it can't somehow be worked out. It would be interesting to know where you got the idea that she isn't qualified??? You certainly have lots of opinions about many things that it takes a degree to know. Maybe a lot of hearsay...maybe a lot of sour grapes...

It is all well and good to come in and ask questions, the staff is happy to answer question, but when you don't like the answer and in "some cases" keep coming in bullying, then it's not ok.

Our Administrator has been a treasure for Dayton. In the last 12 years we have become financially stable. We have become a better educated council because of her. She and the staff are kind, compassionate and some of the best women I know. She cares about our city more than some of you who consider yourselves "experts on how they should do their jobs correctly." Our office staff is top notch I couldn't ask for a better group of people to work with. It is deplorable to make accusations about someone you have never met. If you were attacked at your job, because you didn't give the answer that the public wanted, whether it be a public servant or any other job, I doubt that you would sit back and take it.

The last time I looked, Dayton was still a kind, caring giving community.

If the statement that your neighbor heard from our Mayor is indeed the truth, well I pretty much imagine it was taken out of context, because I heard our respected Mayor George make a similar comment once and it was with a certain amount of jest, but with a great deal of admiration for our office staff.

Our appointed Mayor is very qualified and has taken city council very seriously in the past several years he has been on the council. He asks questions, he isn't a pushover, and he makes educated decisions. He doesn't base his job on listening to hearsay. He's taken time to go to a small workshop for AWC for Mayors to learn more from other mayors of small cities. This is something that mayors don't do until elected.

It has recently become apparent that "a few" people in our community feel threatened by smart educated women with jobs of significant importance. If it were a man in the same position, I don't think this would even be an issue right now.

How does this speak to our smart educated daughters who may like to work in this community?

There is a very negative undercurrent in this city/county right now and it is very sad to see "a few" individuals make such callous comments about our city and county employees mostly because of vicious hearsay. Hearsay from people who haven't done a blasted thing to make it a better place, but to try to tear it apart.

Which brings me to say that if you moved to Dayton and Columbia County or anyplace else that you picked...why did you move there? To change it? This community has been doing very well for many decades with upward thinkers who have made it a better place. They have made it a place to be proud of and have put Dayton on the map. With volunteers who have worked to save the downtown and county historic buildings and we are reaping the benefits from that. Dayton could have dried up without these passionate individuals. The golf course is a treasure. Many people who choose to move here are retired and love our quaint golf course as well as out of town guests who also help our economy. The Friends of the Pool are doing a great job with possibilities for the future. The Touchet Valley Trail will be a very nice addition to our community. It was well thought out by many qualified people in several adjoining communities with economic development and quality of life at its core.

This is a cry out to those of you who see danger in this negative undertone to stand up for our beautiful city and county. Please ask questions if you don't understand and consider the answers, but please don't let these few toxic individuals poison our town and county. It needs to be a pleasant place for everyone.

Sincerely,
Kathy Berg
Former Dayton City Council and Chamber of Commerce Member

Dear Editor:

The Touchet Valley Trail public meeting in Dayton Sept 16 was great. The Port of Columbia and Waitsburg Commercial Club put together informative presentations by staff, planners and technical experts and the audience was receptive. I enjoyed encountering and discussing more issues and answers than I expected to hear about because citizens who wanted evidence of intense due diligence got it. The trail is a complex project equal to any major infrastructure investment providing important outcomes to our communities and this is the kind of forum necessary to ensure as much public input as possible. Details matter, our diverse industries and professions require them. A few heated exchanges in small groups after the main presentation as people mingled and studied printed information affirmed that they are paying attention and really care about where this project is going, expressing healthy self-interests as well as watching out for the greater civic good. And I heard a lot of thoughtful conversations and friendly laughter, not a simple achievement these days. It all keeps moving forward with more scheduled events coming soon. I don't want to miss any of them.

Volunteer opportunity: Waitsburg Historical Society

By Dena Martin | THE TIMES

While nearly all communities depend on volunteerism in some form or another, I don't think it's an overstatement to say that small towns like Dayton and Waitsburg would fail to function without the concern and dedication of the many volunteers that help keep them running. In this monthly column, The Times will highlight local volunteer opportunities in Waitsburg and Columbia County.

With the annual Pioneer Fall Festival just completed, it seems appropriate to highlight the Waitsburg Historical Society, the group who successfully organized the popular community event for nearly 50 years.

Like many local groups, the Historical Society is in need of younger volunteers to assume responsibilities, or lend a hand, to those who have been volunteering for decades.

"We are in dire need of volunteerism. The people who are there work really hard, but we need new blood badly," said President Tom Land.

"And we're all wearing five hats. It can't continue," added Treasurer and Corresponding Secretary Susan Donegan.

Land said there are about a half-dozen active volunteers.

Donegan said they would love new members who would be active throughout the year, but said the group is more than happy to accept whatever time and skill donations are available.

She said the group would welcome help setting up or tearing down before and after the fall festival, help with marketing and with keeping the website and social media updated. Marketing for the Fall Festival was listed as a top need

"We understand if people don't want to commit to a year-long commitment of being on the board. But if people are willing to step up on these one-off projects that they can do on their own time and can do virtually from the comfort of their own home, we can put them to work," Donegan said.

"If someone has a skill or talent such as carpentry or painting and let us know they are willing to do a project that takes x number of days or x number of hours, we would find something for them to do," she added.

Land said there are always ongoing maintenance and upkeep needs at the museum buildings. Currently, an old printing press housed in a building downtown needs moved to the museum where it can be assembled.

Donegan said the Historical Society is putting together a list of docents who are willing to take visitors on a tour of the Bruce House Museum. She said the tour is scripted, so docents are not required to memorize the information.

"If we have a large list, no one has to do it more than once or twice during the whole season," Donegan said. "If someone is willing to do it even once a season, that's great. We'll take that and won't call them again."

Current board members are President Tom Land, Vice-President Richard Hinds (who is on sabbatical), Treasurer/Publicist/Membership/Corresponding Secretary Susan Donegan, Recording Secretary Anita Baker and Curator Margaret Terry. Linda Hermans helps with textiles and organizes the annual vintage fashion show and Mary Phillips helps with many of the W-P house rotating displays.

Land does the bulk of the grant writing and said he would gladly accept help writing and searching out grants.

The Society just received a $2,500 grant for archival supplies through the Warren Fund. They also applied to the Wildhorse Foundation for the first time and received a $6,000 grant to paint the upper story of the Wilson-Phillips house.

"We're very grateful for that," Donegan said.

The Historical Society is funded through membership fees and has two permanent endowment grants, the Hevel and Ganguet funds.

"We are trying to establish a long-term endowment fund as a memorial to the Broom family, but that is only about halfway funded and we haven't reached the minimum for it to be activated yet," Donegan said.

Donegan and Land asked that community members consider the Broom endowment fund when doing their estate planning. All funds are managed directly by the Blue Mountain Community Foundation.

Donations of all kinds; financial, time and skills are all welcomed, they said.

"Tell us how much time you have to dedicate to something or let us know of a special area of interest and we will find something for you to do," Donegan said.

The navigation lock was closed on Thursday, Sept. 5 after lock operators detected problems with the lock during operation.

Engineers "dewatered" the lock Sept. 6, performed an inspection and discovered that the downstream concrete sill, a structure against which lock gates to create a water-tight seal, had cracks.

The Corps then closed the lock to vessels on the river.

According to the Portland District engineering team, the damage they observed was unusual, and the periodic inspections of the dam, last performed January 2017, did not reveal any abnormalities.

Work on the lock will include demolition, drilling holes for rebar, forming the new sill structure and allowing time for the concrete to cure.

Northwest Grain Growers CEO Chris Peha said the closure of the Bonneville Dam is not affecting his growers directly as NWGG is absorbing the transportation breakdown by utilizing the newly built shuttle loader in Endicott, WA. He said they have also made arrangements with their exporters to address shipping needs. This breakdown, Peha said, "Is all a part of doing business along the river."

The 110-car shuttle loader in Endicott, was completed in November 2018, with RailWorks Northwest as contractor and Washington State Department of Transportation providing $1 million in funding. The new rail line connects to the new grain elevators that were built on the site, including seven new shipping tanks and a half-million-bushel tank, bringing their total storage on site to more than three million bushels.

Despite Northwest Grain Growers' work-arounds, Scott Clemens, Pacific Northwest Waterways Communications Director, defined clear cut impacts related to the closure: "Barge line representatives say that over 100,000 lbs. of product are stranded above Bonneville Dam, and at least one terminal downriver says it may be difficult to fill orders beyond about Sept. 20. We are also hearing from upriver ports that there will be serious impacts from the loss of river cruise visits; one port estimates over 1,500 cruise boat passengers will not visit because they can't get there, causing a loss of at least $500,000 in revenue to the community."

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers' Portland District is posting information about this outage at <https://www.nwp.usace.army.mil/Locations/Columbia-River/BonnevilleLockStatus/>, and on their Facebook feed at www.facebook.com/PortlandCorps you," he told Dippel.

Mayor Weatherford said, at the first of the year he and the Planning Director will be reorganizing council committees, to align them with sections in the City of Dayton Comprehensive Plan, which will provide for an improved and stronger focus.

Public Works Director Jim Costello said Allen "AJ" Walker has been hired in that department for the Sunday through Wednesday shift.

Costello said he has met with Anderson/Perry & Associates regarding the E. Clay St. project and a tentative plan has been made for the area between E. 7th St. and E. 8th St. He said the project has gone out to bid.

"I want to make sure everything underneath the street is good before we go and put a bunch of money into resurfacing them, or completely rebuilding them," he said about E. Clay St.

Jonathan M. Wainwright Memorial VA Medical Center to hold annual POW/MIA Recognition Day event

THE TIMES

WALLA WALLA—On Friday, September 20, the public, Veterans, and their families, are invited to come and honor former POWs and remember the MIAs for Walla Walla VA's annual POW/MIA Recognition Day event at the Walla Walla Veterans Administration at 77 Wainwright Drive.

The colors will be presented by the Washington State Penitentiary Honor Guard at the beginning of the ceremony, and Walla Walla VA's Associate Director for Operations, Mr. Ray Crawford, will provide opening comments. This year's special guest speaker is Mr. Robert Brudno, whose brother, Alan Brudno, an Air Force F-4 Phantom pilot, was shot down over North Vietnam. Robert will share how he and his family's lives were changed forever as a result.

A special feature of this remembrance event is the Missing Man Table & Honors Ceremony. A small table is placed in a prominent area. This "empty table" is a way of symbolizing the fact that POW/MIA, or 'brothers' are missing from the gathering. The lonely table honors their memory and their sacrifice. The table set for one is small – symbolizing the frailty of one prisoner alone against his oppressors. To close the ceremony, an honor guard performs Amazing Grace as a folded flag is placed on the table.

After the event Walla Walla VA's Voluntary Service will provide a light lunch, cake and drinks.

Columbia Pulp Has Steam

By Tracy Thompson | THE TIMES

STARBUCK—The startup process for Columbia Pulp continues, with the business announcing on Friday, September 13th that contractor All-north Engineers signed off on mechanical completion of the pulp mill, and that general contractor PCI has completed their work and exited the site.

Work on the boiler continues, with steam blow outs taking place this week. Once the steam blows have been completed, the steam turbine will be commissioned and the mill will commence making pulp. "This feels very much like startup now," said mill spokesperson Eleanor Specht.

According to John Begley, Columbia Pulp CEO, "Steam blow out is an ongoing process which means cleaning out everything inside the boiler. It takes a couple of days to get rid of the dust and debris inside the boiler, and once we are done with that, we will begin tuning the turbine, which is what generates the power - to run the rest of the operation. We expect to be doing partial tuning of the turbine in a day or two." Said Begley.

The next phase after that? "Start making pulp." Begley continued.

Begley is assembling his customer base for the two products the mill produces, the straw pulp and the biopolymer film. "We have a number of trials lined up with customers and developing that product fit will be an ongoing process over the next few months." Begley said.

When asked how he felt at this stage of the process, Begley said, "It's pretty exciting - it's been a long time coming to get to this phase. We're in the last phases of the construction - the next phase is ongoing operation."

THE COUNTY PUBLIC HEALTH DEPARTMENT RELIES ON GRANTS TO PROVIDE IMPORTANT SERVICES

DAYTON—Columbia County Public Health Administrator Martha Lanman said $1500 is all it would take for 28 students enrolled in the Starbuck School District to have lunch prepared by the Dayton General Hospital dietary staff and have them delivered four days a week for the entire 2019-2020 school year. That number is based on a cost of $3 per child, and all lunches meet the state requirements for nutrition, said Lanman.

Last year lunch was delivered to Starbuck schools, twice a week, and this was largely due to the efforts of the Columbia County Health System, and its employees, who donated to the program, as well as the public health employees who have been working with the Starbuck School District to secure funding for the program.

The public health department has also been working to meet deadlines to apply for possible state school lunch funding for next year, Lanman said.

She said the Starbuck School District recently received a $5,000 award from Columbia REA to make some needed repairs in the kitchen so it can be used by the school, and by the community.

Lanman said the goal is for the repairs to be made by March 2020, when the next round of grant funding for the school year 2020-2021 begins.

Other public health news

Columbia, Garfield and Asotin counties have received a combined total award of $92,000 from the Washington State Health Resources and Services Administration for planning in the areas of telehealth and care coordination, Lanman said.

Blue Mountain Counseling, Dayton General Hospital, Garfield County Hospital, Quality Behavioral Health, in Asotin County, and Tri-State Hospital, in Clarkston, would benefit from the grant, she said.

"The big picture is to see what telehealth services would work in all three counties, and to fill the gaps in care," she said.

Lanman said Jan Strohbahn has been hired by Columbia County Public Health Department as the project coordinator. Strohbahn will be looking into telehealth services as well as making services more efficient.

Waitsburg Area Farm Welcomes New Type of Music Festival

By Tracy Thompson | THE TIMES

“Our goal was to welcome people to a beautiful location, where they can listen to great music and experience a sense of community,” said Cheryl Hansen, owner of Stella’s Homestead, the site of last weekend’s Huichica festival. That goal was reached this past Friday and Saturday with the launch of this small scale family friendly festival. A dozen indie rock and folk acts performed, appearing on two stages.

The scenic location along S. Fork Coppei Road is now an event space on what was the historic Hansen wheat and cattle farm, established by Jim and Geraine Hansen in 1947. The farm once included over 14,000 acres in production; sale of the farm property took place in 2007. Hansen operates two vacation rentals on the property and was interested in finding new sources of revenue.

The Huichica experience began in Sonoma Valley, where winemaker Jeff Bundschu coordinated with music promoter (((folk)))Yeah! Productions. A sixth-generation resident of his family’s vineyard in Sonoma Valley, Bundschu welcomed the first festival to his family’s property as a way for people to experience a sense of community as well as the uplifting experience of the beauty of its natural surroundings. (((folk)))Yeah! Production’s ties to the independent music scene allows them to carefully curate each festival, presenting “top caliber musicians who are very friendly people playing very friendly music.” Bundschu noted.

Cheryl Hansen began preparing for the festival in earnest in January, tackling the family’s circa 1938 barn as her first project. Hours of labor unearthed some family treasures, including hand painted combine covers, the pews from St. Mary’s Catholic Church, and a set of hand-carved window shades buried beneath a pile of rubble. The hours of work transformed the barn into the intimate small stage for the festival. Family history surrounded the festival-goers, with historic signage and tools decorating the walls, and a hand-penned label for a long gone 4-H steer’s pen still visible. Barn performer Marisa Anderson commented, “It’s so lovely for people to share their family spaces, it’s precious.”

Community connections came into play to bring the festival to town, beginning with Bundschu’s stint as a panelist at a Taste of Walla Walla, where he first intrigued fellow winemaker Trey Bush of Sleight of Hand Cellars with the concept. Bush reached out to Walla Walla Roastery’s Thomas Reese, a Wa-Hi classmate of Hansen’s, who encouraged Ms. Hansen to visualize her property as a music festival location.

Attendance at this first festival was modest, with approximately 550 music lovers coming from far away as Uganda, Milan, and Norway, and as near as Walla Walla. Plans for another event are under consideration.

The festival also welcomed local vendors La Monarca Tacos, Bright’s Candy’s, Andrea’s Kitchen, the Maple Counter Cafe and Walla Walla Roastery. Gundlach Bundschu Winery, Vital Wines and Sleight of Hand Cellars brought a diverse portfolio of tasty wines, with Walla Walla’s Quirk Brewing offering their hand-crafted beer.

Walla Walla Superhero Run

Caped crusaders avenge for a good cause

By Brianna Wray | THE TIMES

WALLA WALLA—Tights and capes were out en masse at the Walla Walla Superhero run held Saturday Sept. 14.

"I think the people helping with traffic safety are all superheroes," said event organizer Nancy Walters. The event, hosted by the Walla Walla County Traffic Safety Coalition, supports WWCTSC programs that was well attended.

Nancy Walters

"At least 78 people pre-registered, about 100 by opening," said Walters. And even as the races were getting underway, more heroes emerged from phone booths and sport utility vehicles.

While most of the superheroes are general do-gooders, door prizes and refreshments got them motivated and kept them energetic throughout the early morning event. The weather was fair, with just enough of a breeze to keep a cape aloft.

College Place Police Chief Troy Tomaras announced the superhero costume winners.

"We've been secretly judging you looking at your costumes," Tomaras said and thanked Amy Harris from Walla Walla Police Department, who helped with costume judging.

It was decided that Captain Mom Laura was Most Likely to Have Real Powers because moms obviously do. Best Sidekick was awarded to the wee Wonderwoman Emma.

Wonder Woman Victoria was a unanimous vote for Best Costume. "She is all in, you guys," Tomaras said, "she's got props."

Jill George was Most Likely to be a Villain, "so look out for her on the trail," Tomaras warned the other runners jokingly.

The Team Participation Award went to the Sheriff's office. Walla Walla County Sheriff's Sergeant Ryan Allen, Deputy Ben Olson, Corporal Kevin Maas, Deputy Federico Diaz, and Chief Deputy Richard Schram not only ran the 5k in their uniforms, but also superhero regalia.

Schram was also voted Most Likely to be Mistaken for a Superhero. Tomaras called for a round of applause in their honor then Captain America, Superman, Batman, Deadpool and the Flash took off.

"Now if we could get the villain to run out in front of you, that could give you some motivation." Tomaras then recommended stretching. The 10k team kicked off the event with runners looping around Rooks Park and Bennington Lake.

5k walkers and runners began west of the registration area, ran east along creek, then cut off to Rooks Park parking area. Participants made their way through the lot to the path, then back to trail along the creek, finishing at a fantastic rainbow balloon arch.

The one mile course began at Tausick Way. Walkers headed east to first bridge, crossed and then returned to the finish line where they were greeted with snacks and refreshments.

Walla Walla County Traffic Safety Coalition works to implement county wide programs that promote safe driving through community efforts and partnerships.

The superheroes race to support other WWCTS programming as well.

"Proceeds from the Superhero Run go toward car seats, the bicycle program and impaired driving program," Walters said. The DUI victim memorial walkway, sign project and impact panels as well as the Every 15 Minutes program, Child Passenger Safety Team and Topsy Taxi service all continue to enrich the community with help from heroes.

DW FOOTBALL DROPS NON-CONFERENCE GAME TO MCCALL-DONNELLY

By Eric Umphrey | THE TIMES

Dayton—The DW Cardinals hosted the McCall-Donnelly Vandals Friday September 13th in a non conference matchup. Initially this game wasn't supposed to be on the schedule but McCall-Donnelly had a late cancellation. Head coach Troy Larsen was happy to get another home game on the schedule even against an opponent other area teams weren't willing to play. DW would lose by a score of 68-0 but that doesn't tell the whole story.

The Vandals are a division 2A team from Idaho currently ranked 4th in the state while Dayton-Waitsburg is a division 2B team. The Vandals opened their season against another 2A team who they beat 63-6. They've tied for first in their league for the past three seasons in a row. The Vandals JV team traveled to a 3A JV team this season and won 20-16. While it is difficult to lose a game like this I was impressed with the boys and the coaching staff. The team didn't quit and the game didn't get chippy like you so often see in a game like this.

Out & About: Aboard the African Queen

By Brianna Wray | THE TIMES

WALLA WALLA—A pair of great blue heron walked by on spindly legs as we pushed off from the boat ramp at Bennington Lake on this, our fifth adventure aboard the African Queen.

Gifted to us by Grandma Jo Shay, our inflatable raft seats three and came outfitted with reel holders and oar holders as well as a dry-bag. Grandma, in her infinite wisdom, also included life jackets and a patch kit in case we ran into anything too sharp. So far we haven't had to use the patch kit, thankfully, but as life jackets are mandatory, we've gotten good use out of those.

On our first few trips we used a plunger-style air pump to inflate each of its three chambers and two cushions. It takes a bit of time even with three of us taking turns, but was a good workout especially earlier in the season when sunset was closer to 9 p.m. That pump broke and now, thankfully, we have an electric air pump with a car adapter. It is a little louder, but much faster.

We're scooting off from shore in no time.

That leaves us more energy for paddling practice. And practice you must if you don't want to mistakenly drift into the Intake Tower just east of the boat ramp. It's fenced off by barbed wire which is inflatable boat kryptonite.

Obstacles avoided, we paddle out to the deeper water. The shore of Bennington Lake is flat on two sides, then meanders, offering hidden vistas. Along the north end, the lake narrows to a view of spectacular driftwood.

In addition to the great blue heron, we spotted a deer buck at the water's edge, a doe hiding back in the trees, a turtle and two frogs as the full moon rose over the Blue Mountains.

Mill Creek Dam and Bennington Lake is a flood risk management project that uses an off-stream storage reservoir (Bennington Lake) to store water during a flash flood event, while offering stunning views, recreation and exercise opportunities.

Bennington Lake came to be from a spark in the early 1900s when public concern over the frequent flooding of Walla Walla prompted Virgil B. Bennington, then President of the Walla Walla Chamber of Commerce, to lobby the U.S. Congress for flood protection. Development of Mill Creek Dam system was authorized in the 1938 Flood Control Act.

The improved Mill Creek channel and off-stream storage reservoir were completed in 1942. Previously the body of water was referred to as "pool," the "Mill Creek Reservoir" and "Mill Creek Lake, but in 1992 the reservoir was officially named Virgil B. Bennington Lake.

Bennington Lake provides a beautiful place for people to be outdoors without having to leave town.

This off-stream reservoir has a maximum storage capacity of 8,300 acre-feet at elevation 1265, with a 5 foot freeboard. In the spring, water is diverted from Mill Creek to Bennington Lake to mitigate the risk of flooding.

Being the only public lake within 45 miles of the city of Walla Walla, Bennington Lake is a popular fishing spot.

The lake is stocked in the spring with rainbow trout by the Washington Department of Fish and Wildlife. A fishing license is required and fishing limits apply. We've yet to fish from the African Queen. I'm nervous to cast a metal hook from an inflatable vessel. It's just asking for trouble. We'll leave the casting to Honeybee.

Boating on the lake is limited to paddling, rowing, wind power, or vessels with electric motors. No gas engines are allowed on the water at any time. This policy protects the lake from unwanted pollutants associated with gasoline-operated motors and provides maximum space for vessels compatible with the lake's small size. The policy also effectively keeps the lake peacefully quiet.

The rhythmic sloshing of oars cutting into the surface of the water is soothing. So that's it. We're boat people now.

Picnic tables, shelters and restrooms are available for land lovers. Park benches and shelters along the trails provide resting areas to enjoy views of the lake and the Blue Mountains. There is also a life jacket loaner board, ranging in sizes from youth to adult, to help keep everyone safe on the water.

Deer are regularly spotted exiting the trees to drink from the lake. Hunting is permitted around Bennington Lake in the areas designated on the map posted in the Info station.

The Bennington Lake area is open year-round 5:00 a.m. to 10:00 pm. See you out there!

Mill Creek Channel

About 5,000 feet of the Mill Creek channel is federally operated and maintained. The locally operated portion of the channel begins at the Mill Creek-Bennington Lake unit and extends six miles through the city of Walla Walla.

Mill Creek Dam

The dam is an earthfill structure with a heavy gravel face located in a drainage off of Mill Creek. The dam is 800 feet wide at the base, 125 feet high, 20 feet wide at the top and 3,200 feet long at the crest. A 2260 foot long concrete cutoff wall extends 2 feet into bedrock.

BRIANNA WRAY: MY RECIPE BOX

Sweet Potato Pie & Sweet Potato Cheesecake

Now that summer has dropped off into a very abrupt fall, it's time for warm cozy comfort foods, and more importantly, pie. I had a few delicious bites at the Pioneer Fall Festival and now I want more. And even though national pie day is March 14, it's never too late to celebrate.

Usually when I make pie filling, it's done by feeling, or by random amount of fruit I happen to have on hand. I end up with too much filling for one pie, but not enough for two and thus how the sweet potato pie and cheesecake alliance formed.

Sweet Potato Pie

Ingredients:

- 1/3 c shortening
- 1 1/2 c all purpose flour
- 1/2 tsp salt (shell), 1 tsp salt (filling)
- 3-4 tbsp cold water
- 2 sweet potatoes
- 2 yams
- 1/2 c brown sugar
- 1/4 c melted butter
- 1 tsp nutmeg
- 1 tbsp cinnamon
- 1 tbsp vanilla extract

Directions:

For pie shell: Cut shortening into flour and salt until particles are the pea-sized. Sprinkle in water, 1 tbsp at a time tossing with fork until all the flour is moistened. Gather pastry into a ball. Sprinkle flour on work surface and roll out a 10-inch round of pie. Fold in quarters to transfer to pie pan. Preheat oven to 475 and press pastry into pan. Prick the bottom and side thoroughly with a fork and bake for about ten minutes. Allow crust to cool completely before filling. Lower oven temperature to 425.

For filling: Peel and cut sweet potatoes and yams into thick cubes and boil for about twenty minutes until soft to fork. Mash potatoes and combine with melted butter, brown sugar, vanilla extract, cinnamon, and nutmeg. Fill the crust and bake for about 40 minutes. Save leftovers for the next recipe!

Sweet Potato Cheesecake

Ingredients:

- Leftover filling from Sweet Potato Pie
- 1 1/2 c reg or cinnamon graham crackers
- 1/3 c melted butter or Earth Balance
- 3 tbsp sugar
- 5 (8 oz.) packages of cream cheese, softened
- 1 1/2 c sugar
- 1/4 c whipping cream
- 3 tbsp all purpose flour
- 1/4 tsp salt
- 3 eggs

Directions: For graham cracker crust: Pulse graham crackers in a food processor and combine with butter and sugar. Bake at 350 for 10 minutes. Allow to cool completely before filling.

For cheesecake filling: Beat cream cheese, sugar, flour, salt, whipping cream and eggs in a large bowl until smooth. Fold in sweet potatoes and pour batter into crust. Cover with aluminum foil. Bake for 20 minutes. Remove foil and reduce oven temperature to 300. Bake 1 hour. Turn off oven and leave cheesecake in for 15 minutes. Cover and chill before serving.

Notes: Now with two delicious desserts in hand, you can share one with a neighbor. Which would you keep?

FIRST TIME PIE-BAKER'S EXPERIENCE

I Did a Thing!

So I did a thing. At the Pioneer Fall Festival in Waitsburg there is a Pie Contest to raise money to support the city pool. Danielle was in charge of it and was worried that there wouldn't be enough pies so I said I would enter.

Now it's important to note that I have never baked a pie from scratch before. So I called upon my dear friend Kate, who is a master pie baker! I went to her house yesterday and she walked me through the whole thing, crust to filling, to oven. Then I helped her make her pies. Mine was Coppei Blackberry/Blueberry and hers was Heritage Apple.

I, which should be read We, won 2nd place!! And I learned that I can, in fact, bake pie!

Twelve pies were entered in the 5th Annual Laurette McCaw Pi-oneer Baking Contest, including two very young entrants at aged 6 and 12. First-place winner Stacie Alsup created a Blackberry Raspberry Pie, first-time pie-baker Kathy Kersey Carpenter surprised herself by winning second place with her Peach Blueberry Pie, while third place went to Jeanetta Monfort with a Peachy Praline pie. The Pie Auction following the contest was an exciting affair, with Vicki Rossi's Peach & Blueberry pie fetching $100. The auction raised over $600, all to support the Waitsburg Parks and Recreation Department swimming pool, including lifeguard and CPR training. Fair-goers thoroughly enjoyed purchasing pies, tasting samples and many could be seen wandering the lawn of the Bruce Museum with sample cups of fruity goodness.
